Violent Weather Rumbling Through Great Plains Area

By UNITED PRESS

Tornadoes rampaged through Wisconsin and two other states Friday, climaxing a spring weather onslaught blamed for more than 10 deaths.

A United Press count showed at least 11 persons had been killed in the vicious combination of twisters, rain storms and dense fogs.

Eight of the victims died in Wisconsin, one in a tornado, one by lightning, and two each in a plane crash, a motorboat sinking and on fog-shrouded roads. Three more persons died in Illinois smashups blamed on the fogs covering the Midwest Thursday night and Friday.

More tornadoes smashed through farmlands in Nebraska, Texas and Oklahoma, but no fatalities were reported early Friday night.

More Tornadoes

However, warnings of more possible tornadoes Friday night were issued for parts of five states—Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri. Heavy thunderstorms were also forecast for the tornado belt.

Two tornadoes traced their way across Wisconsin, striking in the Necedah and Burlington areas, and violent winds and rains raged elsewhere in the state.

Five miles north of Necedah, in western Wisconsin, a twister exploded a farmhouse and threw its owner, William Mellis, 60, 100 feet into a field. A neighbor found him dead with the back of his head crushed. The wreckage of his home was "scattered in little pieces over a five-acre field," the neighbor said.

Tore Off Roofs

Another twister cut through the Bohler's Lake area five miles south of Burlington, in the southeast part of the state. It tore the roofs from summer cottages and damaged buildings on at least four farms. A woman suffered a heart attack while watching the twister and was taken to a Burlington hospital.

Two Glencoe, Minn. residents were killed trying to make an emergency landing in a rain storm at La Crosse, in western Wisconsin.

An overpowering wind and rain storm drove through New Lisbon, Wis., overturning a shack housing Civil Defense headquarters and damaging television antennas. High winds damaged buildings in

British Send Ship Through Suez Canal

PORT SAID, April 19 (AP)—A British ship passed through the Suez Canal today for the first time since Britain and France invaded Egypt last November. It flew the "red duster," ensign of the British merchant marine, and there were no untoward incidents.

The 3,604-ton West Breeze emerged from this northern terminal and put out into the Mediterranean tonight.

An Egyptian Suez Canal Authority spokesman said the West Breeze was given the same treatment as any other ship.

News Route Man Kidnaped By Gunman

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 19 (AP)—A newspaper deliverer in the Houston, Tex., area told police today he was forced at gunpoint to drive a teen-age hitchhiker here from near Houston.

Officers said Jimmy Shopwell, 37, of Humble, Tex., told them he offered the young man on crutches a ride, but after a short distance the hitchhiker pulled a gun, took $47 of Shopwell's money and ordered him to drive here.

Shopwell said the youth got out of his car and disappeared as soon as he stopped for a red light today in Alexandria.

Police said the FBI has been asked to investigate for kidnaping and armed robbery charges.

Judge Acts In Effort To Save Life Of Youth

FORT WORTH, April 19 (UP)—District Judge Harold Craik made a lawyer a 15-year-old boy's guardian today, so the boy could be given a blood transfusion against his parents' wishes.

The boy is Larry Phillips. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Phillips of nearby Arlington, Tex., are members of the Jehovah's witnesses sect, which is opposed to transfusions.

Larry had his tonsils taken out an operation from which he was recovering. But an ulcer in his stomach started to bleed. Though he was slowly bleeding to death, his parents refused to allow a transfusion.

Larry's doctor telephoned Richard Earl Johnson, a lawyer, who got Judge Craik to rule him Larry's temporary guardian. Johnson then gave the doctor permission to go ahead with the transfusion.

At last report, Larry's condition was improved, but was still serious. His parents refused to discuss the case.

Coast Guard To Probe Wreck Of Gulf Barge

NEW ORLEANS, April 19 (AP)—The Coast Guard today ordered an investigation into the capsizing of a huge oil drilling barge which killed nine men.

The six survivors of Wednesday's accident will be among those to testify at the hearing which opens Monday. Others to appear before the special marine board of investigation will include the owners and operators of the $1,250,000 craft.

Divers have been unable to find any trace of the crewmen lost when the barge flipped over in the Gulf of Mexico about 80 miles southeast of here.

Heavy cranes were taken to the scene in an effort to turn over the barge and locate bodies believed to be inside the hull.

'STILL COUNCIL MEMBER'

Beck Challenges AFL-CIO Ouster

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—Teamsters Union President Dave Beck today challenged the right of the AFL-CIO Council to expel him from its membership. He said he still considers himself a member of the council.

Beck also demanded that the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, which has scheduled hearings next month on corruption charges against him and his union, make detailed accusations and guarantee fair procedures.

Beck's stand was expressed in letters to AFL-CIO President George Meany and to Albert J. Hayes, chairman of the Ethical Practices Committee. The federation already has said it will not negotiate with Beck on conditions for the hearing.

Try Beck Under Code

The AFL-CIO decided last month to try Beck and the teamsters under its new ethics code after Beck invoked the Fifth Amendment 117 times under questioning by the Senate Labor Rackets Committee. The committee charged that he took more than $322,000 from union treas-

VATICAN SERVICE

Crucifixion Of Christ Mourned

VATICAN CITY, April 19 (AP)—Christ's suffering and death on the Cross nearly 2,000 years ago were commemorated in mournful Good Friday services here attended by pilgrims from many lands.

Thousands, speaking in hushed tones, streamed into St. Peter's throughout the day. Many of them also paid brief visits to Rome's other major basilicas and churches.

This morning, solemn Tenebrae, or darkness, services were held in St. Peter's, symbolic of Christ's death. Later in the day, as the fateful hours of Calvary approached, thousands again assembled for vespers services that included adoration of the crucified Christ. These services were held in St. Peter's and in most of Rome's nearly 500 churches.

In the basilica—the world's biggest church—long lines advanced to kneel and kiss the crucified feet of Christ on a small cross, from which the purple Lenten covering cloth was temporarily lifted.

The vesper service inculded Gospel readings recounting Christ's betrayal by Judas, his scourging, crucifixion, death and burial.

The vesper service conculded by brief exposition of the Roman Catholic Church's major relics. They are the lance with which the Roman soldier Longinius is believed to have pierced Jesus' side, the veil with which Veronica wiped His face on the way to Calvary, and a piece of the Cross on which He died.

Pope Pius XII was putting the final touches on his Easter Sunday message. It will be televised for the first time, for audiences in Europe. Vatican sources said it probably will be heard by more millions than ever before listened to a Pope's Easter message. Vatican radio will broadcast it in 28 languages. In addition 14 European networks already have indicated they will be hooked up for direct transmissions. Later, American and Canadian networks and BBC will broadcast it.

The Pope will speak from the balcony above St. Peter's central door. Several hundred thousand pilgrims and Romans will be in the square below. The 81-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church will begin his address at noon. He will conclude with his blessing "urbi et orbi"—to the City of Rome and the world.

Hearing Secret On Atom Secret; Decision Secret

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—A federal judge who held a secret hearing on an inventor's suit involving a secret formula handed down a secret decision today.

The inventor, Jerome Spevack of New Rochelle, N. Y., filed a suit a week ago seeking an injunction to stop the government from making public a method of "concentrating isotopes" which he said he invented 14 years ago when he worked for AEC.

Spevack said his contract gave him rights to his inventions. The whole subject of "heavy water," he said, was recently declassified by the government. He said AEC now wants to make his invention public before he can get through all the red tape of patenting it.

That much of the case is public record. But since filing the suit, everything has been secret.

Both sides asked for a secret hearing. The request was granted by Judge Joseph C. McCarraghy who made the secret decision and pledged lawyers for both sides to secrecy.

Subway Collision Hurts 65 Persons

Only One Reported 'Serious'

NEW YORK, April 19 (UP)—Two subway trains collided in a tunnel beneath a Brooklyn street early tonight, injuring 65 persons.

A four-car train rammed an eight-car train which had been stopped automatically by a brake defect.

No one was killed, and the most seriously injured was the motorman of the second train, William Hoke, who was pinned for an hour and 30 minutes while emergency workers freed him with acetylene torches, crow bars and hammers.

The collision between the trains, carrying an estimated 300 persons, occurred at 7:17 p.m. (EST) shortly after the first train stopped. As the motorman made repairs the second train rounded a curve in the tunnel and smashed into the stalled cars.

Leg Was Pinned

The force of the crash caused the cab of the second train to pierce the rear of the other train, pinning Hoke by the right leg. Throughout the ordeal of being cut free from the wreckage Hoke remained conscious, though he was in a state of shock. He suffered a crushed leg.

The first train carried more than 100 passengers, and the second was crowded with straphangers on their way from the borough of Brooklyn to Queens on Long Island.

The impact sent straw seat cushions hurtling into the aisles, threw passengers to the floor and created momentary panic. People screamed as the lights went out. Some doors were sprung automatically by the force of the collision. Some passengers freed themselves by breaking open emergency exits. All the passengers and injured left the tunnel through escape hatches to the street.

The first train was jolted off the tracks and tilted at an angle of about 30 degrees.

Senate To Expand Its Labor Probe

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP) — The Senate Labor Rackets Committee has ordered staff investigators into eight major cities to check out complaints of union mismanagement, violence and other improper practices, a spokesman said today.

A committee source said investigators are, or soon will be, busy in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Philadelphia and Omaha, Neb. He added that inquiries also will be launched in St. Louis and Detroit "in the not too distant future."

The spokesman said the committee has now received more than 25,000 complaints from almost every metropolitan area in the nation. He said the teamsters still lead all other unions in the complaints. After they are read, investigators make on-the-spot checks of the most promising leads.

To Open Public Hearings

The committee is expected to open public hearings soon on widespread charges of labor racketeering in the New York area. They are expected to involve the teamsters, the carpenters, the operating engineers and possibly some well-known underworld figures.

Investigators have been busy in Seattle for some time establishing the groundwork for a second round of questioning of Dave Beck, millionaire general president of the teamsters.

Beck invoked the Fifth Amendment 117 times last month when asked about charges that he had taken more than $322,000 from union treasuries and still had not repaid some $50,000.

The committee also has had a sizeable staff at work in Philadelphia. The Los Angeles investigation includes, among other things, contracts for rubbish and garbage collection. Another investigator is in Omaha examining affairs of the teamsters and other unions.

Although the committee has more than 50 investigators, it has not had time to check all complaint which have diminished only slightly in volume in recent weeks.

BY POLICE JURY

Funds For Juvenile Home Voted Down

Funds totaling $275 per month to operate the new, $130,000 Ouachita parish Detention Home were voted down yesterday by the Police Jury in a narrow 7-6 decision.

A resolution asking the Police Jury to "accept responsibility" of contributing $275 monthly to operating the Ouachita home for juveniles virtually halted its immediate opening.

The Police Jury had previously passed a resolution calling for a $150 monthly contribution, but met with split opinions when presented with the State Department of Welfare resolution.

Recently Completed

Recently completed and approved by the Police Jury, the home was built from funds obtained from a one-third of a cent millage passed by the voters of Ouachita parish.

The vote left the previous $150 resolution in effect, however, but juror L. U. Fourmy voiced his doubt that the Welfare Department would open the home without the $275 contribution.

It arose as a confused issue because of "agreements" made sometimes last year with the cities of Monroe and West Monroe for the remainder of the monthly fund.

L. B. Pettit, jury member and chairman of the board of directors of the Ouachita parish Welfare Department, said he had been promised $100 by the City of Monroe and $25 monthly by the City of West Monroe.

However, Pettit explained yesterday when contacted in Dallas that he made those arrangements with Monroe and West Monroe officials last year and hadn't conferred with them on the matter recently.

Not Approached

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said he had never been approached on the city's contributing $100 monthly. Pettit said he had planned to confer with Howard prior to the opening of the home.

Under the agreements made with the City of Monroe under the

IF GERMANY REVOLTS

Russia Threatens Western Nations

MOSCOW, April 19 (AP)—Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov warned the West tonight that the Moscow-directed Warsaw Pact powers will match NATO bomb for bomb, missile for missile.

Nikita Khrushchev told the Western powers to keep their hands off the Communist world, particularly East Germany, lest it become necessary to "rap your knuckles."

Khrushchev, the Communist party boss, speaking at a Polish Embassy reception, extended a somewhat partonizing hand of friendship to Poland and then directed his remarks to the Western powers.

Issues Warning

"We want to warn the capitalist countries, do not joke with us, do not try to test us like you did in Hungary with the putsch. You think of doing it, not only in Hungary, but also maybe in East Germany. Be careful. We are not saints and if necessary we will rap your knuckles," he said.

A few minutes earlier, Marshal Zhukov, beribboned Soviet defense minister, told reporters the Soviet Union would see to it that its Communist allies had nuclear weapons and guided missiles to match the weapons America provided for its allies in NATO — the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"We will carry out all measures necessary to serve as countersteps for any actions that NATO takes," he said. "We have at our disposal adequate means to retaliate against any action of NATO."

Zhukov, Soviet World War II hero, said he did not think much of the theory that nuclear weapons could serve as a deterrent to war.

He told reporters crowded around him in the hot, packed embassy reception room: "If there are weapons, they will be used and the proof of it is that the powers are cutting down by half on conventional weapons and relying more and more on nuclear weapons."

The reception was in honor of Polish Premier Joseph Cyrankiewicz, stopping off in Moscow on the way home from a tour.

Showers Still Loom For Area

Again comes the warning: widely scattered thundershowers for today through Sunday. In other words, today may be partly cloudy, warm and pleasant, or the Twin Cities' may be pelted by a sudden storm. Arkansas has the same weather to look forward to.

Friday was rainless, with a high of 83 degrees. Low last night reached 65.

Absentee Vote Deadline Today

Today at noon is the deadline for casting absentee ballots for Tuesday's Monroe City School tax election.

Ballots may be cast in the office of the Ouachita parish clerk of court on the first floor of the court house.

Suspect In Murder Case Caught Here

An alert off duty Louisiana State Trooper last night led to the arrest here of a 22-year-old California man wanted for murder in that state.

Trooper I. H. Otwell, off-duty officer, spotted the man walking along Louisville avenue about 8:20 p.m. last night.

The man was identified as Clyde J. Campbell of Riverside, Calif.

Trooper Otwell notified state police headquarters which sent a car to the 1700 block of Louisville. Otwell made the initial arrest.

Otwell remembered the man from a state police item which was filed by the headquarters radio.

The man offered no resistance when confronted. Reports indicated that the California subject had last been seen in the Phoenix, Arizona area.

He was wanted for an April 14 murder, the details of which were not available.

Campbell was lodged in the parish jail last night.

$325 Morning World Puzzle Jackpot Has A Narrow Call

By BONANZA BILL

Victor Moore, 1706 McGuire avenue, Monroe, almost netted this week's World crossword puzzle jackpot, missing the $325 cash prize by only one letter.

He chose an "N" instead of an "F" in number 11 down, which had most entrants inserting the words sane and sage.

Next week's puzzle will be worth $350.

Following are explanations of the more difficult clues:

CLUES ACROSS:

2. PASS not PAST. Basically, "scritinize" means to examine visually, favoring PASS. His PAST might be investigated.

6. SOME not HOME. SOME cooking, i.e., good cooking, deserves praise. HOME cooking only deserves praise if it is good. Thus SOME embraces HOME in any case.

7. POSE not HOSE or ROSE or NOSE. The POSE of the model in the "poster" design is highly important and therefore "carefully studied," by those preparing the "poster." Neither advertiser

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP) — The Senate Labor Rackets Committee has ordered staff investigators into eight major cities to check out complaints of union mismanagement, violence and other improper practices, a spokesman said today.

A committee source said investigators are, or soon will be, busy in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Philadelphia and Omaha, Neb. He added that inquiries also will be launched in St. Louis and Detroit "in the not too distant future."

The spokesman said the committee has now received more than 25,000 complaints from almost every metropolitan area in the nation. He said the teamsters still lead all other unions in the complaints. After they are read, investigators make on-the-spot checks of the most promising leads.

To Open Public Hearings

The committee is expected to open public hearings soon on widespread charges of labor racketeering in the New York area. They are expected to involve the teamsters, the carpenters, the operating engineers and possibly some well-known underworld figures.

Investigators have been busy in Seattle for some time establishing the groundwork for a second round of questioning of Dave Beck, millionaire general president of the teamsters.

Beck invoked the Fifth Amendment 117 times last month when asked about charges that he had taken more than $322,000 from union treasuries and still had not repaid some $50,000.

The committee also has had a sizeable staff at work in Philadelphia. The Los Angeles investigation includes, among other things, contracts for rubbish and garbage collection. Another investigator is in Omaha examining affairs of the teamsters and other unions.

Although the committee has more than 50 investigators, it has not had time to check all complaint which have diminished only slightly in volume in recent weeks.

Funds For Juvenile Home Voted Down

Funds totaling $275 per month to operate the new, $130,000 Ouachita parish Detention Home were voted down yesterday by the Police Jury in a narrow 7-6 decision.

A resolution asking the Police Jury to "accept responsibility" of contributing $275 monthly to operating the Ouachita home for juveniles virtually halted its immediate opening.

The Police Jury had previously passed a resolution calling for a $150 monthly contribution, but met with split opinions when presented with the State Department of Welfare resolution.

Recently Completed

Recently completed and approved by the Police Jury, the home was built from funds obtained from a one-third of a cent millage passed by the voters of Ouachita parish.

The vote left the previous $150 resolution in effect, however, but juror L. U. Fourmy voiced his doubt that the Welfare Department would open the home without the $275 contribution.

It arose as a confused issue because of "agreements" made sometimes last year with the cities of Monroe and West Monroe for the remainder of the monthly fund.

L. B. Pettit, jury member and chairman of the board of directors of the Ouachita parish Welfare Department, said he had been promised $100 by the City of Monroe and $25 monthly by the City of West Monroe.

However, Pettit explained yesterday when contacted in Dallas that he made those arrangements with Monroe and West Monroe officials last year and hadn't conferred with them on the matter recently.

Not Approached

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said he had never been approached on the city's contributing $100 monthly. Pettit said he had planned to confer with Howard prior to the opening of the home.

Under the agreements made with the City of Monroe under the

Russia Threatens Western Nations

MOSCOW, April 19 (AP)—Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov warned the West tonight that the Moscow-directed Warsaw Pact powers will match NATO bomb for bomb, missile for missile.

Nikita Khrushchev told the Western powers to keep their hands off the Communist world, particularly East Germany, lest it become necessary to "rap your knuckles."

Khrushchev, the Communist party boss, speaking at a Polish Embassy reception, extended a somewhat partonizing hand of friendship to Poland and then directed his remarks to the Western powers.

Issues Warning

"We want to warn the capitalist countries, do not joke with us, do not try to test us like you did in Hungary with the putsch. You think of doing it, not only in Hungary, but also maybe in East Germany. Be careful. We are not saints and if necessary we will rap your knuckles," he said.

A few minutes earlier, Marshal Zhukov, beribboned Soviet defense minister, told reporters the Soviet Union would see to it that its Communist allies had nuclear weapons and guided missiles to match the weapons America provided for its allies in NATO — the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"We will carry out all measures necessary to serve as countersteps for any actions that NATO takes," he said. "We have at our disposal adequate means to retaliate against any action of NATO."

Zhukov, Soviet World War II hero, said he did not think much of the theory that nuclear weapons could serve as a deterrent to war.

He told reporters crowded around him in the hot, packed embassy reception room: "If there are weapons, they will be used and the proof of it is that the powers are cutting down by half on conventional weapons and relying more and more on nuclear weapons."

The reception was in honor of Polish Premier Joseph Cyrankiewicz, stopping off in Moscow on the way home from a tour.

Showers Still Loom For Area

Again comes the warning: widely scattered thundershowers for today through Sunday. In other words, today may be partly cloudy, warm and pleasant, or the Twin Cities' may be pelted by a sudden storm. Arkansas has the same weather to look forward to.

Friday was rainless, with a high of 83 degrees. Low last night reached 65.

Absentee Vote Deadline Today

Today at noon is the deadline for casting absentee ballots for Tuesday's Monroe City School tax election.

Suspect In Murder Case Caught Here

An alert off duty Louisiana State Trooper last night led to the arrest here of a 22-year-old California man wanted for murder in that state.

Trooper I. H. Otwell, off-duty officer, spotted the man walking along Louisville avenue about 8:20 p.m. last night.

The man was identified as Clyde J. Campbell of Riverside, Calif.

Trooper Otwell notified state police headquarters which sent a car to the 1700 block of Louisville. Otwell made the initial arrest.

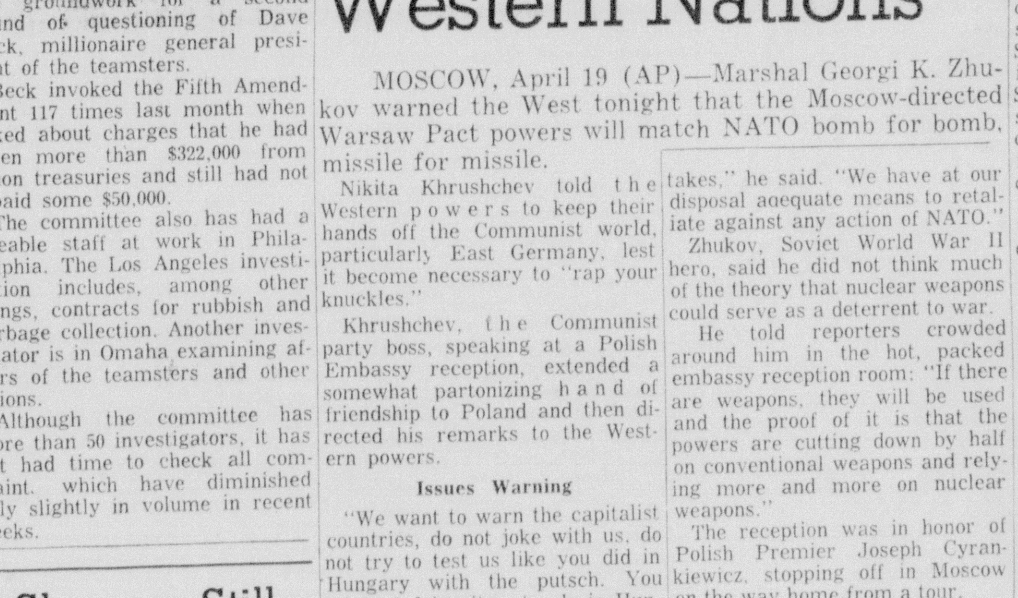
Otwell remembered the man from a state police item which was filed by the headquarters radio.

The man offered no resistance when confronted. Reports indicated that the California subject had last been seen in the Phoenix, Arizona area.

He was wanted for an April 14 murder, the details of which were not available.

Campbell was lodged in the parish jail last night.

$325 Morning World Puzzle Jackpot Has A Narrow Call



By BONANZA BILL

Victor Moore, 1706 McGuire avenue, Monroe, almost netted this week's World crossword puzzle jackpot, missing the $325 cash prize by only one letter.

He chose an "N" instead of an "F" in number 11 down, which had most entrants inserting the words sane and sage.

Next week's puzzle will be worth $350.

Following are explanations of the more difficult clues:

CLUES ACROSS:

2. PASS not PAST. Basically, "scritinize" means to examine visually, favoring PASS. His PAST might be investigated.

6. SOME not HOME. SOME cooking, i.e., good cooking, deserves praise. HOME cooking only deserves praise if it is good. Thus SOME embraces HOME in any case.

7. POSE not HOSE or ROSE or NOSE. The POSE of the model in the "poster" design is highly important and therefore "carefully studied," by those preparing the "poster." Neither advertiser

VOYAGE TODAY

Mayflower II To Sail For America

PLYMOUTH, England, April 19 (AP)—Mayflower II has her hold full of cargo and is ready to start tomorrow on a history-repeating voyage.

The 180-ton sailing vessel, oaken replica of the ship in which the Pilgrim Fathers went to America in 1620, was at the starting line at last after delays in the building yard at Brixham.

She is about to sail from Plymouth, England, to Plymouth, Mass. The original Pilgrims needed 65 days to make the extremely hazardous journey to the west. The 32 men in the modern Mayflower, knowing much more about weather and currents than was known in 1620, think they can make the crossing in about six weeks.

With a few concessions to comfort, they will travel as their forefathers did — with sail only.

Mayflower II dozed tonight a few hundred yards from Drake Island, which bears the name of the intrepid explorer — Sir Francis Drake — who used this old port as a base.

"The weather — it is too damned perfect," said Cmdr. Alan Villiers, Australian sailor who will be skipper of the vessel. "What we need is some wind — not a hurricane but a fresh easterly blow. Today's wind is just about zero. But in this part of the world we expect swift changes, and tomorrow may be an altogether different story."

Mayflower II came from Dartmouth, England, today, being towed the 32 miles by a tug. It was an uneventful journey except that the crew had to bail out a lot of sea water which spilled in. There was nothing alarming, but Mayflower II is not built for towing.

Her high bow is supposed to rise up with the waves which strike it. But the powerful tug pulled Mayflower's nose down. When a wave came she couldn't rise.

"It was a delightful journey, and I didn't sleep a wink," said Warwick Charlton, originator of the Mayflower project who will ride his dream boat to America. "I really think I'll have a pleasant journey but of course Mayflower, 26 feet at the waist, is a narrow lady. We expect to be rolled."

All responsibility has at last been turned over to Villiers. He decides the moment of sailing and, while he is in a hurry, it might not necessarily be tomorrow.

"Old sea captains didn't set a definite hour for sailing, and I'm not going to," he said. "But we'll be off the moment conditions give the sails half a chance."

M'Donald Gets Certification As Union President

PITTSBURGH, April 19 (UP) — The United Steelworkers declared David J. McDonald officially re-elected today to a second four-year term as head of the 1,200,000-member union by less than a 2-to-1 margin.

But McKeesport, Pa. millhand Donald C. Rarick, head of a dues protest group, charged voting "irregularities" and refused to concede defeat.

The official tally of the Feb. 12 balloting in the USW's 2,700 locals gave McDonald 404,172 votes and Rarick 223,516.

Rarick, a $7,500-a-year employe at U. S. Steel's Irvin works here, led a rank-and-file group which campaigned vigorously against McDonald's policies and especially against a $2 monthly dues increase. It was the first time McDonald faced opposition in his 20 years as a USW official.

"I will not concede this election until such time as I have been furnished with a breakdown of the voting, local by local," Rarick said. "I have in my possession concrete evidence of many irregularities at the local level, and until I have been fully satisfied as to the honesty of the vote count... I will make no concessions."

Only one member of Rarick's opposition slate managed to win in the Feb. 12 balloting Paul M. Hilbert, defeated McDonald's candidate, incumbent John R. Sullivan for director of USW Dist. 15 in the Monongahela Valley McKeesport-Homestead, Pa. area

Although handicapped by lack of funds, Rarick nevertheless waged a vigorous four-month campaign against McDonald in which he accused the union president of "dictatorship" and charged he had been offered a $250,000 bribe to withdraw from the election. McDonald, who did not make a formal campaign, branded Rarick's statements an "unmitigated lie."

Loop Area Power Work Completed

Electrical superintendent W. T. Murphy yesterday said a power project on Loop Road to provide more voltage in that area was completed early Friday morning in one hour and eight minutes.

Power between Saratoga and Marquette was cut off at midnight Thursday as city crews added new switches to serve a string of new conductors to be installed in the area.

The Utilities Commission had announced that the power cutoff would last for two hours.

Manager Tom Underwood said the Loop Road work was "another step" in ths Commission's efforts to increase city voltage for the summer air conditioner load.

The 13,000-volt circuit was cut off, Murphy explained, to afford safety for the crews installing the switches. The stringing of the larger conductors will be done May 1.

However, Murphy said the lights in that area would not be cut off for the conductor installation.

A similar job was done in the college area early last Sunday morning to increase capacity at the Powell Street substation. It was completed in two hours and 10 minutes.

Local Jaycees Plan Entries In Awards Section

The Monroe - West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, awards Chairman Guy Jones, announced yesterday that the local chapter will enter five classifications of accomplishments in the award program at the state convention to be held in Monroe, May 17.

Scrapbooks will be entered in the categories of youth welfare, public relations, newsletter, and the Henry Geissenbier award.

Coleman Hunts Industry In NY

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP) — Gov. James P. Coleman and six members of his Agricultural and Industrial Board are in New York on a three-day search for industry to locate in Mississippi.

"Mississippi probably needs industry worse than any other state in the Union," the governor said in an interview yesterday. "We'll do anything necessary to promote an industrial move."

FOR HOME SHOW

Telephone Dialing Exhibit Arranged

An explanation on how to dial a long distance telephone call will be featured at Southern Bell's exhibit next week at the Northeast Louisiana Home Show and Spring Festival. The display, located in the main building, will demonstrate how direct distance dialing works, highlighting the improvements the direct dialing will make in telephone service.

A map of the United States will illustrate how direct dialing system will work as the plan develops. Each state will have at least one area number. The Twin Cities' number, for example, will be 504. An out - of - town operator will have only to "pulsate" 504 before dialing the Twin City number. Eventually the customer will be able to dial the distant number for himself.

Attendants at the exhibit will demonstrate a call from the Twin Cities to San Francisco and explain the features of the new plan.

The exhibit will also feature colored telephones displayed in backgrounds similar to those found in the home.

Girl Terrorized Before Slaying By 'Older Man'

NEW YORK, April 19 (UP)—Slain Patricia Ruland had been living in terror of a man who had tried to seize her along darkened streets at least three times in the last two months, a friend of the victim said today.

Her skull fractured in 17 places while apparently trying to fight off a rape attempt, Miss Ruland died in a hospital without regaining consciousness.

The girl friend, Sandra Kullman, 18, said that Miss Ruland had not told her parents of the man trailing her because she did not want to worry them.

Miss Kullman disclosed to police that the victim had told her that the man had tried to grab her several times but had been frightened off by her screams. Miss Ruland told her, she said, that the man once jumped at her from a dark alley.

She said Miss Ruland had been so terrorized by her assailant that she could only describe him as an "older man," possibly in his late thirties.

The disclosure made it appear that Miss Ruland may have been seized and forced into a car while walking home from a neighborhood luncheonette where she had had coffee with two young men, both friends. A neighbor said she saw Miss Ruland walking towards home at about 10:30 p. m. Her body was dumped from a car a mile away about 70 minutes later.

PORT LEADERS MEET

BATON ROUGE, April 19 (AP) — Port and business leaders of 12 southeastern parishes organized the Mississippi River Economic Council today to promote industrial expansion along the Mississippi River.

A steering group elected Charles F. Averill, Port Allen, secretary of the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission, the first president.

DAR Ends Its 66th Confab

The delegates applauded a recommendation by Miss Kathryn Diggs of the District of Columbia who urged the daughters to "go out to the schools" to "try to put religious training back in basic education."

The daughters earlier approved a resolution which pledged their efforts toward "renewed spiritual emphasis in all phases of life." It restated the DAR's "faith in divine providence as the only enduring means of safeguarding the nation" against communism.

Miss Diggs, a high school teacher, said "there is an element" in America which is "trying to destroy religion." She declined to say where she taught but said that her school as well as a number of others hold no daily Lord's Prayer or Bible reading.

At their closing session, the daughters installed seven new vice presidents general elected in balloting Thursday. They wound up their convention activities at a banquet tonight.

The session was marked by the independent flavor struck Thursday when a surprising number of delegates dissented to proposed resolutions.

With a few concessions to comfort, they will travel as their forefathers did — with sail only.

Mayflower II dozed tonight a few hundred yards from Drake Island, which bears the name of the intrepid explorer — Sir Francis Drake — who used this old port as a base.

"The weather — it is too damned perfect," said Cmdr. Alan Villiers, Australian sailor who will be skipper of the vessel. "What we need is some wind — not a hurricane but a fresh easterly blow. Today's wind is just about zero. But in this part of the world we expect swift changes, and tomorrow may be an altogether different story."

Mayflower II came from Dartmouth, England, today, being towed the 32 miles by a tug. It was an uneventful journey except that the crew had to bail out a lot of sea water which spilled in. There was nothing alarming, but Mayflower II is not built for towing.

Her high bow is supposed to rise up with the waves which strike it. But the powerful tug pulled Mayflower's nose down. When a wave came she couldn't rise.

"It was a delightful journey, and I didn't sleep a wink," said Warwick Charlton, originator of the Mayflower project who will ride his dream boat to America. "I really think I'll have a pleasant journey but of course Mayflower, 26 feet at the waist, is a narrow lady. We expect to be rolled."

All responsibility has at last been turned over to Villiers. He decides the moment of sailing and, while he is in a hurry, it might not necessarily be tomorrow.

"Old sea captains didn't set a definite hour for sailing, and I'm not going to," he said. "But we'll be off the moment conditions give the sails half a chance."

M'Donald Gets Certification As Union President

PITTSBURGH, April 19 (UP) — The United Steelworkers declared David J. McDonald officially re-elected today to a second four-year term as head of the 1,200,000-member union by less than a 2-to-1 margin.

But McKeesport, Pa. millhand Donald C. Rarick, head of a dues protest group, charged voting "irregularities" and refused to concede defeat.

The official tally of the Feb. 12 balloting in the USW's 2,700 locals gave McDonald 404,172 votes and Rarick 223,516.

Rarick, a $7,500-a-year employe at U. S. Steel's Irvin works here, led a rank-and-file group which campaigned vigorously against McDonald's policies and especially against a $2 monthly dues increase. It was the first time McDonald faced opposition in his 20 years as a USW official.

"I will not concede this election until such time as I have been furnished with a breakdown of the voting, local by local," Rarick said. "I have in my possession concrete evidence of many irregularities at the local level, and until I have been fully satisfied as to the honesty of the vote count... I will make no concessions."

Only one member of Rarick's opposition slate managed to win in the Feb. 12 balloting Paul M. Hilbert, defeated McDonald's candidate, incumbent John R. Sullivan for director of USW Dist. 15 in the Monongahela Valley McKeesport-Homestead, Pa. area

Although handicapped by lack of funds, Rarick nevertheless waged a vigorous four-month campaign against McDonald in which he accused the union president of "dictatorship" and charged he had been offered a $250,000 bribe to withdraw from the election McDonald, who did not make a formal campaign, branded Rarick's statements an "unmitigated lie."

Election Is Set By W. M. Lions

May 2nd has been set as election day by the West Monroe Lions Club, President David Hunt said following the regular meeting this week.

Nominated for the presidency was Hugh Taylor. Others nominated were Homer Roark, for first vice-president; J. F. Jones, Jr., second vice-president; George S. Screpetis, third vice-president; Jessie Webb, tail twister; Will Morris, Lion - tamer; Joe Preddy and Warren McGee, directors, and Bobby C. Wilson, secretary-treasurer. Additional nominations from the floor will be accepted Hunt said.

In other action the club nominated Harold Hill as a candidate for district governor for the 8-Lions district of Louisiana. Hill has served as president, lion-tamer, member of the board and on several committees of the local club.

Loop Area Power Work Completed

Electrical superintendent W. T. Murphy yesterday said a power project on Loop Road to provide more voltage in that area was completed early Friday morning in one hour and eight minutes.

Power between Saratoga and Marquette was cut off at midnight Thursday as city crews added new switches to serve a string of new conductors to be installed in the area.

The Utilities Commission had announced that the power cutoff would last for two hours.

Manager Tom Underwood said the Loop Road work was "another step" in ths Commission's efforts to increase city voltage for the summer air conditioner load.

The 13,000-volt circuit was cut off, Murphy explained, to afford safety for the crews installing the switches. The stringing of the larger conductors will be done May 1.

However, Murphy said the lights in that area would not be cut off for the conductor installation.

A similar job was done in the college area early last Sunday morning to increase capacity at the Powell Street substation. It was completed in two hours and 10 minutes.

Local Jaycees Plan Entries In Awards Section

Scrapbooks will be entered in the categories of youth welfare, public relations, newsletter, and the Henry Geissenbier award.

Coleman Hunts Industry In NY

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP) — Gov. James P. Coleman and six members of his Agricultural and Industrial Board are in New York on a three-day search for industry to locate in Mississippi.

"Mississippi probably needs industry worse than any other state in the Union," the governor said in an interview yesterday. "We'll do anything necessary to promote an industrial move."

FOR HOME SHOW

Telephone Dialing Exhibit Arranged

An explanation on how to dial a long distance telephone call will be featured at Southern Bell's exhibit next week at the Northeast Louisiana Home Show and Spring Festival. The display, located in the main building, will demonstrate how direct distance dialing works, highlighting the improvements the direct dialing will make in telephone service.

A map of the United States will illustrate how direct dialing system will work as the plan develops. Each state will have at least one area number. The Twin Cities' number, for example, will be 504. An out - of - town operator will have only to "pulsate" 504 before dialing the Twin City number. Eventually the customer will be able to dial the distant number for himself.

Attendants at the exhibit will demonstrate a call from the Twin Cities to San Francisco and explain the features of the new plan.

The exhibit will also feature colored telephones displayed in backgrounds similar to those found in the home.

PORT LEADERS MEET

BATON ROUGE, April 19 (AP) — Port and business leaders of 12 southeastern parishes organized the Mississippi River Economic Council today to promote industrial expansion along the Mississippi River.

A steering group elected Charles F. Averill, Port Allen, secretary of the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission, the first president.

Girl Terrorized Before Slaying By 'Older Man'

NEW YORK, April 19 (UP)—Slain Patricia Ruland had been living in terror of a man who had tried to seize her along darkened streets at least three times in the last two months, a friend of the victim said today.

Her skull fractured in 17 places while apparently trying to fight off a rape attempt, Miss Ruland died in a hospital without regaining consciousness.

The girl friend, Sandra Kullman, 18, said that Miss Ruland had not told her parents of the man trailing her because she did not want to worry them.

Miss Kullman disclosed to police that the victim had told her that the man had tried to grab her several times but had been frightened off by her screams. Miss Ruland told her, she said, that the man once jumped at her from a dark alley.

She said Miss Ruland had been so terrorized by her assailant that she could only describe him as an "older man," possibly in his late thirties.

The disclosure made it appear that Miss Ruland may have been seized and forced into a car while walking home from a neighborhood luncheonette where she had had coffee with two young men, both friends. A neighbor said she saw Miss Ruland walking towards home at about 10:30 p. m. Her body was dumped from a car a mile away about 70 minutes later.

DAR Ends Its 66th Confab

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—The Daughters of the American Revolution ended their 66th continental congress today by reaffirming their faith in God as the only way to safeguard the nation against communism.

The delegates applauded a recommendation by Miss Kathryn Diggs of the District of Columbia who urged the daughters to "go out to the schools" to "try to put religious training back in basic education."

The daughters earlier approved a resolution which pledged their efforts toward "renewed spiritual emphasis in all phases of life.' It restated the DAR's 'faith in divine providence as the only enduring means of safeguarding the nation" against communism.

Miss Diggs, a high school teacher, said "there is an element' in America which is "trying to destroy religion." She declined to say where she taught but said that her school as well as a number of others hold no daily Lord's Prayer or Bible reading.

At their closing session, the daughters installed seven new vice presidents general elected in balloting Thursday. They wound up their convention activities at a banquet tonight.

The session was marked by the independent flavor struck Thursday when a surprising number of delegates dissented to proposed resolutions.

King Hussein Outlines Course Set For Jordan

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jordan's King Hussein has granted his first interview since the government crisis that followed his ouster of leftist Premier Suleiman Nabulsi. In the following exclusive interview with United Press Staff Correspondent Joe Morris he discusses the policies his nation plans to follow.

By JOE MORRIS

AMMAN, Jordan, April 19 (UP) —King Hussein of Jordan said today his nation will fight "imperialism of all kinds," shun foreign pacts and combat "any imported dogma" such as communism.

The 22 - year - old monarch pledged that Jordan would follow the policy of "positive neutrality" laid down by Arab nation leaders at the recent Cairo conference.

In the first exclusive interview he had granted since the stormy cabinet crisis, the king told the United Press Jordan would reject all projects which had not been accepted by the member states represented in the last Cairo conference. These states are Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Jordan.

Need No Leading

But he declared that "we lead and need no leading; where we believe in a thing we act and do not fear the consequences."

The interview took place in the King's hill-top palace beneath a portrait of his great-grandfather King Hussein, who led the Arab revolt against the Ottoman Empire during World War I. The King, dressed in a blue suit, smiled frequently and was fully at ease.

Asked about his plans for fighting communism, Hussein said:

"I do believe it is incumbent on Arab nations not to allow any room for a new belief or any importec dogma, whatever it may be, to infiltrate among the Arabs."

He added that "the army I liberated" and the Jordanian people "will not sell themselves to any destructive conventions."

No Policy Change

The King stressed that the recent government changes did not mean "any change of policy." He said the changes resulted from "routine affairs of state which are known to me as well as all members of the out-going cabinet."

The monarch said Jordan would continue its policy of "fighting imperialism of any kind, condemning foreign pacts, observing 'positive neutrality' and rejecting all projects which have not been accepted by the member states represented in the last Cairo conference."

He did not mention specific foreign aid projects or the Eisenhower Doctrine.

He said, however, that Jordan would approve or disapprove them "after careful study by the countries concerned of any such project or projects through an unbiased eye and aspired by Arab history, tradition and interest."

Northeast Louisiana State College ROTC cadets will begin a competitive shoot with the M-1 rifle at the Selman Field range on April 29.

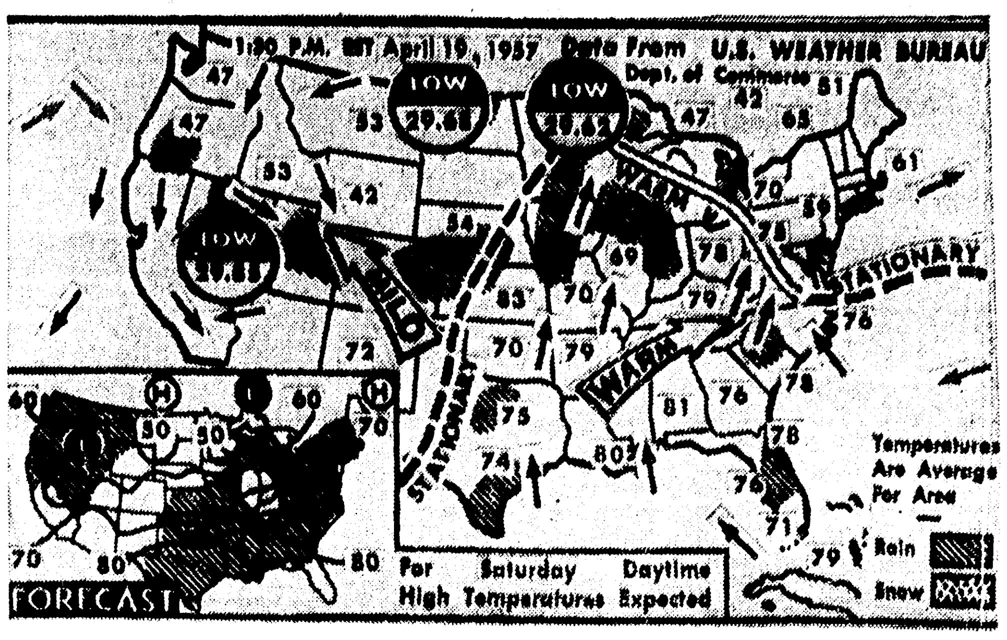
First and third-year cadets will fire the infantryman's basic weapon from the April date through May 3, according to Lt. Col. Howard P. Landry, professor of military science and tactics.

Junior cadets will have an opportunity to become familiar with the rifle for further extensive firing at ROTC summer camp at Fort Hood, Texas.

Each cadet will fire from prone, sitting, kneeling and standing position from 100 yards at the army issued target, Col. Landry explained.

In keeping with the spirit of competition which is growing throughout the nation, and particularly in the armed services records of all firing will be kept and awards made to the outstanding marksmen at the annual Northeast State "honors day" program in May.

Besides individual awards the platoon and company which score the highest will receive special recognition.



WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST

Showers and thunderstorms are due for the eastern half of the nation and the far northwest. A warm trend will continue in the Gulf states and New England. Except for some cooler weather in the upper Mississippi valley, the rest of the country should be mild. (AP Wirephoto Map)

EASTER SERVICE

WINNSBORO, April 19 (Special) —A community Easter service will be held at the Winnsboro First Presbyterian Church at 7 o'clock a.m. Easter Sunday.

AT EASTER SEASON

Small Pets Gain Favor With Tots

Sunday is Easter and for many youngsters that's the time the rabbit hides the Easter eggs and brings them a small pet, maybe more than one if the child has been extra good - and the parents are much more lenient than usual.

After the thrill of finding the many -hued eggs is over, the kids will spend the rest of the day eating the candy eggs and playing with the pets.

(See Photo Page One)

Still the favorite are the small rabbits, both the white and the colored ones. In the past few years, the spotted rabbits have been gaining in popularity, but the white is still the "pet king."

The pet shop owners and operators said rabbits are extremely scarce this year, but there are a few around. The price will remain about what it was last year.

Now in all of the windows and catching the eyes of those passing by are the little chicks, dyed every color of the rainbow - except for the specks of white showing on the new-grown feathers of the wings and tails. These, too, are a favorite with the youngsters but the shop owners say very few survive the ordeal of being a child's pet for long.

Thousands of these little chicks, mostly White Leghorn cockerels, are shipped out of the Midwestern states each spring for the Easter demands. No estimate could be obtained on the number brought into this area, but the pet shop operators indicate the demand is larger this year than ever.

For the children who want "something a little different," the shops have young ducklings, ready to run around the yard - or house as many as cases may be-but the supply is not expected to exceed the demand in the Twin Cities. In the past few years, this, too, has been gaining in popularity due to its ability to take more "rough handling" and appeal as a pet.

One duck sure to grow is Donald, whose proud young owner, "Scooter" Howard, 10, of White's Ferry Road, West Monroe, obtained him earlier this week. Already an affectionate house - hold pet, Donald follows Scooter and when the boy sits down, Donald web-foots at right up and nestles on his shirt.

But a few of the children in the area—an extremely few if most parents have anything to do with it will get young lambs or a kid for a pet.

One Ouachita parish farmer, who has a number of goats "roaming out in the back" said men most often buy the young kids for their sons. However, there was some doubt whether the "son" was really the one who wanted the animal.

At any rate, the purchase of pets for Easter has reached a fast clip in the Twin Cities area, and the "exodus from the pest shops" can be expected to continue today.

Road System Post Goes To Hardy Wells

Hardy Wells, who has been employed by the Ouachita parish Police Jury for four years, was elevated to superintendent of the parish road system yesterday.

Jury vice - president W. O. Roberts said Wells was appointed to succeed George Harris in a move "to save money" rather than hire a parish engineer.

The jury had planned to add a parish engineer to its road staff, but decided at the meeting that the appointment of Wells would "save considerable parish funds," Roberts said.

Wells received a $30 per month salary increase and was instructed to begin the jury's blacktopping program as soon as the weather permits.

Harris, who had been with the parish for 27 years, resigned recently because of ill health. Wells moved up from purchasing agent.

"Wells is well-liked by our employees and will get excellent cooperation in working with the people of Ouachita parish," Roberts said.

He lauded Harris as a "very consciencious man" who "made the parish a good superintendent."

State-aid gravel is being distributed by parish crews now in the beginning of the 18-mile blacktopping program. Each ward will get one and a half miles of blacktop.

Roberts said the blacktopping will be started "when the weather permits."

"Wells is well-liked by our employees and will get excellent cooperation in working with the people of Ouachita parish," Roberts said.

He lauded Harris as a "very consciencious man" who "made the parish a good superintendent."

State-aid gravel is being distributed by parish crews now in the beginning of the 18-mile blacktopping program. Each ward will get one and a half miles of blacktop.

Roberts said the blacktopping will be started "when the weather permits."

Sentences Given Two Turncoats Cut Down

Sentences imposed on two American turncoats who first chose to stay in red China, rather than to return to the United States, when the war in Korea ended, have been cut in half, news dispatches reveal.

Cpl. Edward Dickenson of Crackers' Neck, Va., who was given a 10-year sentence for collaborating with the communists while a prisoner of war in north Korea, received a commutation which cut his total time to five years. A 20-year sentence imposed on Cpl. Claude Batchelor previously had been cut to 10 years.

Dickenson would be eligible for parole by next January, counting time off for good behavior. Batchelor's sentence would be up in 1961.

While these men deserved sentences fully as heavy as those originally imposed, because of atrocities committed against their fellow Americans while they were in the communist prison camps, there is not likely to be anything more than feeble protest, at the most, at the reduction of their sentences.

This is because a quirk of fate prevented other men similarly guilty from receiving any sentences. Courts later ruled that the turncoats who had been dishonorably discharged by the army could not be tried under military law and apparently any attempt to try them under civil law would have been too difficult. Because several of these men who have returned have escaped legal punishment and because any others who may return will also escape such punishment, there can be little objection to cutting the terms of Dickenson and Batchelor. Aaron Wilson of Urania, La., was one of those who escaped legal punishment.

The American turncoats who decided to stay in red China claimed their decisions were made because they had come to believe in communism. The truth was, however, that they had courted favor with the communists while in prison merely to make life easier for themselves and to gain special favors. To do this, they informed on their fellow Americans, either with true or concocted stories, making life for the other prisoners even more intolerable.

These men will not escape all punishment. They will be forced to live throughout their lives with themselves and to try to live with other Americans who know of their betrayals.

Colorado Legislators Vote Funds To Move Units

Unbelievable as it seems, the Colorado legislature has voted to turn over hundreds of thousands—perhaps millions—of dollars of public road funds to utility companies to pay for moving utility-owned poles, conduits and pipelines on highways that are to be widened or rebuilt.

Utility lines occupy the public highways rent free with the definite understanding that if highway alterations make it necessary to move the lines, the companies will have to relocate at their own expense. That is an obligation the utilities incur when they occupy highway space free of charge.

Many utilities have signed contracts with the state highway department agreeing to move at their own expense if the highway space they occupy becomes necessary for road purposes—as when a highway is widened. Even where no written agreements exist, utility companies have set up their lines on public highways with full understanding that they can be required to move if utility lines interfere with road construction. That has always been the practice in Colorado and nearly all other states.

The bill passed by the legislature would wipe out these agreements and time-honored practice. The state could no longer reoccupy highway land which it owns—but has permitted utility companies to use—unless taxpayers' dollars were turned over to the utilities to pay for the costs of moving.

This is the most amazing grab of public funds for special interest purposes ever attempted in Colorado. It must be noted that the utility companies are attempting the same thing in many other states. This is a carefully-planned nationwide raid on highway tax funds, both state and federal.

In defense of this proposal it is argued that it would benefit many publically-owned or cooperatively-owned utilities such as water systems and rural electrification systems. This is merely window dressing since 90 pct. of the tax money which would be diverted under this bill would go to large private utilities.

It is argued, also, that people who pay highway taxes are the same people who use utilities so there is nothing wrong with using highway revenues to keep utility companies from passing on to their customers the cost of moving lines.

Under this tortured line of reasoning there would be no end to the "legitimate" diversions of highway funds to non-highway purposes. People who pay highway taxes also use postal service which involves the use of public roads. Why not divert highway money to subsidize the postoffice department?

Sneakiest of all arguments for the utility bill is the one that the principal cost will be borne by the federal highway fund, so why should the state object?

To hear some legislative defenders of this bill talk you would get the impression that Coloradans pay no federal highway taxes so it is no concern of theirs if the federal road fund is raided.

It is true, of course, that some states will adopt laws similar to the bill our legislature has passed. The extensive utility lobby will score some victories.

But we can't agree that Colorado should submit to a grab of road funds by utility companies merely because some other states will or have done so. Governor Simpson of Wyoming set a better example when he vetoed the utility bill which had been passed in that state. We hope Governor McNichols will act similarly. — The Denver Post.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Some Departments Expect Congress To Squeeze Out Padded Payrolls

Every citizen has ideas about what the taxes should be and how to collect them. Nobody really enjoys paying any taxes at all, but most admit that the government needs to meet its bills, and therefore must tax the citizens somewhat. When the "somewhat" gets too tough, the citizens write letters to columnists and congressmen.

What most citizens do not know is that some departments of the government pad their payrolls, expecting Congress to squeeze the padding out. Also that if a department discovers that it has more money on hand than it can spend, ways and means have to be invented to make the money disappear; otherwise it has to be returned to the Treasury and that fouls things up for an enlarged and padded budget the next year.

Also there is an item called "unexpended surpluses," namely, that some departments are able to hide away the amounts that they cannot use in a given year and they hold on to these sums, lawfully or otherwise, so that they can be used as needed. Finally, there are the items which run for more than a fiscal year—say, such an item as building a new-type plane which may run from conception to obsolescence over a couple of years. The trouble here is that when such an item becomes obsolete, even on the drawing board, it is not altogether discarded if the appropriations have been authorized, lest some congressional committee ask what goes on.

So all this costs money and the taxpayer is required to turn over his earnings to the tax collectors and hopes that he can carry himself along on installment buying until his credit is exhausted, if ever. Now along comes a Yankee from Rockland, Maine, who wants no personal advertising, but he makes a proposition:

"For my money Mr. Sokolsky, all taxation should be based on a person's ability to pay it, and I would think that it would be a very good idea if the city, state, and federal governments, would get together and base their taxation programs on that and then they would have some idea of how much you can take out of a person for taxes, something that only the federal government knows, at this time, as we all have to eat first and pay taxes after, and to that I think that you will agree."

In the first place, how is ability to pay to be measured? At present, it is measured by earnings and we suffer a graduated income tax based on earnings but including a number of exceptions and exemptions. Therefore this gentleman's proposition offers nothing novel because that is the way it is now done. All earnings are reported at least twice, once by the payer and another time by the recipient and to prevent the citizen from spending his earnings as he goes along, Congress has instituted the withholding tax which is a trick whereby one's wages are cut in advance and the tax money taken out. This entails considerable and costly bookkeeping for which the government does not pay.

The psychological effect of the withholding tax is that many who pay taxes do not automatically realize how much they pay. They regard as their wages the net amount that they take home.

My correspondent wants "to eat first and pay taxes after," which is a proposition that the government does not regard as valid. Actually, taxes come first and foremost under the law, and if the citizen cannot eat as he desires because he must pay taxes, that is his problem. A man may have to choose between caviar and a hamburger, but he has no choice as to taxes, which he must pay, come what may.

Also the cost of eating is not deductible except for those who have expense accounts and can sign their names to chits or tabs or whatever the summations are called in the very swellest restaurants. Only such folks are able to eat leisurely and as much as their gall bladders will tolerate. A deductible item is a great joy, if you can get it, and an expense account is the best way to live high on the hog prior to taxes.

This, however, everyone should know: Taxes are a first lien on one's earnings; they come even before breakfast.

United States Information Agency Doing Bad Job Of Propagandizing

About the only time the average American hears much about the United States Information Agency is during its battle for funds, when its activities are spotlighted and censured by congressional appropriation committees.

There is something inconsistent about the fact that the country with the best journalism, in both newspapers and magazines, the largest motion picture production the greatest radio and television networks and the most successful advertising, should fumble so badly in trying to propagandize itself over the world, which is the function of U.S.I.A.

So ineffectual has it been that, on the word of numerous U.S. travelers abroad, there is scarcely any evidence to be found in Europe or Asia that the people of those continents learn very much about the U.S from its official information agency. Largely for that reason, the agency must run an annual congressional gamut, which usually results in a slash in the funds recommended by the budget bureau, which this year were $144,000,000.

USIA is responsible only to the President, which means that neither the State Department nor the International Cooperation Administration have any jurisdiction over it. That was one reason why Eisenhower not long ago picked Arthur Larson, who had been Undersecretary of Labor, and was credited with inspiring the new doctrine of "modern Republicanism," as director of USIA. He has 12,000 government employees under him, including 3,000 in this country.

The other 9,000 are scattered about the world, supposedly fighting an "around the clock war against Communism."

USIA was one of the government agencies in the foreign field about which Vice President Richard M. Nixon is reported to have expressed sharp criticism in reporting on his African tour to the President. But Larson is the President's fair haired boy and in behalf of USIA, General Eisenhower has written the House Appropriations Committee, protesting a $38,000,000 out in its funds.

Some of our diplomats abroad have complained emphatically about USIA broadcasts on our foreign policy, which often go much beyond the State Department's own conceptions. Congress complains that the agency broadcasts statements for which it has no authority, such as in the early morning of Nov. 7, 1956 when the election returns were still incomplete, that "Nations still in earlier stages of industrial development can continue to expect American economic and technical assistance, irrespective of their membership in any defense pact."

The major press associations, Associated Press, United Press and International News Service, are annoyed that USIA maintains its own wire news service, sometimes carrying "information" for which it has no authority. The USIA service is furnished free to the same clients who buy the press association services, which are supplied by trained reporters in all countries.

The 9,000 employees of USIA abroad show few signs of initiative in spreading the American doctrine according to reliable reports. This has led to the belief here that they are composed largely of politically appointed men and women who want to spend some time abroad and whose training in writing and preparation of information is often negligible.

As to Russia, which USIA can reach only by radio, the broadcasts have been so successfully jammed that few listeners behind the Iron Curtain ever hear a coherent recital of what USIA has to tell them.

One of the exceptions to this poor showing is the magazine "Amerika" a pictorial periodical of American scenes and customs with Russian text, sold in Moscow under an agreement with the Soviet for distribution of a similar magazine "USSR" in this country. It is a creditable job, under direction of editor Herbert McGushin, a veteran newspaperman.

One of Eisenhower's more astonishing statements to the House Appropriations committee was that USIA, "demonstrated great value" at the time of the Hungarian uprising. The best comment on this came from many refugees who said that American broadcasts, either from USIA or independent groups, gave them encouragement to revolt, in the expectation that American armed forces would come to their support.

All in all, USIA seems to resemble a mountain laboring at the taxpayers expense to bring forth a propaganda mouse.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Major Work Of Congress Is Still Awaiting Action

WASHINGTON, April 19 (CQ)—The 85th Congress has reached the halfway point of its first session with the major portion of its work hardly started.

About the only big legislative issue that has been disposed of is President Eisenhower's Mideast Resolution. Congress also has extended existing excise and corporation taxes through June 30, 1958 —but there was never any serious doubt of that action.

A slow start is traditional in the kind of race Congress runs. It usually saves its sprint for the last lap of the session. And legislation that does not get passed in 1957 stays alive through 1958, so the really fast action will occur at the close of the second session.

Nevertheless, controversial legislation like civil rights and Federal aid to education must get a fast start in order not to get boxed in by the legislative maneuvers of opponents, regardless of the depth of support.

Both issues will get the spotlight in the House shortly after the Easter recess. The strategy is to take up first the bill to give the Federal Government additional power to protect the civil rights of Negroes. Although that procedure may result in the school aid bill waiting out a filibuster, strategists see it as the surest way of getting a school bill passed.

The theory is that Congressmen from districts heavily populated with Negroes can vote against an amendment to deny Federal money to segregated schools if they already have a vote on record in favor of civil rights legislation. Rep. Adam C. Powell Jr. (D., N. Y.) offered such an amendment last year and its adoption was blamed for the defeat of the whole school aid bill. He is committed to the same amendment this year.

The long delays sure to result in trying to push the civil rights and school aid bills through Congress will make it even harder for Congress to get through these major items requested by President Eisenhower or promised by party platforms:

Atomic Energy — The Democratic 1956 party platform pledged to have the Government build demonstration nuclear reactors while the Republican one said "the Government can stimulate private enterprise to go ahead." No bill of either type has even been up for hearings yet.

Civil Rights — Stalled in the Rules Committee of the House and in the Judiciary Committee of the Senate whose chairmen — Rep. Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) and Sen. James Q. Eastland (D-Miss.) —are arch foes of civil rights legislation.

Foreign Aid — Both the House and Senate are waiting for the President to submit his foreign aid blueprint, expected shortly after the Easter recess.

Immigration — President Eisenhower has asked for "prompt action" by Congress to revise immigration laws to enable more immigrants to come to the U. S. and to help Iron Curtain refugees, but nothing has happened in either chamber.

Lobby Law Revisions — The headlined investigation last year of lobbying surrounding the natural gas bill brought pledges of reform in the lobby law. Sen. John L. McClellan's (D., Ark.) special committee which conducted the investigation expects to report out bills to revise both lobby and campaign spending laws shortly after the Easter recess. But there has been no action so far in either chamber.

Natural Gas — Only action by Congress has been introduction of bills to free natural gas producers from Federal public utility regulation. President Eisenhower, who vetoed the gas bill last year because of what he termed "arrogant" lobbying, endorsed such legislation this year. Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee April 10 introduced a bill which he indicated had the backing of the Eisenhower Administration as well as most of the gas industry. He said the bill would get top priority action after the Easter recess, called it "imperative" legislation.

Postal Rates — The Eisenhower Administration has been pushing for postal rate increases, but Chairman Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee has shown little inclination to do anything about it. His committee has not held any hearings on the issue. Johnston has said it must be decided first whether the Post Office is a business or a service. The House has held hearings on rate increase legislation, but no bill has gone to the floor.

Small Business — Both political parties pledged tax relief for small business, but an amendment to provide some relief was rejected.

Statehood — Despite platforms of both parties and President Eisenhower urging statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, nothing beyond committee hearings has been done about it.

The House, which must originate all appropriations bills, has passed seven of the 12 regular bills providing fiscal 1958 funds for the Government. The Senate so far has not taken up any of them, although hearings are being held.

DR. CRANE SAYS

False Notions About Sex Cause Tension And Fear

Catholics, Jews and Protestants are using the scientific booklets offered by this newspaper to help prevent delinquency among teen-agers, as well as divorce among adults. The newspaper also gets at the 70 millions who don't belong to any church at all. Since about 40 per cent of Americans are unchurched, your newspaper is thus the major educational medium for reaching them.

Case U-360: Father Paul, aged 43, is an unusually well educated priest with whom I have dined occasionally in Chicago.

"Dr. Crane, I certainly appreciate your advice to teen-agers on sex matters," he graciously began.

"I find that ignorance of simple sex truths is a basic cause for delinquency and broken homes.

"You are well aware of the fact that many pyromaniacs (Firesetters), as well as potential gangsters and thieves, are compensating for sexual tensions.

"So never let occasional old-fashioned critics dissuade you from teaching our modern youth the facts of life. For I doubly appreciate the moral flavor that you inject into your psychology."

FACE THE FACTS

Millions of children and teenagers are carrying a needless load of tension and fear, due to false notions about sex.

As a lifelong adviser of youth, I should like to remind some of the prudish members of the older generation that children are not salacious by nature.

If a toddler of 3 thus asks, "Mommy, where did I come from?" he is simply curious.

And his question belongs in the same category as "Where did the moon come from?"

Alas, many adults in past generations have not held the same scientific view which their youngsters show.

No, they may casually try to answer the query about the moon. But they blush and hem and haw or titter and evade the query, "Mommy, where did I come from?"

So who is guilty of passing along the salaciousness from one generation to another? It is these purdish adults!

And they are the ones who occasionally oppose my column. Clergymen and other counsellors of youth don't object to my column when I present the scientific facts to youth regarding sex.

And thousands of teen-agers write to me for advice before they enter marriage.

Other girls come to me in apprehension when their boy friends demand that they submit to illicit sexual affairs.

Instead of evading these crucial queries, I give American youth the sensible medical, psychological and moral answers to these pertinent problems.

WISCONSIN'S ANSWER

In a previous column I told you about a letter I received from Wisconsin where high schoolers had been given a questionnaire concerning the sources of their sex information.

Among a long list, such as parents, doctors, clergymen, older brothers or sisters, Boy Scout leaders, etc., the investigators were surprised too find that the newspaper got such a heavy write-in that it rated 3rd.

Puzzled as to how the newspaper could be included in such a data, the investigators called some of these students in for a personal re-check.

And they found that thousands of teen-agers had written to their Wisconsin newspapers for such sex booklets as the one named below. These helpful booklets had thus been circulating throughout the high schools of Wisconsin.

So one of the officials in the state wrote me his findings to help show that newspapers render a monumental service in the cause of sane sex education.

Send for the booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). See that teen-agers in your high schools also receive it.

SYLVIA PORTER

'Freezing' Soviet Bonds Is Cruel Blow To People

Imagine your horror if this happened to you — and you'll begin to grasp the outrageously cruel financial whipping the Soviet Government has just given to Russia's helpless Ivan and Olga.

You own some United States bonds, securities of your own government which you have bought and paid for out of deductions from your paycheck. Over the years, you have put from two weeks to two months of your wages into these government bonds — the amount of your purchase depending on the level of your pay — and you have accumulated quite a chunk of the bonds. Whatever the reasons for your purchases, you consider these bonds your basic savings nestegg to protect you in case of financial emergencies.

Suddenly, President Eisenhower calls a press conference to say:

"We have sold billions of dollars of these bonds to tens of millions of you in recent years and now an awful lot of the bonds are starting to come due each year. To get the cash to pay interest on the bonds and to redeem those maturing is placing a great burden on the treasury.

"So we have decided to 'freeze' $65 billion of the bonds outstanding, or 75 per cent of all the bonds you own, for 20 to 25 years.

"We won't pay a penny of interest on the bonds or redeem a single one until 1977-82, and then we'll replay only a small portion a year.

"Of course, you'll willingly accept this 'freeze' and since it will ease the burden on the treasury, we'll do you a couple of favors. This year, you'll have to buy only half the amount of new bonds we had originally budgeted for you. And beginning in 1958, you need not buy any new bonds unless you want to."

Imagine this nightmare! Think of it happening to you — and you'll see through the brutal pronouncement 10 days ago by Communist boss Khrushchev that the Soviet government has decided to postpone interest and payment of principal on 260 billion rubles ($65 billion) of outstanding government bonds for 20 to 25 years.

For this means that the millions of Russians who have bought the bonds through the years own the equivalent of wallpaper. They can't get interest on the bonds, exchange or borrow against them. The Russians who thought they were investing part of their earnings in bonds actually have been handing over this part of their pay in taxes to the government.

It means that the middle classes who hold the biggest amounts of the bonds, again have been put through the wringer.

It means that Russia has repudiated — cancelled — three-quarters of her debt to her people.

And even if any bonds ever are paid off, it won't be in rubles today's bondholders recognize. The ruble of 1977-82 won't be anything like the ruble of 1957.

But the swindling of the Russian worker is only part of the tale. The fact that the Soviet government has gone to this extreme also tells us some profoundly significant things about her own economy.

Inflation in the USSR must be even worse and production of consumer goods must be falling even farther behind than we have suspected. Obviously, the Soviet Union doesn't dare pay off bonds and thus place extra rubles in the hands of her workers for fear they'll use the rubles to try to buy already scarce goods in the stores. This would send prices skyrocketing because Russia is just not producing enough goods.

The Russian Empire must be in the middle of a real economic upheaval, for this is not the first radical move made recently in this sphere. Russia is now overhauling her mothods of industrial production — an admission that the methods of the past have failed. And as of April 1, she is allowing foreigners to get 10 rubles for a dollar against an official rate of four to the dollar—again, an admission that goods are scarce and the "official" price level is exceedingly shaky.

When Khrushchev announced the "freeze," he said that western capitalists would not "understand" it. But we do — too clearly for Mr. K.

We understand that the communist Khrushchev is carrying "capitalism" to the most horrible, reprehensible lengths ever known.

Because several of these men who have returned have escaped legal punishment and because any others who may return will also escape such punishment, there can be little objection to cutting the terms of Dickenson and Batchelor. Aaron Wilson of Urania, La., was one of those who escaped legal punishment.

The American turncoats who decided to stay in red China claimed their decisions were made because they had come to believe in communism. The truth was, however, that they had courted favor with the communists while in prison merely to make life easier for themselves and to gain special favors. To do this, they informed on their fellow Americans, either with true or concocted stories, making life for the other prisoners even more intolerable.

These men will not escape all punishment. They will be forced to live throughout their lives with themselves and to try to live with other Americans who know of their betrayals.

Colorado Legislators Vote Funds To Move Units

Unbelievable as it seems, the Colorado legislature has voted to turn over hundreds of thousands—perhaps millions—of dollars of public road funds to utility companies to pay for moving utility-owned poles, conduits and pipelines on highways that are to be widened or rebuilt.

Utility lines occupy the public highways rent free with the definite understanding that if highway alterations make it necessary to move the lines, the companies will have to relocate at their own expense. That is an obligation the utilities incur when they occupy highway space free of charge.

Many utilities have signed contracts with the state highway department agreeing to move at their own expense if the highway space they occupy becomes necessary for road purposes—as when a highway is widened. Even where no written agreements exist, utility companies have set up their lines on public highways with full understanding that they can be required to move if utility lines interfere with road construction. That has always been the practice in Colorado and nearly all other states.

The bill passed by the legislature would wipe out these agreements and time-honored practice. The state could no longer reoccupy highway land which it owns—but has permitted utility companies to use—unless taxpayers' dollars were turned over to the utilities to pay for the costs of moving.

This is the most amazing grab of public funds for special interest purposes ever attempted in Colorado. It must be noted that the utility companies are attempting the same thing in many other states. This is a carefully-planned nationwide raid on highway tax funds, both state and federal.

In defense of this proposal it is argued that it would benefit many publically-owned or cooperatively-owned utilities such as water systems and rural electrification systems. This is merely window dressing since 90 pct. of the tax money which would be diverted under this bill would go to large private utilities.

It is argued, also, that people who pay highway taxes are the same people who use utilities so there is nothing wrong with using highway revenues to keep utility companies from passing on to their customers the cost of moving lines.

Under this tortured line of reasoning there would be no end to the "legitimate" diversions of highway funds to non-highway purposes. People who pay highway taxes also use postal service which involves the use of public roads. Why not divert highway money to subsidize the postoffice department?

Sneakiest of all arguments for the utility bill is the one that the principal cost will be borne by the federal highway fund, so why should the state object?

To hear some legislative defenders of this bill talk you would get the impression that Coloradans pay no federal highway taxes so it is no concern of theirs if the federal road fund is raided.

It is true, of course, that some states will adopt laws similar to the bill our legislature has passed. The extensive utility lobby will score some victories.

But we can't agree that Colorado should submit to a grab of road funds by utility companies merely because some other states will or have done so. Governor Simpson of Wyoming set a better example when he vetoed the utility bill which had been passed in that state. We hope Governor McNichols will act similarly. — The Denver Post.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Some Departments Expect Congress To Squeeze Out Padded Payrolls

Every citizen has ideas about what the taxes should be and how to collect them. Nobody really enjoys paying any taxes at all, but most admit that the government needs to meet its bills, and therefore must tax the citizens somewhat. When the "somewhat" gets too tough, the citizens write letters to columnists and congressmen.

What most citizens do not know is that some departments of the government pad their payrolls, expecting Congress to squeeze the padding out. Also that if a department discovers that it has more money on hand than it can spend, ways and means have to be invented to make the money disappear; otherwise it has to be returned to the Treasury and that fouls things up for an enlarged and padded budget the next year.

Also there is an item called "unexpended surpluses," namely, that some departments are able to hide away the amounts that they cannot use in a given year and they hold on to these sums, lawfully or otherwise, so that they can be used as needed. Finally, there are the items which run for more than a fiscal year—say, such an item as building a new-type plane which may run from conception to obsolescence over a couple of years. The trouble here is that when such an item becomes obsolete, even on the drawing board, it is not altogether discarded if the appropriations have been authorized, lest some congressional committee ask what goes on.

So all this costs money and the taxpayer is required to turn over his earnings to the tax collectors and hopes that he can carry himself along on installment buying until his credit is exhausted, if ever. Now along comes a Yankee from Rockland, Maine, who wants no personal advertising, but he makes a proposition:

"For my money Mr. Sokolsky, all taxation should be based on a person's ability to pay it, and I would think that it would be a very good idea if the city, state, and federal governments, would get together and base their taxation programs on that and then they would have some idea of how much you can take out of a person for taxes, something that only the federal government knows, at this time, as we all have to eat first and pay taxes after, and to that I think that you will agree."

In the first place, how is ability to pay to be measured? At present, it is measured by earnings and we suffer a graduated income tax based on earnings but including a number of exceptions and exemptions. Therefore this gentleman's proposition offers nothing novel because that is the way it is now done. All earnings are reported at least twice, once by the payer and another time by the recipient and to prevent the citizen from spending his earnings as he goes along, Congress has instituted the withholding tax which is a trick whereby one's wages are cut in advance and the tax money taken out. This entails considerable and costly bookkeeping for which the government does not pay.

The psychological effect of the withholding tax is that many who pay taxes do not automatically realize how much they pay. They regard as their wages the net amount that they take home.

My correspondent wants "to eat first and pay taxes after," which is a proposition that the government does not regard as valid. Actually, taxes come first and foremost under the law, and if the citizen cannot eat as he desires because he must pay taxes, that is his problem. A man may have to choose between caviar and a hamburger, but he has no choice as to taxes, which he must pay, come what may.

Also the cost of eating is not deductible except for those who have expense accounts and can sign their names to chits or tabs or whatever the summations are called in the very swellest restaurants. Only such folks are able to eat leisurely and as much as their gall bladders will tolerate. A deductible item is a great joy, if you can get it, and an expense account is the best way to live high on the hog prior to taxes.

This, however, everyone should know: Taxes are a first lien on one's earnings; they come even before breakfast.

United States Information Agency Doing Bad Job Of Propagandizing

About the only time the average American hears much about the United States Information Agency is during its battle for funds, when its activities are spotlighted and censured by congressional appropriation committees.

There is something inconsistent about the fact that the country with the best journalism, in both the newspapers and magazines, the largest motion picture production the greatest radio and television networks and the most successful advertising, should fumble so badly in trying to propagandize itself over the world, which is the function of U.S.I.A.

So ineffectual has it been that, on the word of numerous U.S. travelers abroad, there is scarcely any evidence to be found in Europe or Asia that the people of those continents learn very much about the U.S from its official information agency. Largely for that reason, the agency must run an annual congressional gamut, which usually results in a slash in the funds recommended by the budget bureau, which this year were $144,000,000.

USIA is responsible only to the President, which means that neither the State Department nor the International Cooperation Administration have any jurisdiction over it. That was one reason why Eisenhower not long ago picked Arthur Larson, who had been Undersecretary of Labor, and was credited with inspiring the new doctrine of "modern Republicanism," as director of USIA. He has 12,000 government employees under him, including 3,000 in this country.

The other 9,000 are scattered about the world, supposedly fighting an "around the clock war against Communism."

USIA was one of the government agencies in the foreign field about which Vice President Richard M. Nixon is reported to have expressed sharp criticism in reporting on his African tour to the President. But Larson is the President's fair haired boy and in behalf of USIA, General Eisenhower has written the House Appropriations Committee, protesting a $38,000,000 out in its funds.

Some of our diplomats abroad have complained emphatically about USIA broadcasts on our foreign policy, which often go much beyond the State Department's own conceptions. Congress complains that the agency broadcasts statements for which it has no authority, such as in the early morning of Nov. 7, 1956 when the election returns were still incomplete, that "Nations still in earlier stages of industrial development can continue to expect American economic and technical assistance, irrespective of their membership in any defense pact."

The major press associations, Associated Press, United Press and International News Service, are annoyed that USIA maintains its own wire news service, sometimes carrying "information" for which it has no authority. The USIA service is furnished free to the same clients who buy the press association services, which are supplied by trained reporters in all countries.

The 9,000 employees of USIA abroad show few signs of initiative in spreading the American doctrine according to reliable reports. This has led to the belief here that they are composed largely of politically appointed men and women who want to spend some time abroad and whose training in writing and preparation of information is often negligible.

As to Russia, which USIA can reach only by radio, the broadcasts have been so successfully jammed that few listeners behind the Iron Curtain ever hear a coherent recital of what USIA has to tell them.

One of the exceptions to this poor showing is the magazine "Amerika" a pictorial periodical of American scenes and customs with Russian text, sold in Moscow under an agreement with the Soviet for distribution of a similar magazine "USSR" in this country. It is a creditable job, under direction of editor Herbert McGushin, a veteran newspaperman.

One of Eisenhower's more astonishing statements to the House Appropriations committee was that USIA, "demonstrated great value" at the time of the Hungarian uprising. The best comment on this came from many refugees who said that American broadcasts, either from USIA or independent groups, gave them encouragement to revolt, in the expect[illegible] that American armed forc[illegible] ould come to their support.

All in all, USIA seems to resemble a mountain laboring at the taxpayers expense to bring forth a propaganda mouse.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Major Work Of Congress Is Still Awaiting Action

WASHINGTON, April 19 (CQ)—The 85th Congress has reached the halfway point of its first session with the major portion of its work hardly started.

About the only big legislative issue that has been disposed of is President Eisenhower's Mideast Resolution. Congress also has extended existing excise and corporation taxes through June 30, 1958—but there was never any serious doubt of that action.

A slow start is traditional in the kind of race Congress runs. It usually saves its sprint for the last lap of the session. And legislation that does not get passed in 1957 stays alive through 1958, so the really fast action will occur at the close of the second session.

Nevertheless, controversial legislation like civil rights and Federal aid to education must get a fast start in order not to get boxed in by the legislative maneuvers of opponents, regardless of the depth of support.

Both issues will get the spotlight in the House shortly after the Easter recess. The strategy is to take up first the bill to give the Federal Government additional power to protect the civil rights of Negroes. Although that procedure may result in the school aid bill waiting out a filibuster, strategists see it as the surest way of getting a school bill passed.

The theory is that Congressmen from districts heavily populated with Negroes can vote against an amendment to deny Federal money to segregated schools if they already have a vote on record in favor of civil rights legislation. Rep. Adam C. Powell Jr. (D., N. Y.) offered such an amendment last year and its adoption was blamed for the defeat of the whole school aid bill. He is committed to the same amendment this year.

The long delays sure to result in trying to push the civil rights and school aid bills through Congress will make it even harder for Congress to get through these major items requested by President Eisenhower or promised by party platforms:

Atomic Energy — The Democratic 1956 party platform pledged to have the Government build demonstration nuclear reactors while the Republican one said "the Government can stimulate private enterprise to go ahead." No bill of either type has even been up for hearings yet.

Civil Rights — Stalled in the Rules Committee of the House and in the Judiciary Committee of the Senate whose chairmen — Rep. Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) and Sen. James Q. Eastland (D-Miss.)—are arch foes of civil rights legislation.

Foreign Aid — Both the House and Senate are waiting for the President to submit his foreign aid blueprint, expected shortly after the Easter recess.

Immigration — President Eisenhower has asked for "prompt action" by Congress to revise immigration laws to enable more immigrants to come to the U. S. and to help Iron Curtain refugees, but nothing has happened in either chamber.

Lobby Law Revisions — The headlined investigation last year of lobbying surrounding the natural gas bill brought pledges of reform in the lobby law. Sen. John L. McClellan's (D., Ark.) special committee which conducted the investigation expects to report out bills to revise both lobby and campaign spending laws shortly after the Easter recess. But there has been no action so far in either chamber.

Natural Gas — Only action by Congress has been introduction of bills to free natural gas producers from Federal public utility regulation. President Eisenhower, who vetoed the gas bill last year because of what he termed "arrogant" lobbying, endorsed such legislation this year. Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee April 10 introduced a bill which he indicated had the backing of the Eisenhower Administration as well as most of the gas industry. He said the bill would get top priority action after the Easter recess, called it "imperative" legislation.

Postal Rates — The Eisenhower Administration has been pushing for postal rate increases, but Chairman Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee has shown little inclination to do anything about it. His committee has not held any hearings on the issue. Johnston has said it must be decided first whether the Post Office is a business or a service. The House has held hearings on rate increase legislation, but no bill has gone to the floor.

Small Business — Both political parties pledged tax relief for small business, but an amendment to provide some relief was rejected.

Statehood — Despite platforms of both parties and President Eisenhower urging statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, nothing beyond committee hearings has been done about it.

The House, which must originate all appropriations bills, has passed seven of the 12 regular bills providing fiscal 1958 funds for the Government. The Senate so far has not taken up any of them, although hearings are being held.

DR. CRANE SAYS

False Notions About Sex Cause Tension And Fear

Catholics, Jews and Protestants are using the scientific booklets offered by this newspaper to help prevent delinquency among teen-agers, as well as divorce among adults. The newspaper also gets at the 70 millions who don't belong to any church at all. Since about 40 per cent of Americans are unchurched, your newspaper is thus the major educational medium for reaching them.

Case U-360: Father Paul, aged 43, is an unusually well educated priest with whom I have dined occasionally in Chicago.

"Dr. Crane, I certainly appreciate your advice to teen-agers on sex matters," he graciously began.

"You are well aware of the fact that many pyromaniacs (Fire-setters), as well as potential gangsters and thieves, are compensating for sexual tensions.

"So never let occasional old-fashioned critics dissuade you from teaching our modern youth the facts of life. For I doubly appreciate the moral flavor that you inject into your psychology."

FACE THE FACTS

Millions of children and teen-agers are carrying a needless load of tension and fear, due to false notions about sex.

As a lifelong adviser of youth, I should like to remind some of the prudish members of the older generation that children are not salacious by nature.

If a toddler of 3 thus asks, "Mommy, where did I come from?" he is simply curious.

And his question belongs in the same category as "Where did the moon come from?"

Alas, many adults in past generations have not held the same scientific view which their youngsters show.

No, they may casually try to answer the query about the moon. But they blush and hem and haw or titter and evade the query, "Mommy, where did I come from?"

So who is guilty of passing along the salaciousness from one generation to another? It is these purdish adults!

And they are the ones who occasionally oppose my column. Clergymen and other counsellors of youth don't object to my column when I present the scientific facts to youth regarding sex.

And thousands of teen-agers write to me for advice before they enter marriage.

Other girls come to me in apprehension when their boy friends demand that they submit to illicit sexual affairs.

Instead of evading these crucial queries, I give American youth the sensible medical, psychological and moral answers to these pertinent problems.

WISCONSIN'S ANSWER

In a previous column I told you about a letter I received from Wisconsin where high schoolers had been given a questionnaire concerning the sources of their sex information.

Among a long list, such as parents, doctors, clergymen, older brothers or sisters, Boy Scout leaders, etc., the investigators were surprised too find that the newspaper got such a heavy write-in that it rated 3rd.

Puzzled as to how the newspaper could be included in such a data, the investigators called some of these students in for a personal re-check.

And they found that thousands of teen-agers had written to their Wisconsin newspapers for such sex booklets as the one named below. These helpful booklets had thus been circulating throughout the high schools of Wisconsin.

So one of the officials in the state wrote me his findings to help show that newspapers render a monumental service in the cause of sane sex education.

Send for the booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). See that teen-agers in your high schools also receive it.

SYLVIA PORTER

'Freezing' Soviet Bonds Is Cruel Blow To People

Imagine your horror if this happened to you — and you'll begin to grasp the outrageously cruel financial whipping the Soviet Government has just given to Russia's helpless Ivan and Olga.

You own some United States bonds, securities of your own government which you have bought and paid for out of deductions from your paycheck. Over the years, you have put from two weeks to two months of your wages into these government bonds — the amount of your purchase depending on the level of your pay — and you have accumulated quite a chunk of the bonds. Whatever the reasons for your purchases, you consider these bonds your basic savings nestegg to protect you in case of financial emergencies.

Suddenly, President Eisenhower calls a press conference to say:

"We have sold billions of dollars of these bonds to tens of millions of you in recent years and now an awful lot of the bonds are starting to come due each year. To get the cash to pay interest on the bonds and to redeem those maturing is placing a great burden on the treasury.

"So we have decided to 'freeze' $65 billion of the bonds outstanding, or 75 per cent of all the bonds you own, for 20 to 25 years.

"We won't pay a penny of interest on the bonds or redeem a single one until 1977-82, and then we'll replay only a small portion a year.

"Of course, you'll willingly accept this 'freeze' and since it will ease the burden on the treasury, we'll do you a couple of favors. This year, you'll have to buy only half the amount of new bonds we had originally budgeted for you. And beginning in 1958, you need not buy any new bonds unless you want to."

Imagine this nightmare! Think of it happening to you — and you'll see through the brutal pronouncement 10 days ago by Communist boss Khrushchev that the Soviet government has decided to postpone interest and payment of principal on 260 billion rubles ($65 billion) of outstanding government bonds for 20 to 25 years.

For this means that the millions of Russians who have bought the bonds through the years own the equivalent of wallpaper. They can't get interest on the bonds, exchange or borrow against them. The Russians who thought they were investing part of their earnings in bonds actually have been handing over this part of their pay in taxes to the government.

It means that the middle classes who hold the biggest amounts of the bonds, again have been put through the wringer.

It means that Russia has repudiated — cancelled — three-quarters of her debt to her people.

And even if any bonds ever are paid off, it won't be in rubles today's bondholders recognize. The ruble of 1977-82 won't be anything like the ruble of 1957.

But the swindling of the Russian worker is only part of the tale. The fact that the Soviet government has gone to this extreme also tells us some profoundly significant things about her own economy.

Inflation in the USSR must be even worse and production of consumer goods must be falling even farther behind than we have suspected. Obviously, the Soviet Union doesn't dare pay off bonds and thus place extra rubles in the hands of her workers for fear they'll use the rubles to try to buy already scarce goods in the stores. This would send prices skyrocketing because Russia is just not producing enough goods.

The Russian Empire must be in the middle of a real economic upheaval, for this is not the first radical move made recently in this sphere. Russia is now overhauling her mothods of industrial production — an admission that the methods of the past have failed. And as of April 1, she is allowing foreigners to get 10 rubles for a dollar against an official rate of four to the dollar—again, an admission that goods are scarce and the "official" price level is exceedingly shaky.

When Khrushchev announced the "freeze," he said that western capitalists would not "understand" it. But we do — too clearly for Mr. K.

Home Library

SOME people build home libraries ... With books they have not read ... And which, they think, they have no time ... To even read in bed ... But, oh, they want those volumes, and ... They say the day will come ... When they will study all of them ... Or quite a few, or some ... Someday when they retire, and ... Have nothing else to do ... Than just to choose a famous work ... And pore the pages through ... But ironclad intentions can ... Get covered up with rust ... And many are the shelves of books ... That merely gather dust ... The best library in the home ... Is built up now and then ... With treasured tomes that have been read ... And will be read again.

Beck Challenges AFL-CIO Ouster

uries for his own use.

Beck is expected to be recalled by the Senate committee later for more questioning about business deals between his union and firms in which he or his family have financial interest.

One committee member, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), told reporters that if Beck's challenge of the AFL-CIO is successful, Senate investigators may recall him quickly.

Additional Information

"The committee has developed additional information that the teamster, the public and the Congress should know," Mundt said.

One Beck letter, dated Thursday and made public today, told Meany that the AFL-CIO Executive Council acted illegally when it suspended him from its membership March 29. He said the Executive Council could only recommend action to the AFL-CIO convention.

"Accordingly, the purported suspension is ineffective," Beck said.

He added that the Executive Council could only act on "specific charges of malfeasance and maladministration" and that "the AFL-CIO constitution cannot be regarded as an ex post facto law having retroactive effect."

World Puzzle Jackpot Has Narrow Call

nor public can be said to "carefully study" the HOSE, ROSE or NOSE, in the "poster."

16. BOAR not BOAT. "Heard" favors BOAR, as in any normal case, you could see a BOAT across the water, but a BOAR may be hidden by vegetation, etc. Furthermore, a BOAR will make noise, whereas a BOAT could be drifting and completely silent.

20. COT not CAT. While a COT, as such, may merely "have its place in the home," a CAT usually has several places.

22. THESES not THEMES. Anybody may argue about some sort of THEME. THESES links more specifically with "learned men."

24. PEW not PEN. A person would hardly use a PEG for years. PET is vague. The clue implies that the person has a choice but always uses "the same one," favoring PEW. "It would be quite normal for a person" to have only one PEN and "to use it for years."

Clues Down

1. BORED not BOOED. He certainly won't be BORED. He may be BOOED, by opposition supporters or those ignorant of good playing.

3. SOAP not SOUP. True of SOAP in general, since all SOAP today is bought. As for SOUP, much of it is made at home so the phrase "costs more to buy" does not apply generally, as it does to SOAP.

4. FOG not DOG. BOG, HOG JOG or LOG can be just as annoying on a short as on a "long walk." You don't take a DOG "for a long walk," unless your are fully prepared to make any necessary allowance for it — for example, it must be fed, or it must be carried part way, etc. FOG, on the other hand, is probably something unexpected, something unbargained for, since you would hardly go on a long walk in a FOG. It could thus well prove a nuisance.

5. MEN not TEN. MEN, yes since "people" implies both men and women, and "party" does not imply stag "party." In a small place, TEN is quite a lot of people.

8. SIRE not SITE or Side or SIZE. To judge a SIRE certainly requires a qualified judge of horses. As for a SITE, the average man can judge the average SITE. The merits of a SIDE(team) are apparent from its standing in the league. SIZE is too vague and SINE is remote.

11. SAFE not SANE or SAGE. This stunt might be performed for a specific reason (e. g. a movie) hence it may be perfectly SANE or SAGE. Since the margin for error is small, SAFE is very apt in any case.

15. FAR not FAT. "If he isn't properly fed," he won't get FAR in more ways than one "Properly fed" can mean improper food and not necessarily insufficient food, so he might well get FAT on improper FAT-creating food.

16 BETTER not BITTER. Being about "a hospital patient" tips the clue towards BETTER. What has "a hospital patient" got to be BITTER about? "A bit of a nuisance" is an understatement for BITTER anyway.

21. SHE not SHY. "Stories of wildlife" abound in cases of the female of the species the she animal) being more deadly than the male. The same does not apply to the SHY animal.

change of salutations by the prominent man and ourselves, we chanced to say to him." That woman is a wonder. She is so wrapped up in her church that were she not connected with it, it seems like it would never be a success!"

Then the well - to - do - man asked if we had a blank check. Of course we had none but he went into the office of the postmaster and came out with one which he quickly filled out for $50, made payable to "CASH." Then making us promise not to reveal his identity, he handed us the check. And did the recipient get a great thrill when she received the money, a short time later!

But surprises seemed not to be ended. We entered a downtown cafe near the postoffice and placed an order for a substantial meal.

Chancing to thrust a hand into an inside pocket, out came a leather spectacle case and a pair of glasses! Amusement took possession of us an instant later we had to realize that we had come to town with another man's coat.

Calling the waitress, we informed that we had hastily come away with another man's coat and that we had our money, safely encased in our own coat, so we asked for a cancellation of the order.

"Oh don't do that," the obliging waitress said with an indulgent smile." Just write your name on the ticket that's all needed!"

Just as we prepared to follow instructions the waitress re - appeared." The boss says that it's on the house. That you have done enough favors for him, so there!"

Here's a yarn that comes from across the seas. It took place, we are told, in a grammar school. The headmaster was discussing with a father the career his son might follow.

"What plans have you formulated for Johnny," the instructor asked.

"It all depends on 'is certificate," the father responded. "If'e gets a good 'un, we'll send 'im to the university. If its not good enough for that, we'll put' im to teachin'."

"What will happen if the report is real bad?" the professor asked.

"In that case," said the father, "we'll have to get 'im into the town hall."

We are pleased to see that the memory of beloved Ernest L. Neville is to be kept in mind through a scholarship fund created in his name.

It starts off with a donation of $500 contributed and a board of directors is to be composed of three Neville alumni, three members of the City Teachers' association, the principal of Neville High School, the superintendent of city schools, the president of the alumni association, and the president of the Classroom Teachers' association.

Miss Eloise Cann, principal of Plum street school, is receiving contributions to this fund.

Dianne Carter, senior in West Monroe high school, has had a poem accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of High School Poetry.

Each year the Anthology is issued under auspices of the National High School Poetry association, but only a small number of poems are accepted.

Her title in this instance was "The Secret of Spring." Assistant Prin. S. R. Braley, of the West Monroe high school, gives high rating to the poem as do others privileged to read it in advance of its publication.

the Burlington, Wis., area.

Near Oconomowoc, high school teacher Oscar Dobratz, 45, was killed by a lightning bolt as he tested soil on a farm.

Two Boys Drowned

At Beaver Dam, a motorboat loaded with nine teenagers swamped and sank. Two boys, Vince Ptashinski, 17, and Edward Schliewe, 18, were drowned. Their friends said a sudden wind whipped the lake into high waves.

Winds up to 50-miles-an hour whistled through Iowa and Tornadoes danced around the McCook, Neb., area.

A small twister sent a tree crashing against a farm home near Culbertson, Neb., but the six occupants, including four children, were not injured. Tornado funnels were reported on the northern edge of McCook and at Trenton, west of McCook, but they apparently did not touch ground.

Near Bartlesville, Okla., a tornado roared through a dairy farm, killing livestock and destroying buildings. Power at nearby Ramona, Okla., was snapped off for two hours.

Wild winds also tore through Texas. Barns were uprooted and trees torn down near San Antonio.

Turbulent Weather

Weather experts predicted the turbulent weather should clear up in most of the nation in time for Easter, except for scattered afternoon or evening thundershowers in the East and South. Temperatures were expected to hit the 70s and 80s Sunday in this area and range in the 50s through northern states.

Winter returned momentarily to the Rocky Mountains Friday, withn scattered light snow in Wyoming and a mixture of snow and rain around Denver, Colo.

Ensminger was living in Baton Rouge.

Services will be held at the Central Baptist Church here with burial in the church cemetery under the direction of the Hollabaugh-Seale and Spindle Funeral Home of Baton Rouge.

Accident Victims Improved

RUSTON, April 19 (Special) — A Monroe couple and a 20-year-old Choudrant Negro were said to be "somewhat improved" here today after suffering injuries in a two-car collision near Choudrant mid - afternoon Thursday.

The two children of Mr. and Mrs Frank P. DeLarzelere, of 809 North Fourth street, Monroe, were released after 24-hour observation.

DeLarzelere underwent surgery today for a broken kneecap and was said to be doing "okay" following the operation.

The Negro, Joseph McCray, suffered a broken jaw and multiple bruises, authorities said but was in "good condition."

McCray, driving a 1946 model car was said to have pulled onto Highway 80 about two miles east of Choudrant into the path of the Monroe couple's auto — a 1957 Buick station wagon. Both were traveling west.

Dulles' Speech To Be Live On TV

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The State Department said today Secretary of State Dulles' speech to the annual Associated Press luncheon in New York City Monday will be carried "live" over NBC television at 2 p.m. EST.

Press officer Lincoln White said Dulles' talk also will be broadcast, on a delayed basis, over the NBC, CBS and ABC networks.

The U.S. Information Agency also arranged to beam the address over its powerful Voice of America radio network.

White declined to give reporters any clue to the subject of Dulles' speech.

workers filed into the tunnel and bore the injured to the surface. Ambulances from four hospitals whisked them away for treatment.

The wreck caused a transportation tie-up along the Brooklyn line of the IND (Independent) Subway System between Brooklyn and Queens for almost two hours.

Mrs. Gloria Adriditirs, 32, of Brooklyn, was in the rear car of the stalled train.

Knocked Babies Down

She said the impact "knocked one of my babies off my lap.

"People were knocked to the floor," she said.

Authorities said the casualty figure probably would have been much higher except that the Good Friday observances had cut the usual traffic load.

Motorman Victor P. O'Britis, 46, stopped the train between the Bedford-Nostrand and the Myrtle-Willoughby stations of the Brooklyn branch of the IND (Independent) Subway Line to fix the brakes. He was just getting back into the train when another local train slammed into the rear.

Trains Collided

Police said the collision took place at about 7:20 p.m. EST when a six-car train smashed into the stalled eight-car train.

Ambulances were dispatched from Cumberland Hospital, Kings County Hospital, St. Catherine's and Greenpoint Hospital.

O'Britis, whose train was carrying more than 100 persons, said his train came to a halt automatically because of the defective equipment.

"I found the trouble in the fourth car and had it all set," the motorman said. "I don't know what happened then. There was a crash.

"Some people were knocked to the floor and some of the injured got panicky and began screaming.

Calm Them Down

"I said to them, 'take it easy.' I had to calm them down. They used the emergency exits themselves and a lot of them walked out."

O'Britis, sweating freely as he told reporters of the mishap, appeared to be in a mild state of shock.

O'Britis' train, slammed off the tracks by the collision, tilted at an angle of about 30 degrees. Straw seat cushions of the train littered the floor. Many of the doors gaped open, sprung from the door jambs by the force of the collision.

Funds For Juvenile Home Voted Down

John Coon administration and with Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe, the Police Jury would have put up $150 per month, the City of Monroe, $100, and West Monroe would have contributed $25.

Pettit explained that the resolution voted on by the Jury yesterday was "merely to get the Jury to accept the responsibility of providing the $275 monthly."

He said, however, that he felt the State Department of Welfare would assume full responsibility for operating the home, which would then be open to the entire Fifth District.

The Welfare Department contributed a little over $13,000 to the construction of the home, Pettit said.

Costing between $130,000 and $135,000, the remainder of the cost was paid by the mill tax passed by Ouachita citizens, he said.

"This administration has not been notified of any agreement made by the past administration with the Police Jury," Howard said.

First Word

"We have not been contacted by anyone on the Jury regarding this matter and my first knowledge of it was when contacted by the newspaper," the mayor explained.

He added that the City Council was "vitally interested" in the juvenile program "not only in the city but throughout the parish" and said he felt the Council would be "very happy" to discuss the home with the Police Jury.

Yesterday's vote was by a sweeping margin as Pettit was in Dallas, president A. E. Montgomery, Sr. was absent because of illness and Tom Hicks left immediately prior to the vote.

Voting against the resolution were A. R. (Red) Sims, W. J. Venson, M. W. Montgomery, Ollie Carter, Percy Nichols, Clarence Kincaid and Frank Golson.

Voting for it were Red Studdard, Robert Erby, Irvin Kilpatrick, L. U. Fourmy, W. O. Roberts and Hilton Owens.

Opinions were equally as split.

Kilpatrick said he was disappointed; Montgomery said it put the parish "in a very embarrassing situation;" Sims said the "people" had been promised when the mill election came up that the expenses of the home would be taken care of; and Montgomery advocated a prison farm.

"The people that asked for the detention home promised us that the mill would take care of all the expenses," Sims said, "Now the jury is asked to provide funds to maintain the home."

'It's unfair to the people who voted for the tax," he stated.

When told of the defeated resolution in Dallas, Pettit said:

"It's a crying shame that the people of Ouachita parish built the home and now the polic jury won't open it."

Fourmy said the Welfare Department was in the process of selecting personnel for the home, but that he was "afraid this will prevent it from being opened soon."

The home was built to provide for 22 persons, Pettit said. Juveniles were to be kept there 72 hours before further action would be taken.

Pettit said the home would be operated by six persons. He was chairman of the citizens committee appointed five years ago to plan the program for the home's construction.

Salaries for home personnel would have amounted to $30,400. Pettit pointed out that the Welfare Department would pay for the salaries.

Sniper Wounds 3 Negro Children

DENISON, Tex., April 19 (AP) — A sniper in a passing car last night fired a shotgun at three young Negroes playing in front of a housing development here, spattering them with pellets.

Police identified the three wounded children as Arthur Gable, 14, Ruby Joe Ricks and Henry Sam Ricks.

Officers said they were not seriously hurt, although each suffered "half a dozen or more pellet wounds" on the arms, legs and body. They were being treated at a hospital here.

The blast was the latest in a series of demonstrations in the Negro area of town since three Negro teen-agers were charged with raping a 17-year-old white girl April 7. The previous demonstrations were limited to rock throwing, however, and caused no injuries.

Beck Challenges AFL-CIO Ouster

uries for his own use.

Beck is expected to be recalled by the Senate committee later for more questioning about business deals between his union and firms in which he or his family have financial interest.

One committee member, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), told reporters that if Beck's challenge of the AFL-CIO is successful, Senate investigators may recall him quickly.

Additional Information

"The committee has developed additional information that the teamster, the public and the Congress should know," Mundt said.

One Beck letter, dated Thursday and made public today, told Meany that the AFL-CIO Executive Council acted illegally when it suspended him from its membership March 29. He said the Executive Council could only recommend action to the AFL-CIO convention.

"Accordingly, the purported suspension is ineffective," Beck said.

He added that the Executive Council could only act on "specific charges of malfeasance and maladministration" and that "the AFL-CIO constitution cannot be regarded as an ex post facto law having retroactive effect."

World Puzzle Jackpot Has Narrow Call

nor public can be said to "carefully study" the HOSE, ROSE or NOSE, in the "poster."

16. BOAR not BOAT. "Heard" favors BOAR, as in any normal case, you could see a BOAT across the water, but a BOAR may be hidden by vegetation, etc. Furthermore, a BOAR will make noise, whereas a BOAT could be drifting and completely silent.

20. COT not CAT. While a COT, as such, may merely "have its place in the home," a CAT usually has several places.

22. THESES not THEMES. Anybody may argue about some sort of THEME. THESES links more specifically with "learned men."

24. PEW not PEN. A person would hardly use a PEG for years. PET is vague. The clue implies that the person has a choice but always uses "the same one," favoring PEW. "It would be quite normal for a person" to have only one PEN and "to use it for years."

Clues Down

1. BORED not BOOED. He certainly won't be BORED. He may be BOOED, by opposition supporters or those ignorant of good playing.

3. SOAP not SOUP. True of SOAP in general, since all SOAP today is bought. As for SOUP, much of it is made at home so the phrase "costs more to buy" does not apply generally, as it does to SOAP.

4. FOG not DOG. BOG, HOG JOG or LOG can be just as annoying on a short as on a "long walk." You don't take a DOG "for a long walk," unless your are fully prepared to make any necessary allowance for it — for example, it must be fed, or it must be carried part way, etc. FOG, on the other hand, is probably something unexpected, something unbargained for, since you would hardly go on a long walk in a FOG. It could thus well prove a nuisance.

5. MEN not TEN. MEN, yes since "people" implies both men and women, and "party" does not imply stag "party." In a small place, TEN is quite a lot of people.

8. SIRE not SITE or Side or SIZE. To judge a SIRE certainly requires a qualified judge of horses. As for a SITE, the average man can judge the average SITE. The merits of a SIDE(team) are apparent from its standing in the league. SIZE is too vague and SINE is remote.

11. SAFE not SANE or SAGE. This stunt might be performed for a specific reason (e. g. a movie) hence it may be perfectly SANE or SAGE. Since the margin for error is small, SAFE is very apt in any case.

15. FAR not FAT. "If he isn't properly fed," he won't get FAR in more ways than one "Properly fed" can mean improper food and not necessarily insufficient food, so he might well get FAT on improper FAT-creating food.

16 BETTER not BITTER. Being about "a hospital patient" tips the clue towards BETTER. What has "a hospital patient" got to be BITTER about? "A bit of a nuisance" is an understatement for BITTER anyway.

21. SHE not SHY. "Stories of wildlife" abound in cases of the female of the species the she animal) being more deadly than the male. The same does not apply to the SHY animal.

change of salutations by the prominent man and ourselves, we chanced to say to him." That woman is a wonder. She is so wrapped up in her church that were she not connected with it, it seems like it would never be a success!"

Then the well - to - do - man asked if we had a blank check. Of course we had none but he went into the office of the postmaster and came out with one which he quickly filled out for $50, made payable to "CASH." Then making us promise not to reveal his identity, he handed us the check. And did the recipient get a great thrill when she received the money, a short time later!

But surprises seemed not to be ended. We entered a downtown cafe near the postoffice and placed an order for a substantial meal.

Chancing to thrust a hand into an inside pocket, out came a leather spectacle case and a pair of glasses! Amusement took possession of us an instant later we had to realize that we had come to town with another man's coat.

Calling the waitress, we informed that we had hastily come away with another man's coat and that we had our money, safely encased in our own coat, so we asked for a cancellation of the order.

"Oh don't do that," the obliging waitress said with an indulgent smile." Just write your name on the ticket that's all needed!"

Just as we prepared to follow instructions the waitress re - appeared." The boss says that it's on the house. That you have done enough favors for him, so there!"

Here's a yarn that comes from across the seas. It took place, we are told, in a grammar school. The headmaster was discussing with a father the career his son might follow.

"What plans have you formulated for Johnny," the instructor asked.

"It all depends on 'is certificate," the father responded. "If'e gets a good 'un, we'll send 'im to the university. If its not good enough for that, we'll put' im to teachin'."

"What will happen if the report is real bad?" the professor asked.

"In that case," said the father, "we'll have to get 'im into the town hall."

We are pleased to see that the memory of beloved Ernest L. Neville is to be kept in mind through a scholarship fund created in his name.

Knocked Babies Down

She said the impact "knocked one of my babies off my lap.

"People were knocked to the floor," she said.

Authorities said the casualty figure probably would have been much higher except that the Good Friday observances had cut the usual traffic load.

Motorman Victor P. O'Britis, 46, stopped the train between the Bedford-Nostrand and the Myrtle-Willoughby stations of the Brooklyn branch of the IND (Independent) Subway Line to fix the brakes. He was just getting back into the train when another local train slammed into the rear.

Trains Collided

Police said the collision took place at about 7:20 p.m. EST when a six-car train smashed into the stalled eight-car train.

Ambulances were dispatched from Cumberland Hospital, Kings County Hospital, St. Catherine's and Greenpoint Hospital.

O'Britis, whose train was carrying more than 100 persons, said his train came to a halt automatically because of the defective equipment.

"I found the trouble in the fourth car and had it all set," the motorman said. "I don't know what happened then. There was a crash.

"Some people were knocked to the floor and some of the injured got panicky and began screaming.

Calm Them Down

"I said to them, 'take it easy.' I had to calm them down. They used the emergency exits themselves and a lot of them walked out."

O'Britis, sweating freely as he told reporters of the mishap, appeared to be in a mild state of shock.

O'Britis' train, slammed off the tracks by the collision, tilted at an angle of about 30 degrees. Straw seat cushions of the train littered the floor. Many of the doors gaped open, sprung from the door jambs by the force of the collision.

Funds For Juvenile Home Voted Down

John Coon administration and with Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe, the Police Jury would have put up $150 per month, the City of Monroe, $100, and West Monroe would have contributed $25.

Pettit explained that the resolution voted on by the Jury yesterday was "merely to get the Jury to accept the responsibility of providing the $275 monthly."

He said, however, that he felt the State Department of Welfare would assume full responsibility for operating the home, which would then be open to the entire Fifth District.

The Welfare Department contributed a little over $13,000 to the construction of the home, Pettit said.

Costing between $130,000 and $135,000, the remainder of the cost was paid by the mill tax passed by Ouachita citizens, he said.

"This administration has not been notified of any agreement made by the past administration with the Police Jury," Howard said.

First Word

"We have not been contacted by anyone on the Jury regarding this matter and my first knowledge of it was when contacted by the newspaper," the mayor explained.

He added that the City Council was "vitally interested" in the juvenile program "not only in the city but throughout the parish" and said he felt the Council would be "very happy" to discuss the home with the Police Jury.

Yesterday's vote was by a sweeping margin as Pettit was in Dallas, president A. E. Montgomery, Sr. was absent because of illness and Tom Hicks left immediately prior to the vote.

Voting against the resolution were A. R. (Red) Sims, W. J. Venson, M. W. Montgomery, Ollie Carter, Percy Nichols, Clarence Kincaid and Frank Golson.

Voting for it were Red Studdard, Robert Erby, Irvin Kilpatrick, L. U. Fourmy, W. O. Roberts and Hilton Owens.

Opinions were equally as split.

Kilpatrick said he was disappointed; Montgomery said it put the parish "in a very embarrassing situation;" Sims said the "people" had been promised when the mill election came up that the expenses of the home would be taken care of; and Montgomery advocated a prison farm.

"The people that asked for the detention home promised us that the mill would take care of all the expenses," Sims said, "Now the jury is asked to provide funds to maintain the home."

'It's unfair to the people who voted for the tax," he stated.

When told of the defeated resolution in Dallas, Pettit said:

"It's a crying shame that the people of Ouachita parish built the home and now the polic jury won't open it."

Fourmy said the Welfare Department was in the process of selecting personnel for the home, but that he was "afraid this will prevent it from being opened soon."

The home was built to provide for 22 persons, Pettit said. Juveniles were to be kept there 72 hours before further action would be taken.

Pettit said the home would be operated by six persons. He was chairman of the citizens committee appointed five years ago to plan the program for the home's construction.

Salaries for home personnel would have amounted to $30,400. Pettit pointed out that the Welfare Department would pay for the salaries.

Sniper Wounds 3 Negro Children

DENISON, Tex., April 19 (AP) — A sniper in a passing car last night fired a shotgun at three young Negroes playing in front of a housing development here, spattering them with pellets.

Police identified the three wounded children as Arthur Gable, 14, Ruby Joe Ricks and Henry Sam Ricks.

Officers said they were not seriously hurt, although each suffered "half a dozen or more pellet wounds" on the arms, legs and body. They were being treated at a hospital here.

The blast was the latest in a series of demonstrations in the Negro area of town since three Negro teen-agers were charged with raping a 17-year-old white girl April 7. The previous demonstrations were limited to rock throwing, however, and caused no injuries.

Bold Ruler Heads 6-Horse Field For Wood Memorial

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Jockey Eddie Arcaro and trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons will go after their eighth Wood Memorial tomorrow with Bold Ruler in a Jamaica race that for years has dripped with Kentucky Derby flavor.

Six horses were named today to oppose the Wheatley stable colt, who figures to be a prohibitive 1-2 favorite at the pari-mutuel windows for the $50,000-added gallop at a mile and one eighth.

A crowd of more than 40,000 may be lured to the Long Island horse yard with a promise of good weather. The customers will get a good look at the best eastern 3-year-olds still being considered for the Derby at Louisville May 4.

Bold Ruler, one of the top 2-year-olds of 1956, can eliminate a lot of Derby candidates if he runs a "big" race. The son of Nasrullah will be making his first start since finishing second to Gen. Duke in the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park March 30.

The main opposition in the 33rd running of the Wood is expected from John L. Appelbaum's Mister Jive, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land, Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man, and Ambehaving, owned by the Bohemia stable of Mrs. Richard C. DuPont, Joe W. Brown's Tenacious and Jacques Wimpfheimer's Jocko's Walk, the latter the only non-Derby eligible, complete the field.

All will carry 126 pounds, the same weight called for in the mile and one quarter Derby. The same weight applies in the Preakness and Belmont, the other two races making up the Triple Crown. In all, six Wood winners have gone on to win the Derby, the last being Assault in 1946.

Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps, owner of Bold Ruler, and trainer Fitzsimmons won their first Wood with Distraction in 1928. Her silks were carred to victory again by Teufel (1936) and Melodist (1937) but all three failed in the Derby. Gallant Fox (1930) and Johnstown (1939) won the Wood, then took the Derby for Mr. Fitz, but Nashua failed at Louisville two years ago after winning the Jamaica race. Mr. Fitz's seventh Wood winner was Fighting Fox in 1938.

Arcaro, who won the Wood aboad Head Man a year ago, copped his first in 1944 with Stir-Up. In 1945 Eddie took the Wood with Hoop Jr. then rode Fred Hooper's colt at Louisville, defeating the Calumet farm's Pot O' Luck, the Derby favorite.

Other riders are Red Keene on Promised Land, John Choquette aboard Gallant Man, Conn McCreary on Jocko's Walk, and Hedley Woodhouse on Mister Jive, winner of last week's Gotham Stakes.

With seven starting the Wood will be worth $59,400, the winner netting $40,800. The race will be televised and broadcast (CBS) with TV time 3:30-4 p.m., CST, and radio 3:45-4 p.m.

Five Kentucky Derby Entries In Chesapeake

LAUREL, Md., April 19 (AP)—A flock of 15 aspiring 3-year-olds, five of them eligible for the Kentucky Derby, were crowded today into the entry list for tomorrow's $20,000-added Chesapeake Stakes.

The mile and a sixteenth race has been Maryland's principal spring test since 1920 for the year's crop of 3-year-olds.

Prospects that it will send any on to the Kentucky Derby next month are slim. The five possibilities are Cain Hoy Stable's The Hammer, J. Allen Fusca's Dark Trust, Carolyn K. Stable's Pro-Brandy, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Roscoe Maney and Mrs. C. B. Fishbach's Federal Judge.

Most of the others will have to await the Preakness at Pimlico, the second of the triple crown classics, on May 18 to strike for real fame.

These include a pair owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, Gannet and Bakht, who are expected to be made the Chesapeake favorites.

The other entries are Brandywine Stable's Cannon Fire, Howell E. Jackson's Four Fathoms and Cross Channel, J. R. Weiner's Nitime, Roslyn Farm's Inswept, John A. Manfuso's Astracorn, Mrs. Patricia Haun's See Me Go, and Cary C. Boshamer's Gama.

Federal Judge is eligible so far only for the Derby, but along with 12 of the others in Chesapeake field could be made an entry for either the Preakness or Belmont by paying a late premium fee.

Tryouts Slated For 2 Baseball Leagues Today

Babe Ruth and Dixie League baseball candidates have been summoned for tryouts today at Legion Memorial Stadium.

The Babe Ruth circuit, open to Monroe and West Monroe youths from 13 to 15 years of age, will drill at 10 o'clock this morning.

The Dixie loop drawing 13-14-year-olds, will start its work at 3 p.m. The Dixie League is for Monroe boys only.

Registration of players will also be handled today until workouts start. The drills are slated for the next three Saturdays.

Liege Boosts Derby Stock At Lexington

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 1-9 (AP)—Iron Liege, rated the No. 2 colt in the strong Calumet farm string, gave his Kentucky Derby stock a boost today in romping seven furlongs to equal Keeneland's track record.

The Bull Lea colt edged One-Eyed King from the Cain Hoy stable and Derby favorite Gen. Duke from Calumet in romping home handily in 1:22 2-5 to equal the standard set by Your Host seven years ago.

None of the Derby colts was pushed in this betting-barred $5,000 tuneup though One-Eyed King was under more drive than the Calumet duo.

Iron Liege went on top at the start, trailed by the Cain Hoy colt and Gen. Duke, a position they kept the rest of the way. Iron Liege won by a length with One-Eyed King second by two lengths.

Gen. Duke, who had four wins and four seconds in eight starts as a 3-year-old before today, seemed about ready to make a move as they made the turn into the stretch. But the Duke, figured more of a distance horse, got no strong urging and failed to move up.

Fractional times for the $5,000 special three-horse event were :12, :23 1-5, :34 4-5, :46 2-5, :58 1-5 and 1:09 4-5.

Old Pros Take Spotlight From Eager Rookies

By WILL GRIMSLEY
The Associated Press

Opening fanfare out of the way, the major leagues settle down to serious baseball today with the trend of the 1957 season already solidly set.

The redhot advance favorites are stealing the headlines from eager rookies. And rhubarbs — ahead of their spring schedule— are blossoming all over the place.

The world champion New York Yankees, who have been in seven of the last eight World Series and won six of them, carry an unbeaten 2-0 record into their second game with the Red Sox at Boston. The Chicago White Sox, hosts to Kansas City, are tied with the Yanks for the American League lead.

Over in the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves, who are favored to battle it down the wire for the pennant, are out in front with a similar 2-0 mark and 1.000 percentage.

Brooklyn is host to Pittsburgh at Ebbets Field and Milwaukee is at home with Cincinnati, rated the "Dark Horse" contender for honors in the elder circuit.

Saturday's schedule (all times central standard):

American League

Baltimore at Washington, 1 p.m.
Cleveland at Detroit, 12:30 p.m.
Kansas City at Chicago, 1:30 p.m.
New York at Boston, 1 p.m.

National League

Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, 1 p.m.
Chicago at St. Louis, 1:30 p.m.
Cincinnati at Milwaukee, 1:30 p.m.
Philadelphia at New York, 1 p.m.

Milwaukee still is seething over charges by Birdie Tebbetts, Cincinnati manager, that the Braves' Lew Burdette is a "cheating spitballer" Cincinnati General Manager Gabe Paul has filed a formal protest with Warren Giles, National League president.

Burdette stoutly denied he uses an illigal pitch, saying the spiteball is his best delivery "but I don't throw it."

Meanwhile, there is an undercurrent of discontent over the new 20- second rule aimed at speeding up the game. The rule requires that a pitcher must get rid of the ball 20 seconds after he receives it and the batter cannot leave the box after the pitcher has become set.

Loudest cry against this rule voiced by Yogi Berra of the Yankees, who contended he struck out in his opening time at bat last Tuesday when his bat hit the shinguards of the Washington catcher.

"Somebody will get killed out there if umpires enforce those new speedup rules," fumed Yogi. "The hitter is chained to the plate. If a swirl of dust gets in his eyes or perspiration drips down his face or a gnat blinds him, he has to grit his teeth and take it."

The Yankees' Whitey Ford added to the season's turbulance — set fire earlier by Ted Williams' broadside blasts — when he disclosed that pitchers, alarmed over the "Rabbit Ball," were getting together and comparing "books" on the major league hitters. "It's to keep us from becoming extinct as a dodo," said Ford

There was no indication that the ageless Sal Maglie, who will be 40 next week, needed anybody else's "book" or a controversial delivery to win his opening game for the Dodgers. The Barber stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1 on four hits —no run earned —and started talk that he may be good for 20 victories.

Two old Dodgers hirelings, Gil Hodges and Duke Snider, hit home runs.

Another firehorse figured ready for the green pasture, Hank Sauer, 38, electrified Giant fans at the Polo Grounds with the 250th home run of major league career.

IT DIDN'T GET AWAY

James M. Sharp, Lexington, Ky., displays a 10-pound one-ounce largemouth bass he caught while "jiggling" in Lake Cumberland of Kentucky. "I must have dropped the worms right in his mouth," said Sharp. Cumberland has also yielded a 9-pound 2-ouncer this year. (AP Wirephoto)

RECORDS IN JEOPARDY

Expect New Marks In Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 19 (UP)—Several meet records and at least one world standard appear to be in jeopardy with 700 track and field athletes from more than 50 colleges and universities, including some Olympic performers, assembled for Saturday's Kansas Relays.

Speedy baton teams from the University of Texas and Kansas, the host, are considered the biggest threats to the records.

The Texas team of Wally Wilson, Hollis Gainey, Eddie Southern and Bobby Whilden peeled 1.5 seconds off the world 880-yard record in 1:22.7 at the recent Texas Relays. They also pressed Abilene Christian to a world-record equaling 40.2 in the 440.

Those same Texans hold the record of this classic track carnival for the 440, a brilliang 40.1, now under consideration for insertion in the world records book.

Whilden, in addition to his baton-bearing chores, also will defend his 100-yard sprint title, which he won here last year in record time of :09.4.

Southern, who ran second in the Olympics in the 400-meter hurdles, will be aiming at the 120-yard high hurdles crown. He and Kansas State college's Gene O'Connor probably will provide another dramatic duel.

In winning at the Texas Relays, Southern edged O'Connor as they matched strides for the distanse. The finish was so close both were credited with the same time of 14.1.

With Southern not competing in the 400-meter hurdles, O'Connor is a heavy favorite. He won the gruelling event in meet record time of 52.2 here in 1956.

The Kansas distance medley relay team of Mike Cummins Lowell Janzen, Hal Long and Jerry McNeal probably will lower the meet record with little difficulty. In winning at the Texas classic in 9:56.0 they were :13.7 under the Kansas Relays record.

Olympic discus champion Al Oerter of Kansas also appears as a certain record breaker. He won at Melbourne with a record heave of 184 feet 10 1-2 inches. The mark here is 171 63-4 set by Indiana's Archie Harris in 1941.

Vandy Shades Bayou Tigers By 8-7 Count

Vanderbilt collected all 8's runs off starter Tommy Barfield early.

The winners had a three-run triple by first baseman Jerry Caldwell and a two-run homer by leftfielder Dee Hardin.

Some Big Bats Not Ringing

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Several established big league ball players including Al Kline, Mickey Mantle, Jimmy Piersall and Ken Boyer undoubtedly would like to start the season over again. They got off on the wrong foot.

Detroit's Kaline, the American League's leading batter in 1955 and a .314 hitter last season, has failed to connect safely in 12 official times at bat. A year ago, he had only one hit in his first 12 trips, so Manager Jack Tighe may have little cause for alarm.

Mantle, the A.L.'s triple crown champion, has only 1-for-6 at the plate, a double in his first time at bat. In the field, the Yankee centerfield dropped one fly ball for an error and misplayed another officially scored as a triple.

Piersall, the Red Sox' fleet outfielder, and Boyer, the St. Louis Cards' third baseman, each have failed to hit in seven tries. Gus Bell of Cincinnati also is 0-for-7.

Jim Finigan of the Tigers and Rip Repulski of the Philadelphia Phillies, both traded during the winter, also have failed to impress with their new clubs. Finigan is hitless in eight trips and Repulski has a lone safe blow in 10 times at bat. Del Ennie of St. Louis, for whom Repulski was dealt, is hitting .250 with two hits in eight trips and three runs batted in.

The Tigers' Bill Tuttle, whom Manager Tighe says must improve his .253 average of 1956, is off to a slow start with an .083 mark on 1-for-12. Catchers Jim Hegan and Hal Smith of Kansas City each have nothing to show for nine at bats.

Among the rookies, Andre Rodgers of the New York Giants, Cal Neeman and Bob Will of the Chicago Cubs and Milt Graff of Kansas City each have had only a single safety. Rodgers has batted six times, Neeman seven, Will nine and Graff 10.

Frank Robinson of Cincinnati and Luis Aparicio of the White Sox, the rookies of the year in 1956, also must be far from pleased with their showings. Robinson has two hits, both singles, in seven tries for .286 and Aparicio is 2-for-8 for .250.

There have been some normal developments in the four-day -old campaign.

Stan Musial of the Cards has a .571 average after seven times at bat. Willie Mays of the Giants is 3-for-8 and .375. George Kell of Baltimore is moving at a .364 clip with four hits in 11 tries and Cincinnati's Ed Bailey has a .429 mark with 3-for-7.

The home run leaders are Gil Hodges of Brooklyn and Roy Sievers of Washington with two apiece. Gus Triandos of Baltimore tops the American League in runs batted in with six and Bill Virdon of Pittsburgh and Gene Baker of the Cubs pace the National with four each.

Billy Gardner of the Orioles has the most hits in the majors, eight. The veteran infielder has officially batted 16 times for a .500 average.

'I'M NO SPITTER'

Burdette Defends Motions

MILWAUKEE, April 19 (AP)—Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, no longer amused by manager Birdie Tebbetts' charge that he is "a cheating spitballer," today admitted he goes to his mouth often when he pitches, but declared Cincinnati's pitchers do it, too, and there's nothing illegal about it.

"I'm no spitballer and I'm no cheat," said the 30-year-old Braves righthander whose 1-0 victory over the Redlegs yesterday preceded a bitter blast by Tebbetts that was referred to the National League office today.

"Whenever I go to my mouth, I wipe off my hand on my shirt before I pitch," Burdette told The Associated Press. "A lot of other pitchers do the same thing, including some of Birdie's boys.

"The rule (8:02) doesn't say you can't go to your mouth. It says you aren't allowed to apply a foreign substance of any kind to it or rub it on your uniform. Well, I don't do any of those things.,"

Tebbetts, who yesterday claimed Burdette threw the illegal spitter 25 per cent of the time, said, "the rule doesn't say anything about rubbing your fingers off after wetting them."

"I want a clarification of that rule, so we'll know what you can do and what you can't" Tebbetts added.

Burdette, who twitches on the mound like a rock 'n' roll singer with St. Vitus dance, said Tebbetts' charge surprised him.

"I didn't think I did anything to agiate him like that," said Burdette, who has beaten the Redlegs eight straight times since 1955. "Sure, I've tried to get his goat in the past, but I didn't do it yesterday."

"I don't like the idea of a guy calling me a cheat," he continued. "That's carrying things too far. He's stirring up a big stink that isn't going to do him or me any good. I don't mind him squawking about it, but if he's going to stir up a lot of trouble, I think he's going a little too far."

Burdette said he is naturally fidgety when he is pitching and added:

"I don't have any special reason for doing the things I do. It's tough to break habits of long standing. I go to my mouth, I'm up around the peak of my hat, I'm wiping the perspiration off my fore head or out of my eyes. But, I never intentionally wet the ball.

"Some moisture is bound to get the ball. It can come from anyone, from the infielders when they handle the ball, from the catcher when he rubs it up. But, it's the same on every team and it's the same all over baseball."

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Jockey Eddie Arcaro and trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons will go after their eighth Wood Memorial tomorrow with Bold Ruler in a Jamaica race that for years has dripped with Kentucky Derby flavor.

Six horses were named today to oppose the Wheatley stable colt, who figures to be a prohibitive 1-2 favorite at the pari-mutuel windows for the $50,000-added gallop at a mile and one eighth.

A crowd of more than 40,000 may be lured to the Long Island horse yard with a promise of good weather. The customers will get a good look at the best eastern 3-year-olds still being considered for the Derby at Louisville May 4.

Bold Ruler, one of the top 2-year-olds of 1956, can eliminate a lot of Derby candidates if he runs a "big" race. The son of Nasrullah will be making his first start since finishing second to Gen. Duke in the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park March 30.

The main opposition in the 33rd running of the Wood is expected from John L. Appelbaum's Mister Jive, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land, Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man, and Ambehaving, owned by the Bohemia stable of Mrs. Richard C. DuPont. Joe W. Brown's Tenacious and Jacques Wimpfheimer's Jocko's Walk, the latter the only non-Derby eligible, complete the field.

All will carry 126 pounds, the same weight called for in the mile and one quarter Derby. The same weight applies in the Preakness and Belmont, the other two races making up the Triple Crown. In all, six Wood winners have gone on to win the Derby, the last being Assault in 1946.

Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps, owner of Bold Ruler, and trainer Fitzsimmons won their first Wood with Distraction in 1928. Her silks were carred to victory again by Teufel (1936) and Melodist (1937) but all three failed in the Derby. Gallant Fox (1930) and Johnstown (1939) won the Wood, then took the Derby for Mr. Fitz, but Nashua failed at Louisville two years ago after winning the Jamaica race. Mr. Fitz's seventh Wood winner was Fighting Fox in 1938.

Arcaro, who won the Wood aboad Head Man a year ago, copped his first in 1944 with Stir-Up. In 1945 Eddie took the Wood with Hoop Jr. then rode Fred Hooper's colt at Louisville, defeating the Calumet farm's Pot O' Luck, the Derby favorite.

With seven starting the Wood will be worth $59,400, the winner netting $40,800. The race will be televised and broadcast (CBS) with TV time 3:30-4 p.m., CST, and radio 3:45-4 p.m.

Five Kentucky Derby Entries In Chesapeake

LAUREL, Md., April 19 (AP)—A flock of 15 aspiring 3-year-olds, five of them eligible for the Kentucky Derby, were crowded today into the entry list for tomorrow's $20,000-added Chesapeake Stakes.

The mile and a sixteenth race has been Maryland's principal spring test since 1920 for the year's crop of 3-year-olds.

Prospects that it will send any on to the Kentucky Derby next month are slim. The five possibilities are Cain Hoy Stable's The Hammer, J. Allen Fusca's Dark Trust, Carolyn K. Stable's Pro-Brandy, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Roscoe Maney and Mrs. C. B. Fishbach's Federal Judge.

Most of the others will have to await the Preakness at Pimlico, the second of the triple crown classics, on May 18 to strike for real fame.

These include a pair owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, Gannet and Bakht, who are expected to be made the Chesapeake favorites.

The other entries are Brandywine Stable's Cannon Fire, Howell E. Jackson's Four Fathoms and Cross Channel, J. R. Weiner's Nitime, Roslyn Farm's Inswept, John A. Manfuso's Astracorn, Mrs. Patricia Haun's See Me Go, and Cary C. Boshamer's Gama.

Federal Judge is eligible so far only for the Derby, but along with 12 of the others in Chesapeake field could be made an entry for either the Preakness or Belmont by paying a late premium fee.

Tryouts Slated For 2 Baseball Leagues Today

Babe Ruth and Dixie League baseball candidates have been summoned for tryouts today at Legion Memorial Stadium.

The Babe Ruth circuit, open to Monroe and West Monroe youths from 13 to 15 years of age, will drill at 10 o'clock this morning.

The Dixie loop drawing 13-14-year-olds, will start its work at 3 p.m. The Dixie League is for Monroe boys only.

Registration of players will also be handled today until workouts start. The drills are slated for the next three Saturdays.

Liege Boosts Derby Stock At Lexington

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 1-9 (AP)—Iron Liege, rated the No. 2 colt in the strong Calumet farm string, gave his Kentucky Derby stock a boost today in romping seven furlongs to equal Keeneland's track record.

The Bull Lea colt edged One-Eyed King from the Cain Hoy stable and Derby favorite Gen. Duke from Calumet in romping home handily in 1:22 2-5 to equal the standard set by Your Host seven years ago.

None of the Derby colts was pushed in this betting-barred $5,000 tuneup though One-Eyed King was under more drive than the Calumet duo.

Iron Liege went on top at the start, trailed by the Cain Hoy colt and Gen. Duke, a position they kept the rest of the way. Iron Liege won by a length with One-Eyed King second by two lengths.

Gen. Duke, who had four wins and four seconds in eight starts as a 3-year-old before today, seemed about ready to make a move as they made the turn into the stretch. But the Duke, figured more of a distance horse, got no strong urging and failed to move up.

Fractional times for the $5,000 special three-horse event were :12, :23 1-5, :34 4-5, :46 2-5, :58 1-5 and 1:09 4-5.

Old Pros Take Spotlight From Eager Rookies

By WILL GRIMSLEY
The Associated Press

Opening fanfare out of the way, the major leagues settle down to serious baseball today with the trend of the 1957 season already solidly set.

The redhot advance favorites are stealing the headlines from eager rookies. And rhubarbs — ahead of their spring schedule— are blossoming all over the place.

The world champion New York Yankees, who have been in seven of the last eight World Series and won six of them, carry an unbeaten 2-0 record into their second game with the Red Sox at Boston. The Chicago White Sox, hosts to Kansas City, are tied with the Yanks for the American League lead.

Over in the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves, who are favored to battle it down the wire for the pennant, are out in front with a similar 2-0 mark and 1.000 percentage.

Brooklyn is host to Pittsburgh at Ebbets Field and Milwaukee is at home with Cincinnati, rated the "Dark Horse" contender for honors in the elder circuit.

Saturday's schedule (all times central standard):

American League

Baltimore at Washington, 1 p.m.
Cleveland at Detroit, 12:30 p.m.
Kansas City at Chicago, 1:30 p.m.
New York at Boston, 1 p.m.

National League

Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, 1 p.m.
Chicago at St. Louis, 1:30 p.m.
Cincinnati at Milwaukee, 1:30 p.m.
Philadelphia at New York, 1 p.m.

Milwaukee still is seething over charges by Birdie Tebbetts, Cincinnati manager, that the Braves' Lew Burdette is a "cheating spitballer" Cincinnati General Manager Gabe Paul has filed a formal protest with Warren Giles, National League president.

Burdette stoutly denied he uses an illigal pitch, saying the spiteball is his best delivery "but I don't throw it."

Meanwhile, there is an undercurrent of discontent over the new 20- second rule aimed at speeding up the game. The rule requires that a pitcher must get rid of the ball 20 seconds after he receives it and the batter cannot leave the box after the pitcher has become set.

Loudest cry against this rule voiced by Yogi Berra of the Yankees, who contended he struck out in his opening time at bat last Tuesday when his bat hit the shinguards of the Washington catcher.

"Somebody will get killed out there if umpires enforce those new speedup rules," fumed Yogi. "The hitter is chained to the plate. If a swirl of dust gets in his eyes or perspiration drips down his face or a gnat blinds him, he has to grit his teeth and take it."

The Yankees' Whitey Ford added to the season's turbulance — set fire earlier by Ted Williams' broadside blasts — when he disclosed that pitchers, alarmed over the "Rabbit Ball," were getting together and comparing "books" on the major league hitters. "It's to keep us from becoming extinct as a dodo," said Ford

There was no indication that the ageless Sal Maglie, who will be 40 next week, needed anybody else's "book" or a controversial delivery to win his opening game for the Dodgers. The Barber stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1 on four hits —no run earned —and started talk that he may be good for 20 victories.

Two old Dodgers hirelings, Gil Hodges and Duke Snider, hit home runs.

Another firehorse figured ready for the green pasture, Hank Sauer, 38, electrified Giant fans at the Polo Grounds with the 250th home run of major league career.

Expect New Marks In Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 19 (UP)—Several meet records and at least one world standard appear to be in jeopardy with 700 track and field athletes from more than 50 colleges and universities, including some Olympic performers, assembled for Saturday's Kansas Relays.

Speedy baton teams from the University of Texas and Kansas, the host, are considered the biggest threats to the records.

The Texas team of Wally Wilson, Hollis Gainey, Eddie Southern and Bobby Whilden peeled 1.5 seconds off the world 880-yard record in 1:22.7 at the recent Texas Relays. They also pressed Abilene Christian to a world-record equaling 40.2 in the 440.

Those same Texans hold the record of this classic track carnival for the 440, a brilliang 40.1, now under consideration for insertion in the world records book.

Whilden, in addition to his baton-bearing chores, also will defend his 100-yard sprint title, which he won here last year in record time of :09.4.

Southern, who ran second in the Olympics in the 400-meter hurdles, will be aiming at the 120-yard high hurdles crown. He and Kansas State college's Gene O'Connor probably will provide another dramatic duel.

In winning at the Texas Relays, Southern edged O'Connor as they matched strides for the distanse. The finish was so close both were credited with the same time of 14.1.

With Southern not competing in the 400-meter hurdles, O'Connor is a heavy favorite. He won the gruelling event in meet record time of 52.2 here in 1956.

The Kansas distance medley relay team of Mike Cummins, Lowell Janzen, Hal Long and Jerry McNeal probably will lower the meet record with little difficulty. In winning at the Texas classic in 9:56.0 they were :13.7 under the Kansas Relays record.

Olympic discus champion Al Oerter of Kansas also appears as a certain record breaker. He won at Melbourne with a record heave of 184 feet 10 1-2 inches. The mark here is 171 63-4 set by Indiana's Archie Harris in 1941.

Vandy Shades Bayou Tigers By 8-7 Count

BATON ROUGE, April 19 (UP) — Vanderbilt put down a ninth inning rally by Louisiana State University, scoring an 8-7 victory in a Southeastern Conference baseball game today.

LSU had scored three times in the bottom of the ninth and had the bases loaded, when Vandy reliefer Jimmy Lewis forced LSU first baseman Ronnie Johnston to ground out.

Vanderbilt collected all its runs off starter Tommy Barfield early.

The winners had a three-run triple by first baseman Jerry Caldwell and a two-run homer by leftfielder Dee Hardin.

SILENCE AT PLATE

Some Big Bats Not Ringing

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Several established big league ball players including Al Kline, Mickey Mantle, Jimmy Piersall and Ken Boyer undoubtedly would like to start the season over again. They got off on the wrong foot.

Detroit's Kaline, the American League's leading batter in 1955 and a .314 hitter last season, has failed to connect safely in 12 official times at bat. A year ago, he had only one hit in his first 12 trips, so Manager Jack Tighe may have little cause for alarm.

Mantle, the A.L.'s triple crown champion, has only 1-for-6 at the plate, a double in his first time at bat. In the field, the Yankee centerfield dropped one fly ball for an error and misplayed another officially scored as a triple.

Piersall, the Red Sox' fleet outfielder, and Boyer, the St. Louis Cards' third baseman, each have failed to hit in seven tries. Gus Bell of Cincinnati also is 0-for-7.

Jim Finigan of the Tigers and Rip Repulski of the Philadelphia Phillies, both traded during the winter, also have failed to impress with their new clubs. Finigan is hitless in eight trips and Repulski has a lone safe blow in 10 times at bat. Del Ennie of St. Louis, for whom Repulski was dealt, is hitting .250 with two hits in eight trips and three runs batted in.

The Tigers' Bill Tuttle, whom Manager Tighe says must improve his .253 average of 1956, is off to a slow start with an .083 mark on 1-for-12. Catchers Jim Hegan and Hal Smith of Kansas City each have nothing to show for nine at bats.

Among the rookies, Andre Rodgers of the New York Giants, Cal Neeman and Bob Will of the Chicago Cubs and Milt Graff of Kansas City each have had only a single safety. Rodgers has batted six times, Neeman seven, Will nine and Graff 10.

Frank Robinson of Cincinnati and Luis Aparicio of the White Sox, the rookies of the year in 1956, also must be far from pleased with their showings. Robinson has two hits, both singles, in seven tries for .286 and Aparicio is 2-for-8 for .250.

There have been some normal developments in the four-day -old campaign.

Stan Musial of the Cards has a .571 average after seven times at bat. Willie Mays of the Giants is 3-for-8 and .375. George Kell of Baltimore is moving at a .364 clip with four hits in 11 tries and Cincinnati's Ed Bailey has a .429 mark with 3-for-7.

The home run leaders are Gil Hodges of Brooklyn and Roy Sievers of Washington with two apiece. Gus Triandos of Baltimore tops the American League in runs batted in with six and Bill Virdon of Pittsburgh and Gene Baker of the Cubs pace the National with four each.

Billy Gardner of the Orioles has the most hits in the majors, eight. The veteran infielder has officially batted 16 times for a .500 average.

SHOOTS 4-UNDER 70

Mrs. Hagge Forges Lawton Open Lead

LAWTON, Okla., April 19 (UP)—Marlene Bauer Hagge, who has had the most consistent game on the ladies professional golf circuit this spring, fired a four-under par 70 today in the opening round of the $5,000 Lawton Open Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Hagge turned in a pair of 35s over the windswept Lawton municipal golf course. She used only 11 putts on the front nine and an additional four on the back side.

Back three strokes at one-under par 73 were Wiffi Smith, the 25-year-old Californian who won the Dallas Open last week, and Jackie Pung, the colorful Hawaiian shotmaker.

Mrs. Hagge, who plays out of Dallas, Tex., said after her blazing round, "I was hitting the ball real well for a change."

She eagled the par five, seventh hole, which measures 510 yards as did Mrs. Pung.

Mrs. Pung, who has been missing from the pro circuit for 18 months and is making her initial round here since she "retired" to teach at a driving range, said that it would take a while to get her game back into "the tournament touch."

Tied at par 74 were Bonnie Randolph, Betty Jameson and Kathy Cornelius.

The course was in good condition for the opening round, most of the pros reported. But winds gusts up to 30 miles an hour made it rough going late in the afternoon.

The weathermen has promised for clearing skies Saturday as the tournament gets underway for the second day of play at 11:30 a. m. CST.

The tournament concludes Sunday with the final 18 holes.

Betty Dodd, who is defending champion of the year-old tournament, was back at the 77 mark, seven strokes off the lead. She had rounds of 39 and 38. Women's par over the 6,977 yard course is 37-37—74.

Beecham Cops Upset Decision In Mims Bout

MIAMI Beach, Fla., April 19 (UP)—Young Jimmy Beecham, stalking his foe like a hungry tiger, won a 10-round majority decision over favored Holly Mims tonight in a nationally-televised bout at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

But Beecham, a younger, more powerful fighter, did not have an easy job whipping the Washington, D.C., veteran and avenging his only recent loss.

Mims, 28, who decisioned Beecham here last November, played a crafty waiting game for the first seven rounds and weathered the storm of Beecham's attack before opening up with left hooks in the final round. But Beecham, 22, had too much of a lead and too much stamina to be topped.

Beecham, who has a smooth bobbing and ducking style, worked fast for the first three rounds, jabbing at Mims' head with a muscular left arm. Near the end of the third round, he added a right to two left hooks and drove Mims to the ropes.

In the sixth round, the 2,069 fans jumped to their feet just after the opening bell when Beecham was tagged with a stinging lef', then exploded witr a left hook of his own that rocked the Washington slugger. After a furious exchange, Mims was driven across the ring and it looked as if he might go down, but at the end of the round he was fighting again on even terms.

At the final bell, both fighters were slugging toe-to-toe with Beecham making headway by driving Mims toward the ropes.

Beecham, who said he may campaign in the welterweight division after this fight, weighed 143 pounds and Mims weighed 154 -4. It was Beechman's 18th win in 1 fights and Mims' 16th loss in 3 bouts.

Tulane Noses Out Ole Miss By 5-4 Count

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 19 (AP)—Ed Dufaur's relief pitching and a shoestring catch by outfielder Joe Boullosa stopped a Mississippi rally in the ninth inning and gave Tulane a 5-4 Southeastern Conference baseball victory today.

It was Tulane's first baseball victory over Mississippi since 1953.

Dufaur replaced Doug Regan, Tulane's starting pitcher, in the ninth inning with one man out. Mississippi already had scored one run in the inning and had two men on base. Dufaur allowed one more run before he retired the side.

Three of the Tulane runs came in the eighth inning. Tony Reginelli's double drove in two of the runs.

Ponies' Krebs Considers Job As Pro Cager

ST. LOUIS, April 19 (UP)—Jim Krebs, the big man of Southwest Conference champion Southern Methodist, said today he was "seriously considering" a pro basketball career with the Minneapolis Lakers.

Krebs, 6-8, was the surprising choice of the Lakers in the first round of the National Basketball Association draft here Wednesday. Krebs, a native of suburban Webster Groves, was expected to be drafted by fourth-picking St. Louis but Minneapolis had third choice.

Krebs said the Lakers have made him an offer and hinted he may make a decision next week. Krebs hopes to be able to combine careers with the Lakers and a Dallas advertising agency.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 19 (AP)—Georgia Tech engineered eight runs in the eighth inning today to shut out Tennessee, 8-0, in a Southeastern Conference baseball game.

Causey Goes To Farm In June

Orioles Will Soon Scatter Bonus Talent

BALTIMORE, April 19 (AP)—Paul Richards splurged on five bonus boys two years ago when he became manager of the Baltimore Orioles. Soon only one will be left.

Richards announced yesterday that he will farm out Wayne Causey and Bob Nelson in June when their two-year mandatory stay in the majors expires.

"They have done as much as could reasonably be expected under the circumstances," Richards said, "but not as much as we hoped."

CAUSEY SIGNED HERE

Wayne Causey, the Baltimore infielder expected to be farmed out in June, signed a bonus contract with the Orioles immediately after his graduation from Neville High School here in 1955. Terms of the contract were never announced but were believed to call for a bonus in excess of $25,000.

Swango, a pitcher from Oklahoma, was released without even a trial in a major league game. The New York Yankees later sent him to the minors and also released him.

Gastal was killed flying an airplane at the end of last season.

Richards feels now that he "probably" will keep Pyburn because of his versatility. Pyburn started playing third base, shifted to the outfield and currently is being broken in as a reserve catcher.

However, if Richards is able to acquire another catcher it may force Pyburn down to the minors also.

Billy O'Dell, a pitcher on the Orioles staff, also is a bonus boy. He was signed by Richards' predecessor as manager, Jimmy Dykes.

O'Dell appeared last night and was unable to stop the Washington Senators from a three-run rally in the sixth inning which enabled them to beat the Orioles 6-4.

O'Dell relieved Ray Moore and walked his first batter to fill the basess. Two singles followed and the Senators had enough to win.

Pyburn also caught the last two innings, but didn't come to bat.

The loss was the second straight for the Orioles after their opening victory against Washington. They are off today and return tomorrow to Washington.

Boss Of SEC Favors 'Open' Orange Bowl

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 19 (AP) — Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore today said he would like to see the Orange Bowl "open to any outstanding football team."

Moore was asked for comment on the Orange Bowl committee's decision to explore the possibility of a new method of selecting teams for the annual New Year's classic.

The bowl's current contract with the Big Seven and Atlantic Coast conferences expires after the game next Jan. 1.

"Naturally I would like to see the Orange Bowl open to any outstanding football team," said Moore. "I've always hated to see those bowls so tied up that certain outstanding teams wouldn't ever have a chance to get in."

"Our (SEC) relations with the Orange Bowl have always been very friendly and satisfactory."

SEC teams have won 10 and lost six Orange Bowl appearances. Alabama crushed Syracuse 61-6 in 1953, the last time a team from the Southeastern competed in the Miami event.

Kelley Chief U.S. Threat To Take Boston Marathon

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON, April 19 (AP)—Young Johnny Kelley was the chief hope today to end America's 11-year drouth in the revamped 61st Boston A.A. Marathon as one of nine men who are expected to rule the field of 177.

Kelley, the Groton, Conn., school teacher, is rated in the company of the outstanding foreigners—two Finns, three Koreans and three Japanese.

A survey last week, first measurement of the course since 1927, showed the paved path to be 1,187 yards short of the standard 26-mile, 385-yard distance. In accordance, the starting line has been moved back.

Kelley, former Boston University distance runner, must maintain the proper mental attitude as well as the physical endurance to overcome the leading foreigners.

B.A.A. trainer Jock Semple believes Kelley has the proper confidence at last. Last year when the flying Finn, Antti Viskari, was clocked in a fantastic 2:14:14, Kelley was right behind in 2:14:33. The recent course measurement has killed those record times but can't erase the fact it was a road-burning effort.

Kelley knows he can stay with the best of them.

Three years ago Johnny came in seventh when Karvonen ran Britain's famed Jim Peters into submission over the final six mile downgrade.

U. S. entries are bucking the tradition that an American has been unable to win the B.A.A. since the elder Johnny Kelley (no relation) turned the trick in 1945.

In addition, the younger Kelley needed something to restore his faith in himself after it wilted in the searing 100 degree heat at Melbourne in the Olympic Marathon. He was leading the field at the time he gave way.

Kelley is America's only hope according to Semple.

"They're all back," said Semple "of the foreigners. "And they're always good. But our boys behind Kelley aren't even up to ordinary strength."

Recent foreign predominance can be seen from the fact the Koreans are unbeaten in two visits, the Japense have captured three of the four and the Finns two of four.

Karvonen, 31-year - old post office clerk, has the finest record. The only title to elude him has been the Olympic Marathon. At Melbourne he finished third—the only northern European to successfully weather the heat.

Karvonen's record is almost unbelievable. He has competed in 25 marathons. Of these he has won 14, finished second six times, third three times and never come in worse than sixth.

Olavi Manniner, Karvonen's countryman who is unknown here, defeated Viskara at the Vasa race last summer and was third in the Finnish championships.

The Koreans — Chingo Woo Lim, Soong Chil Han and Soong Sik Choi—have to try to uphold a perfect record. Korean runners won in 1947 and swept to a 1-2-3 finish in 1950.

Yamada, 29, won in what was a record time of 2:18:51 back in 1953 while being chased across the line by Karvonen. He figures he has regained his old form after a slump. Nobuyoshi Sadanaga, 12th a year ago, and newcomer Toyohichi Nakata are his teammates.

For the long-shot darkhorse category, observers have picked Rudy Mendez, 22-year-old Villanova-bound New Yorker, and Canada's Gordon Dickson.

One of the more unusual features will be the four-man Ouellet team from Ashland, Maine. Father Sam and sons Paul, Aurele and Edward all plan to compete.

KNORR STEPS DOWN

Hansen New Head Of Detroit Tigers

DETROIT, April 19 (UP)—Harvey R. Hansen, 61, a man who says he has seen only "10 games or so a year in the past 10 seasons," today was elected the eighth president of the Detroit Tigers.

Fred Knorr, the genial broadcasting executive who organized an 11-man syndicate to buy the Tigers from the Briggs family last fall for $5,500,000, stepped down from the presidency he has held since only last October.

"I am deeply honored to have to the ball club now," Hansen said. "Previously I had to spend a lot of time on the West Coast because of my lumber company out there but my son is president of the coast operation now and I can stay in Detroit more.

"I am deeplyzhonored to have the chance to head the organization," Hansen said. "There will be no changes in the field or front office staff," he said.

Jack Tighe is the rookie manager of the American League club which has lost its first three outings, two by a single run and the other in the 11th inning to Cleveland.

Spke Briggs remains as executive vice president of the club his father built up and Johnny McHale stays as director of player personnel.

"I've always been a devoted Tiger fan since I came to Detroit in 1911 from Green Bay, Wis.," Hansen said. "Although I never played baseball-just some basketball — I followed the team during all of its ups and downs.

"I guess my biggest thrills were when the Tigers won pennants. But we haven't won one since 1945 and I'm sure looking forward to one," he said.

January Heads Champions

By HAL WOOD

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 19 (UP)—Don January, a reed-thin Texan, cracked the course record and grabbed the second-round lead in the $40,000 Tournament of Champions today as he toured the Desert Inn Country Club lay-out in seven-under-par 65 for a 143 two-day total.

Taking advantage of near-perfect playing conditions, January captured eight bridies and had a single bogey for the 18 holes to take a two-stroke lead over the classical field of 23 champions.

For January, today's round was a victory over adversity. Don had injured his back while picking up practice golf balls at his home course in Lampasas, Tex. Thursday, with the wind, cold and rain sweeping the course, he could barely swing a club and fired a six-over-par 78.

So today, he put a newspaper inside his shirt across his shoulders and back to help absorb the rays of the sun. Apparently it worked.

Included among the others close up was Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif., who has won this event the last two times, with a 146 on rounds of 73-73, and at 147 came Dr. Cary Middlecoff; while the 148 shooters were Dick Mayer, LaJolla, Calif.; Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Pete Cooper, Lakeland, Fla.

For January it was a remarkable comeback from an opening round of 78. In Thursday's cold and wind, his back pained him so much that he could hardly swing the club.

January canned 12-foot birdie putts on the third, fifth, and 11th holes; got a 10-footer on the 10th an' the 30-footer on the 17th. His other birds came on the first, a par five, where he got home in two; the ninth, where he had a three-footer; and the 15th, where he approached to within a few inches of the pin.

Bums Get Another Bid For New Park

BROOKLYN, April 19 (AP)—Another tentative proposal to build a new ballpark in the city for the Brooklyn Dodgers — this time in the borough of Queen's—drew a terse and cool response today from Dodger President Walter O'Malley.

"If and when this latest reported possibility ever achieves political maturity, I will be pleased to discuss it in detail," said O'Malley in a statement issued by the club.

The latest move in New York's bid to keep the Dodgers from shifting to Los Angeles was the Queens proposal offered by park commissioner Robert Moses yesterday to Mayor Robert Wager. The mayor said the plan would be placed before the board of estimate "for informal discussion" next Thursday.

Moses suggested building a $10,000,000 municipal stadium, with a plastic covering dome, and seating 50,000 on a city-owned 78-acre plot at Flushing Meadows. This is the site of the 1939 World's Fair, some 12 miles from midtown Manhattan. The property now is used for commuter parking. There would be room to park 12,000 cars plus the stadium.

O'Malley, who has constantly stressed he wants more definite action than mere plans, toured the proposed site with Moses Monday.

Only last Feb. 11, O'Malley said that unless the Dodgers were assured of a new park within six months, he would transfer the club to Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, eager to lure the Dodgers westward, has offered a several hundred acre tract in the Chavez ravine area, also park commission property, near downtown Los Angeles. Last February the Dodgers purchased the Los Angeles franchise of the Pacific Coast League.

'OMalley, from the first, has battled for the building of a new stadium in the Flatbush and Atlantic avenue section of Brooklyn but this appears to be doomed.

While city officials here and in Los Angeles maneuvered for position, fans here started a drive to keep "the Dodgers in Brooklyn."

A rally will be held at Brooklyn's Borough Hall Monday noon. The committee will open a petition drive for 1,000,000 signatures, with Borough president John Cashmore slated to write in the first name.

This will be followed by a luncheon at a Brooklyn hotel on Tuesday afternoon.

But a majority of a number of fans polled at Ebbets Field yesterday believes it's too late to act now and feels the Bums are headed to the coast.

SHOOTS 4-UNDER 70

Mrs. Hagge Forges Lawton Open Lead

LAWTON, Okla., April 19 (UP)—Marlene Bauer Hagge, who has had the most consistent game on the ladies professional golf circuit this spring, fired a four-under par 70 today in the opening round of the $5,000 Lawton Open Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Hagge turned in a pair of 35s over the windswept Lawton municipal golf course. She used only 11 putts on the front nine and an additional four on the back side.

Back three strokes at one-under par 73 were Wiffi Smith, the 25-year-old Californian who won the Dallas Open last week, and Jackie Pung, the colorful Hawaiian shotmaker.

Mrs. Hagge, who plays out of Dallas, Tex., said after her blazing round, "I was hitting the ball real well for a change."

She eagled the par five, seventh hole, which measures 510 yards as did Mrs. Pung.

Mrs. Pung, who has been missing from the pro circuit for 18 months and is making her initial round here since she "retired" to teach at a driving range, said that it would take a while to get her game back into "the tournament touch."

Tied at par 74 were Bonnie Randolph, Betty Jameson and Kathy Cornelius.

The course was in good condition for the opening round, most of the pros reported. But winds gusts up to 30 miles an hour made it rough going late in the afternoon.

The weathermen has promised for clearing skies Saturday as the tournament gets underway for the second day of play at 11:30 a. m. CST.

The tournament concludes Sunday with the final 18 holes.

Betty Dodd, who is defending champion of the year-old tournament, was back at the 77 mark, seven strokes off the lead. She had rounds of 39 and 38. Women's par over the 6,977 yard course is 37-37—74.

Beecham Cops Upset Decision In Mims Bout

MIAMI Beach, Fla., April 19 (UP)—Young Jimmy Beecham, stalking his foe like a hungry tiger, won a 10-round majority decision over favored Holly Mims tonight in a nationally-televised bout at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

But Beecham, a younger, more powerful fighter, did not have an easy job whipping the Washington, D.C., veteran and avenging his only recent loss.

Mims, 28, who decisioned Beecham here last November, played a crafty waiting game for the first seven rounds and weathered the storm of Beecham's attack before opening up with left hooks in the final round. But Beecham, 22, had too much of a lead and too much stamina to be topped.

Beecham, who has a smooth bobbing and ducking style, worked fast for the first three rounds, jabbing at Mims' head with a muscular left arm. Near the end of the third round, he added a right to two left hooks and drove Mims to the ropes.

In the sixth round, the 2,069 fans jumped to their feet just after the opening bell when Beecham was tagged with a stinging left, then exploded with a left hook of his own that rocked the Washington slugger. After a furious exchange, Mims was driven across the ring and it looked as if he might go down, but at the end of the round he was fighting again on even terms.

At the final bell, both fighters were slugging toe-to-toe with Beecham making headway by driving Mims toward the ropes.

Beecham, who said he may campaign in the welterweight division after this fight, weighed 143 pounds and Mims weighed 154-4. It was Beechman's 18th win in 21 fights and Mims' 16th loss in 73 bouts.

Tulane Noses Out Ole Miss By 5-4 Count

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 19 (UP)—Ed Dufaur's relief pitching and a shoestring catch by outfielder Joe Boullosa stopped a Mississippi rally in the ninth inning and gave Tulane a 5-4 Southeastern Conference baseball victory today.

It was Tulane's first baseball victory over Mississippi since 1953.

Dufaur replaced Doug Regan, Tulane's starting pitcher, in the ninth inning with one man out. Mississippi already had scored one run in the inning and had two men on base. Dufaur allowed one more run before he retired the side.

Three of the Tulane runs came in the eighth inning. Tony Reginelli's double drove in two of the runs.

Ponies' Krebs Considers Job As Pro Cager

ST. LOUIS, April 19 (UP)—Jim Krebs, the big man of Southwest conference champion Southern Methodist, said today he was "seriously considering" a pro basketball career with the Minneapolis Lakers.

Krebs, 6-8, was the surprising choice of the Lakers in the first round of the National Basketball Association draft here Wednesday. Krebs, a native of suburban Webster Groves, was expected to be drafted by fourth-picking St. Louis but Minneapolis had third choice.

Krebs said the Lakers have made him an offer and hinted he may make a decision next week.

Krebs hopes to be able to combine careers with the Lakers and a Dallas advertising agency.

Causey Goes To Farm In June

Orioles Will Soon Scatter Bonus Talent

BALTIMORE, April 19 (AP)—Paul Richards splurged on five bonus boys two years ago when he became manager of the Baltimore Orioles. Soon only one will be left.

Richards announced yesterday that he will farm out Wayne Causey and Bob Nelson in June when their two-year mandatory stay in the majors expires.

"They have done as much as could reasonably be expected under the circumstances," Richards said, "but not as much as we hoped."

CAUSEY SIGNED HERE

Wayne Causey, the Baltimore infielder expected to be farmed out in June, signed a bonus contract with the Orioles immediately after his graduation from Neville High School here in 1955. Terms of the contract were never announced but were believed to call for a bonus in excess of $25,000.

Swango, a pitcher from Oklahoma, was released without even a trial in a major league game. The New York Yankees later sent him to the minors and also released him.

Gastal was killed flying an airplane at the end of last season.

Richards feels now that he "probably" will keep Pyburn because of his versatility. Pyburn started playing third base, shifted to the outfield and currently is being broken in as a reserve catcher.

However, if Richards is able to acquire another catcher it may force Pyburn down to the minors also.

Billy O'Dell, a pitcher on the Orioles staff, also is a bonus boy. He was signed by Richards' predecessor as manager, Jimmy Dykes.

O'Dell appeared last night and was unable to stop the Washington Senators from a three-run rally in the sixth inning which enabled them to beat the Orioles 6-4.

O'Dell relieved Ray Moore and walked his first batter to fill the basess. Two singles followed and the Senators had enough to win.

Pyburn also caught the last two innings, but didn't come to bat.

The loss was the second straight for the Orioles after their opening victory against Washington. They are off today and return tomorrow to Washington.

Boss Of SEC Favors 'Open' Orange Bowl

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 19 (AP) — Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore today said he would like to see the Orange Bowl "open to any outstanding football team."

Moore was asked for comment on the Orange Bowl committee's decision to explore the possibility of a new method of selecting teams for the annual New Year's classic.

The bowl's current contract with the Big Seven and Atlantic Coast conferences expires after the game next Jan. 1.

"Naturally I would like to see the Orange Bowl open to any outstanding football team," said Moore. "I've always hated to see those bowls so tied up that certain outstanding teams wouldn't ever have a chance to get in."

SEC teams have won 10 and lost six Orange Bowl appearances. Alabama crushed Syracuse 61-6 in 1953, the last time a team from the Southeastern competed in the Miami event.

Kelley Chief U.S. Threat To Take Boston Marathon

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON, April 19 (AP)—Young Johnny Kelley was the chief hope today to end America's 11-year drouth in the revamped 61st Boston A.A. Marathon as one of nine men who are expected to rule the field of 177.

Kelley, the Groton, Conn., school teacher, is rated in the company of the outstanding foreigners—two Finns, three Koreans and three Japanese.

A survey last week, first measurement of the course since 1927, showed the paved path to be 1,187 yards short of the standard 26-mile, 385-yard distance. In accordance, the starting line has been moved back.

Kelley, former Boston University distance runner, must maintain the proper mental attitude as well as the physical endurance to overcome the leading foreigners

B.A.A. trainer Jock Semple believes Kelley has the proper confidence at last. Last year when the flying Finn, Antti Viskari, was clocked in a fantastic 2:14:14, Kelley was right behind in 2:14:33. The recent course measurement has killed those record times but can't erase the fact it was a road-burning effort.

Kelley knows he can stay with the best of them.

Three years ago Johnny came in seventh when Karvonen ran Britain's famed Jim Peters into submission over the final six mile downgrade.

U. S. entries are bucking the tradition that an American has been unable to win the B.A.A. since the elder Johnny Kelley (no relation) turned the trick in 1945.

In addition, the younger Kelley needed something to restore his faith in himself after it wilted in the searing 100 degree heat at Melbourne in the Olympic Marathon. He was leading the field at the time he gave way.

Kelley is America's only hope according to Semple.

"They're all back," said Semple of the foreigners. "And they're always good. But our boys behind Kelley aren't even up to ordinary strength."

Recent foreign predominance can be seen from the fact the Koreans are unbeaten in two visits, the Japense have captured three of four and the Finns two of four.

Karvonen, 31-year - old post office clerk, has the finest record. The only title to elude him has been the Olympic Marathon. At Melbourne he finished third—the only northern European to successfully weather the heat.

Karvonen's record is almost unbelievable. He has competed in 25 marathons. Of these he has won 14, finished second six times, third three times and never come in worse than sixth.

Olavi Manniner, Karvonen's countryman who is unknown here, defeated Viskara at the Vasa race last summer and was third in the Finnish championships.

The Koreans — Chingo Woo Lim, Soong Chil Han and Soong Sik Choi—have to try to uphold a perfect record. Korean runners won in 1947 and swept to a 1-2-3 finish in 1950.

Yamada, 29, won in what was a record time of 2:18:51 back in 1953 while being chased across the line by Karvonen. He figures he has regained his old form after a slump. Nobuyoshi Sadanaga, 12th a year ago, and newcomer Toyohichi Nakata are his teammates.

For the long-shot darkhorse category, observers have picked Rudy Mendez, 22-year-old Villanova-bound New Yorker, and Canada's Gordon Dickson.

One of the more unusual features will be the four-man Ouellet team from Ashland, Maine. Father Sam and sons Paul, Aurele and Edward all plan to compete.

The elder Kelley is back for another try.

Hansen New Head Of Detroit Tigers

DETROIT, April 19 (UP)—Harvey R. Hansen, 61, a man who says he has seen only "10 games or so a year in the past 10 seasons," today was elected the eighth president of the Detroit Tigers.

Fred Knorr, the genial broadcasting executive who organized an 11-man syndicate to buy the Tigers from the Briggs family last fall for $5,500,000, stepped down from the presidency he has held since only last October.

"I am deeply honored to have to the ball club now," Hansen said. "Previously I had to spend a lot of time on the West Coast because of my lumber company out there but my son is president of the coast operation now and I can stay in Detroit more.

"I am deeplyzhonored to have the chance to head the organization," Hansen said. "There will be no changes in the field or front office staff," he said.

Jack Tighe is the rookie manager of the American League club which has lost its first three outings, two by a single run and the other in the 11th inning to Cleveland.

Spke Briggs remains as executive vice president of the club his father built up and Johnny McHale stays as director of player personnel.

"I've always been a devoted Tiger fan since I came to Detroit in 1911 from Green Bay, Wis.," Hansen said. "Although I never played baseball-just some basketball — I followed the team during all of its ups and downs.

"I guess my biggest thrills were when the Tigers won pennants. But we haven't won one since 1945 and I'm sure looking forward to one," he said.

January Heads Champions

By HAL WOOD

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 19 (UP)—Don January, a reed-thin Texan, cracked the course record and grabbed the second-round lead in the $40,000 Tournament of Champions today as he toured the Desert Inn Country Club lay-out in seven-under-par 65 for a 143 two-day total.

Taking advantage of near-perfect playing conditions, January captured eight bridies and had a single bogey for the 18 holes to take a two-stroke lead over the classical field of 23 champions.

For January, today's round was a victory over adversity. Don had injured his back while picking up practice golf balls at his home course in Lampasas, Tex. Thursday, with the wind, cold and rain sweeping the course, he could barely swing a club and fired a six-over-par 78.

So today, he put a newspaper inside his shirt across his shoulders and back to help absorb the rays of the sun. Apparently it worked.

Included among the others close up was Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif., who has won this event the last two times, with a 146 on rounds of 73-73, and at 147 came Dr. Cary Middlecoff; while the 148 shooters were Dick Mayer, LaJolla, Calif.; Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Pete Cooper, Lakeland, Fla.

For January it was a remarkable comeback from an opening round of 78. In Thursday's cold and wind, his back pained him so much that he could hardly swing the club.

January canned 12-foot birdie putts on the third, fifth, and 11th holes; got a 10-footer on the 10th an the 30-footer on the 17th. His other birds came on the first, a par five, where he got home in two; the ninth, where he had a three-footer; and the 15th, where he approached to within a few inches of the pin.

Bums Get Another Bid For New Park

BROOKLYN, April 19 (AP)—Another tentative proposal to build a new ballpark in the city for the Brooklyn Dodgers — this time in the borough of Queen's—drew a terse and cool response today from Dodger President Walter O'Malley.

"If and when this latest reported possibility ever achieves political maturity, I will be pleased to discuss it in detail," said O'Malley in a statement issued by the club.

The latest move in New York's bid to keep the Dodgers from shifting to Los Angeles was the Queens proposal offered by park commissioner Robert Moses yesterday to Mayor Robert Wager. The mayor said the plan would be placed before the board of estimate "for informal discussion" next Thursday.

Moses suggested building a $10,000,000 municipal stadium, with a plastic covering dome, and seating 50,000 on a city-owned 78-acre plot at Flushing Meadows. This is the site of the 1939 World's Fair, some 12 miles from midtown Manhattan. The property now is used for commuter parking. There would be room to park 12,000 cars plus the stadium.

O'Malley, who has constantly stressed he wants more definite action than mere plans, toured the proposed site with Moses Monday.

Only last Feb. 11, O'Malley said that unless the Dodgers were assured of a new park within six months, he would transfer the club to Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, eager to lure the Dodgers westward, has offered a several hundred acre tract in the Chavez ravine area, also park commission property, near downtown Los Angeles. Last February the Dodgers purchased the Los Angeles franchise of the Pacific Coast League.

'OMalley, from the first, has battled for the building of a new stadium in the Flatbush and Atlantic avenue section of Brooklyn but this appears to be doomed.

While city officials here and in Los Angeles maneuvered for position, fans here started a drive to keep "the Dodgers in Brooklyn."

A rally will be held at Brooklyn's Borough Hall Monday noon. The committee will open a petition drive for 1,000,000 signatures, with Borough president John Cashmore slated to write in the first name.

This will be followed by a luncheon at a Brooklyn hotel on Tuesday afternoon.

But a majority of a number of fans polled at Ebbets Field yesterday believes it's too late to act now and feels the Bums are headed to the coast.

TOUGH SLEDDING SEEN FOR IKE'S MODERN REPUBLICANISM

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—President Eisenhower's "modern Republican" legislative program appeared in considerable trouble today at the midway point of the first session of the 85th Congress.

Members of the House and Senate headed home for a 10-day Easter recess with most of their work still before them when they return April 29. After hearing constituents, most may be more firmly fixed on their No. 1 goal—budget cutting and perhaps tax cuts.

So far this year Congress has done only about what it had to do—extend corporate and excise taxes through June 30, 1958, and approve the Eisenhower Middle East doctrine. It also raised the interest rate on U. S. savings bonds to 3 1-4 per cent.

Puts Up Extra Money

After a political row, it gave Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield an extra 41 million dollars to run the Post Office for the rest of the fiscal year. It also put up some other deficiency appropriations to carry the government until June 30.

But most of Eisenhower's legislative program is tied up in committees and the future is dark for such top items as school changes and increases in postal rates.

In addition the budget-cutters can hardly wait to get at the President's $4,400,000,000 foreign aid program. It is their big chance to pare government spending to the point which they might claim justifies a tax reduction on Jan. 1.

Some foreign aid advocates insist that only an all-out fight by Eisenhower can stave off crippling cuts in his program.

Hearings Scheduled

The House Rules Committee has scheduled hearings after the Easter recess on the President's civil rights program.

Am I Crazy? What Shall I Do? Young Man, 25, Needs Advice

Dear Ann: I'm a young man, 25, and need advice bad. A certain young lady is madly in love with me and I'm not fooling. We've been close friends since I was 13, and she's a wonderful "buddy" — but I am not in love with her.

When I was in the service she wrote me love letters and told everyone we were secretly married. After I got out I didn't have a job or any money, but she'd been saving and suggested we live on her paycheck till I got on my feet.

All my friends and family like her and say I'm cracked for not getting married. My folks are mad at me because they say I'm breaking the girl's heart. Honestly, she's breaking her own heart. I never tried to fool her at any time.

She's been knocking herself out for me for years and the last thing I want to do is hurt her. Am I crazy or what? What shall I do? — WORRIED BACH

My advice is to give the girl a nice firm hand-shake, (buddy-style) and make certain she doesn't knock herself out for you in the future. Tell your family and friends to get off your back and show that you mean business by dating other girls.

It could be that after playing the field you'll appreciate the "buddy's" devotion and you may get an entirely new perspective. But, feeling as you do, don't get married. A fellow who thinks he's been hog-tied and dragged to the altar, makes a very poor husband.

Dear Ann: We were married for years and were never blessed with a family. It was the dark shadow of our lives not to have any little ones. Several months ago my wife gave birth to a son and we felt it was a miracle-child—an answer to our prayers.

But now there are problems I hadn't counted on. My wife is so devoted to the baby she hardly looks at me. We used to have fun and go every place together, but since the son arrived I've been almost like a bachelor.

Our fiends have been asking us to go on fishing trips. These are man-wife weekends. She used to go and have lots of fun but now she refuses to leave the baby. Shall I go alone or what?—AUSTIN.

It's wonderful that your wife has gained a son, but it's too bad she's losing a husband. By all means accept the invitation. Maybe while you're gone the Little Woman will wake up and smell the coffee.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a group of eight teenagers who are sitting together on the floor in our play room as we write this letter. We want your honest opinion. We are five girls and three boys, and most of us are top students in a certain high school which we won't name.

There's been an awful lot of discussion about the way the kids have been wearing their hair lately. First it was pony-tails. Now it's the fad for the gals to get Elvis Presley haircuts. The fellows have been going in for ducktails instead of crew - cuts or "butches." What is your opinion on these hair styles for teenagers? Does a haircut mean anything? How do you think teenagers should wear their hair in this day and age? Please discuss this in your column. — TROUBLED TRESSES.

(Ann Landers will be happy to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.)

Am I Crazy? What Shall I Do? Young Man, 25, Needs Advice

Dear Ann: I'm a young man, 25, and need advice bad. A certain young lady is madly in love with me and I'm not fooling. We've been close friends since I was 13, and she's a wonderful "buddy" — but I am not in love with her.

When I was in the service she wrote me love letters and told everyone we were secretly married. After I got out I didn't have a job or any money, but she'd been saving and suggested we live on her paycheck till I got on my feet.

All my friends and family like her and say I'm cracked for not getting married. My folks are mad at me because they say I'm breaking the girl's heart. Honestly, she's breaking her own heart. I never tried to fool her at any time.

She's been knocking herself out for me for years and the last thing I want to do is hurt her. Am I crazy or what? What shall I do? — WORRIED BACH

My advice is to give the girl a nice firm hand-shake, (buddy-style) and make certain she doesn't knock herself out for you in the future. Tell your family and friends to get off your back and show that you mean business by dating other girls.

It could be that after playing the field you'll appreciate the "buddy's" devotion and you may get an entirely new perspective. But, feeling as you do, don't get married. A fellow who thinks he's been hog-tied and dragged to the altar, makes a very poor husband.

Dear Ann: We were married for years and were never blessed with a family. It was the dark shadow of our lives not to have any little ones. Several months ago my wife gave birth to a son and we felt it was a miracle-child—an answer to our prayers.

But now there are problems I hadn't counted on. My wife is so devoted to the baby she hardly looks at me. We used to have fun and go every place together, but since the son arrived I've been almost like a bachelor.

Our fiends have been asking us to go on fishing trips. These are man-wife weekends. She used to go and have lots of fun but now she refuses to leave the baby. Shall I go alone or what?—AUSTIN.

It's wonderful that your wife has gained a son, but it's too bad she's losing a husband. By all means accept the invitation. Maybe while you're gone the Little Woman will wake up and smell the coffee.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a group of eight teenagers who are sitting together on the floor in our play room as we write this letter. We want your honest opinion. We are five girls and three boys, and most of us are top students in a certain high school which we won't name.

There's been an awful lot of discussion about the way the kids have been wearing their hair lately. First it was pony-tails. Now it's the fad for the gals to get Elvis Presley haircuts. The fellows have been going in for ducktails instead of crew - cuts or "butches." What is your opinion on these hair styles for teenagers? Does a haircut mean anything? How do you think teenagers should wear their hair in this day and age? Please discuss this in your column. — TROUBLED TRESSES.

It makes no sense when girls begin to look like their brothers and boys look like their sisters. A fellow with a full head of waves and curls is out of order.

(Ann Landers will be happy to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.)

If Child Rearing Gets You Down Remember Next Year Will Be Easier

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

When mothers write in complaint of the torments they are going through rearing a large and lively family, I remember the wise words of my mother who always said to me, "Next year it will be easier."

Whether it was or not, or whether next year just brought different problems to challenge you—at least it was a hopeful outlook. It gave you the courage to endure the night - wakefulness; the noise and disorder and confusion of small children, the running away and all the rest of the behavior which mothers meet and surmount daily.

FELT ENCOURAGEMENT

Mrs. A. W. N. I enjoyed your letter and it was plain you felt some encouragement when you read about "holy terror," that you were not alone in your difficulties. Next year will be easier.

Mrs. V. A. C. writes, "I read about a 15-months-old baby who woke in the night for a bottle. I had a similar experience with my boy and as a matter of fact it was just at this age that I began trying to break him of the habit.

"My son was also given sufficient food in daytime though I tried to give him more hoping he would sleep longer at night. He wouldn't eat it. I also put a bottle of water in his crib thinking when he woke that he would take that instead of the milk. When he woke he hardly touched the bottle and I would have to get up, change him and give him the milk.

SIMPLE SOLUTION

"The solution for us was simple and really unbelievable. At 11 p.m., before my bedtime and after I had changed him, while he was asleep, I put a sleeping bag over his nightgown. The first time I did this he stopped waking and hasn't waked at night since, unless he has been sick or was getting a tooth. He has always had his own room. I hope this solution works for this mother."

Thank you. But at this season the probability is less that the boy might have been waking because of chilliness. Maybe others will try it next fall.

Mrs. A. F., will you send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and let me send you my leaflet called "Sex Habits to Childhood," which will acquaint you with the usual beliefs about this practice. Thank you.

WALTER WINCHELL

There Is No Cease-Fire In The War Of Critics

There is no cease-fire in the Critics' War. A Satevepost guided-missile scorns them as dictators while a Harper's essay comes to their defense. The defense is authored by a non-objective authority. Walter Kerr the critic ... The capacity trade shows have dwindled to a trio. "Auntie Money," "Golden Bells Are Ringing" and "My Fair Mint" ... Mr. Presley has something to flip his hips about: His tour netted $30,000 a DAY ...

The top startler in the circus: The man who jumps up steps—on his head ... The Eugene O'Neill trend has spread to Hollywood. His "Desire Under the Elms" will be filmed ... 1957 is radio's top bonanza. Biggest year (financially) in its history ... From a N.Y. Times movie review: 'One seduction scene after another gets pretty dull to watch." (End of Propaganda.)

Tab Hunter has derived more loot from his "Young Love" platter than he earned during his entire acting career ... Some years ago, a nightingal auditioned for 2 big name bands. She was rejected. She then managed to secure a singing job on the radio. After the first week she was fired. Dinah Shore ... What success means to Tony Curtis: He has a swimming pool, a collection of French abstract paintings and a telescope with a 6-inch reflector ... Casting dept: The medico in the movie version of "The Last Angry Man" bestseller would be an Oscar-winner for Paul Muni ... The Sat. Review retalls another Chris Morley swifty-nifty: "What peace needs is a good singing commercial" ... Anita Ekberg's tip to Emily Post: "I've gone nude bathing. But only at a party with close friends." (Oh.)

The McGuire Sisters are their familiar big click at the Desert Inn (Vegas), one of the top-flight girlsicals in town ... Monte Proser and Nick Castle's production at the Tropicana is Big Time Broadway. It stars Eddie Fisher at his very best. Gordon Jenkins did the exciting score—and Earl Barton's choreography adds to the show business magic ... Elaine Dunn and Tybee Afra are two of the most exciting personalities. These girls are On Their Way ... Frankie Laine, who struck lightning twice when he picked golf champ Gene Littler to win the Tournament of Champions (at the Desert Inn course), cancelled 2 weeks' bookings to be at the tee-off yesterday.

Bosley Crowther's interesting book "The Lion's Share" (a history of MGM), is crammed with the first words intoned on the screen by Garbo: "A viskey for me, kid—and don't be stingy" ... Add hard-to-believe skewps: Newsweek reports that radio-tv critic Jack Gould keeps 3 tv sets going at the same time ... Tony Perkins was an unknown 20 months ago ... Although the top discs are selling millions, the record biz is generally zig-zaggy ... Latest in the series of show biz confessions is Judy Garland's in McCall's. Miss Garland declares she felt "homeless and a wanderer" until she opened at the Palace. A series of failures convinced her that "nobody wanted me."

Elia Kazan, a brave man, boldly comes out in favor of critics. He is quoted in a mag: "Critics are exposed to so much tripe that they're inclined to go overboard when something halfway decent comes along. They're a fine bunch of men who are genuinely concerned with the theatre." Only critics will agree with Mr. Kazan's estimate on critics...Variety's story about Ava Gardner's snub of the press demonstrates how to destroy a career ... One of the best shows is offered by Esquire's 6 pages of Tina Louise and her natural assets ... Perry Como explained why he's a happy man: "I've always had all the things money can't buy." Moral: If you're happy — you're the richest man in the world.

Mike Todd is now producing a movie about a movie. It will detail how "Around the World in 80 Days" was produced. Todd is probably the only man who'll make a mint on a trailer ... "New Girl in Town," the new musical starring Gwen Verdon, was estimated by Variety's New Haven appraiser as "a three-base hit" ... Add sassy song titles: "Yes, Tonight, Josephine" ... Several movie mags are giving circulation to the debunked item concerning Ingrid's daughter in the U.S. expressing dislike for her mother ... The "12 Angry Men" flicker, a provocative study of a jury in action, reminds you of an old French movie titled "Justice Is Done" ... Despite Marilyn's denials Modern Screen insists she's the-shape - of - things - to - come. The source: An obstetrician's nurse.

'Chip' Bohlen Back From Tour In Soviet Union

NEW YORK, April 19 (UP)—Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, retiring from his post in Moscow after the longest tenure of any United States ambassador there, returned to the United States today with his wife, two of his three children, 28 pieces of baggage and two poodles.

He declined to say anything about the Soviet Union until after he reports to the State Department in Washington on Monday.

Bohlen's name is before the Senate for appointment as ambassador to the Philippines, but he has not yet been confirmed.

Bohlen said he is "looking forward with pleasure and interest to the prospect of my assignment to the Philippines." Smiling and relaxed, although he appeared tired from his flight from Frankfurt, Germany, Bohlen said he had left the Soviet Union "with mixed feelings."

As for a statement by Communist party Chief Nikita Krushchev that he was sorry to see Bohlen leave, the ambassador said: "I don't know how that got published. I wouldn't attach too much significance to normal compliments because I am personally involved. This is the normal thing you would say."

Bohlen smiled but refused to comment on some senatorial opposition to his appointment to the Philippines, led by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Surgery Slated To Separate Siamese Twins

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 (AP) — Surgery will be performed soon at Children's Hospital in an effort to separate Siamese twins Terry and Larry Powell.

Neurosurgeons said several operations may be necessary.

Doctors have said the twins will have only a slight chance of surviving surgery if they have common brain tissue. But Mr. and Mrs. Jack Powell, parents of the babies, have consented to the surgery.

Terry and Larry, born March 10, are joined by a skull fusion 3½ inches wide. Tests have shown they have major vein connections.

"After taking three drinks, stop and think before taking another," advises a physician. But, Doc, after taking three drinks the average person isn't capable either of thinking or stopping.

Gun Accident Fatal To Actor's Son

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, N. Y. April 19 (AP) — Jan Dekker, 16-year-old son of actor Albert Dekker, was found dead of a rifle bullet wound at his home here and his death was pronounced accidental.

The father is in Palm Beach, Fla., appearing in an Agatha Christie play, "Witness for the Prosecution."

Dekker said his son had been experimenting about a year on constructing a rifle silencer.

A medical examiner, Dr. Victoria Braidesh, said the death was accidental.

ALCOHOLISM HEAVY

VIENNA, April 19 (AP)—Hungarian Communist newspaper campaigning against drunkenness report an average of 20 alcoholics daily admitted to Budapest hospitals. Budapest has a normal pupulation of more than a million.

RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Jack Benny Is Newest Rage Of Concert World

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 (UP)—The newset rage of the concert world will bow to Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra Tuesday night, tuck his violin next to his white tie and play, he hopes.

Everybody used to laugh when Jack Benny dragged out his violin on his radio and TV shows but now he's graduated into longhair music halls and gained a new "career."

A year ago Benny made his concert debut in Oklahoma City, followed by concerts in New York's Carnegie Hall and Philadelphia. Orchestras in other cities were so stunned they flooded Benny with offers. His 1957 benefit concert tour begins here and moves to Washington, Chicago, Boston, San Francisco and London.

Very Humble

But the new concert star is taking it all very humbly.

"Actually, I'm pretty lousy,' confessed Jack. "I don't play at all. But I get through the numbers and I try to play as well as I can.

"People who think I can't play are surprised. Some figure I'll just tell jokes and try 'Love in Bloom.' But I do these as legit as any concert.

"Mary can't stand my playing," he added sadly. "She says I should be billed, 'Jack Benny and his Frightful Fiddle.'"

At the April 23 concert, for the benefit of Edars of Lebanon hospital, Jack will play the first movement of a Mendelssohn Concerto plus other classical numbers. He's been practicing daily and unfortunately always plays better while practicing than on the stage, he says.

Stage Fright

"I get stage fright, I guess because I'm playing in front of great musicians," he said.

"It's odd—I'm not nervous about my TV shows, which I should be, as that is my real business. But I'm always nervous at concerts, which I shouldn'be be because the public really doesn't expect anything."

Benny has been wielding a bow arm since the age of 6. His first paying violin job was with a vaudeville orchestra. Before long he was playing on the stage. Finally the fiddle became a comedy prop, until today it is as much a part of the Benny legend as gags about his stinginess, Maxwell car and perennial 39-year-old age.

Only by becoming a world-famous comedian has Jack been able to attain the concert stage. But, on the other hand, if he had only practiced harder when he was a youngster...

Ringgold Bank Files Suit To Recover Fund

BATON ROUGE, April 19 (AP) — The Bank of Ringgold in Bienville Parish, claiming it was defrauded of $132,000 over a two-month period last year in a check-trading swindle, has filed suit to recover the money from an indemnity insurer.

The suit claims a former Ringgold resident now deceased and a Hope, Ark., resident engaged in a "check-kiting" scheme to defraud the bank during March and April last year. Although some of the money was recovered, the petition claims the amount lost exceeds the $90,000 coverage of its policy with the Great American Indemnity Co.

The suit charges that C. R. Wilkie, opening an account as Wilkie Lumber Sales Co., and Horace Anthony, who had an account as Anthony Manufacturing Co. in the First National Bank at Hope, "acted in collusion" to obtain money under false pretenses.

The two are charged with depositing each other's checks in their respective banks, and because of the collection time lag, maintaining fictitious credits in each banking account. Disbursements were made to both men "on the strength of such fictitious credits," the petition continues.

The suit says Wilkie defrauded the bank of $61,100 through the check trading scheme and also defrauded the Ringgold Bank of $70,900 by turning over worthless sales invoices to the bank for collection, having them credit to his checking account.

Planes Join In Supplying Food

NEW DELHI, India, April 19 (UP)—India Air Force planes are dropping emergency food supplies in the north hill districts of Almora and Garwhal to stave off an acute famine.

The districts lie on the south-eastern Tibet border.

The typical juvenile delinquent is acting his age — mental age, that is, which is 8 going on 7.

'Chip' Bohlen Back From Tour In Soviet Union

NEW YORK, April 19 (UP)—Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, retiring from his post in Moscow after the longest tenure of any United States ambassador there, returned to the United States today with his wife, two of his three children, 28 pieces of baggage and two poodles.

He declined to say anything about the Soviet Union until after he reports to the State Department in Washington on Monday.

Bohlen's name is before the Senate for appointment as ambassador to the Philippines, but he has not yet been confirmed.

Bohlen said he is "looking forward with pleasure and interest to the prospect of my assignment to the Philippines." Smiling and relaxed, although he appeared tired from his flight from Frankfurt, Germany, Bohlen said he had left the Soviet Union "with mixed feelings."

As for a statement by Communist party Chief Nikita Krushchev that he was sorry to see Bohlen leave, the ambassador said: "I don't know how that got published. I wouldn't attach too much significance to normal compliments because I am personally involved. This is the normal thing you would say."

Bohlen smiled but refused to comment on some senatorial opposition to his appointment to the Philippines, led by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Surgery Slated To Separate Siamese Twins

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 (AP) — Surgery will be performed soon at Children's Hospital in an effort to separate Siamese twins Terry and Larry Powell.

Neurosurgeons said several operations may be necessary.

Doctors have said the twins will have only a slight chance of surviving surgery if they have common brain tissue. But Mr. and Mrs. Jack Powell, parents of the babies, have consented to the surgery.

Terry and Larry, born March 10, are joined by a skull fusion 3½ inches wide. Tests have shown they have major vein connections.

"After taking three drinks, stop and think before taking another," advises a physician. But, Doc, after taking three drinks the average person isn't capable either of thinking or stopping.

Gun Accident Fatal To Actor's Son

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, N. Y. April 19 (AP) — Jan Dekker, 16-year-old son of actor Albert Dekker, was found dead of a rifle bullet wound at his home here and his death was pronounced accidental.

The father is in Palm Beach, Fla., appearing in an Agatha Christie play, "Witness for the Prosecution."

Dekker said his son had been experimenting about a year on constructing a rifle silencer.

Jack Benny Is Newest Rage Of Concert World

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 (UP)—The newset rage of the concert world will bow to Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra Tuesday night, tuck his violin next to his white tie and play, he hopes.

Everybody used to laugh when Jack Benny dragged out his violin on his radio and TV shows but now he's graduated into longhair music halls and gained a new "career."

A year ago Benny made his concert debut in Oklahoma City, followed by concerts in New York's Carnegie Hall and Philadelphia. Orchestras in other cities were so stunned they flooded Benny with offers. His 1957 benefit concert tour begins here and moves to Washington, Chicago, Boston, San Francisco and London.

Very Humble

But the new concert star is taking it all very humbly.

"Actually, I'm pretty lousy,' confessed Jack. "I don't play at all. But I get through the numbers and I try to play as well as I can.

"People who think I can't play are surprised. Some figure I'll just tell jokes and try 'Love in Bloom.' But I do these as legit as any concert.

"Mary can't stand my playing," he added sadly. "She says I should be billed, 'Jack Benny and his Frightful Fiddle.'"

At the April 23 concert, for the benefit of Edars of Lebanon hospital, Jack will play the first movement of a Mendelssohn Concerto plus other classical numbers. He's been practicing daily and unfortunately always plays better while practicing than on the stage, he says.

Stage Fright

"I get stage fright, I guess because I'm playing in front of great musicians," he said.

"It's odd—I'm not nervous abov my TV shows, which I should be, as that is my real business. But I'm always nervous at concerts, which I shouldn'be be because the public really doesn't expect anything."

Benny has been wielding a bow arm since the age of 6. His first paying violin job was with a vaudeville orchestra. Before long he was playing on the stage. Finally the fiddle became a comedy prop, until today it is as much a part of the Benny legend as gags about his stinginess, Maxwell car and perennial 39-year-old age.

Only by becoming a world-famous comedian has Jack been able to attain the concert stage. But, on the other hand, if he had only practiced harder when he was a youngster...

Ringgold Bank Files Suit To Recover Fund

BATON ROUGE, April 19 (AP) — The Bank of Ringgold in Bienville Parish, claiming it was defrauded of $132,000 over a two-month period last year in a check-trading swindle, has filed suit to recover the money from an indemnity insurer.

The suit claims a former Ringgold resident now deceased and a Hope, Ark., resident engaged in a "check-kiting" scheme to defraud the bank during March and April last year. Although some of the money was recovered, the petition claims the amount lost exceeds the $90,000 coverage of its policy with the Great American Indemnity Co.

The suit charges that C. R. Wilkie, opening an account as Wilkie Lumber Sales Co., and Horace Anthony, who had an account as Anthony Manufacturing Co. in the First National Bank at Hope, "acted in collusion" to obtain money under false pretenses.

The two are charged with depositing each other's checks in their respective banks, and because of the collection time lag, maintaining fictitious credits in each banking account. Disbursements were made to both men "on the strength of such fictitious credits," the petition continues.

The suit says Wilkie defrauded the bank of $61,100 through the check trading scheme and also defrauded the Ringgold Bank of $70,900 by turning over worthless sales invoices to the bank for collection, having them credit to his checking account.

Planes Join In Supplying Food

NEW DELHI, India, April 19 (UP)—India Air Force planes are dropping emergency food supplies in the north hill districts of Almora and Garwhal to stave off an acute famine.

The districts lie on the southeastern Tibet border.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Comb Town For Dynamite Caps

COLLINSVILLE, Okla., April 19 (AP) — Instead of a needle in a haystack, people in this tiny Oklahoma town were looking for dynamate caps.

And Police Chief Don Brinkley was finding them all over town last night—in the coat pocket of a little girl, at an old coal pit, by the hotel.

"But somebody could get his head blown off,'' said Brinkley as he led the search. About 85 had been recovered so far.

The boys told the chief they took the caps and some dynamite sticks early Wednesday. Brinkley said apparently some of the caps had been handled by various children in school for two days.

It was not discovered until early last night that dynamite caps were scattered around this little community near Tulsa. Then, police were notified some children were playing with the explosives.

Another boy said he'd tossed a couple in a waste basket at school and another said he'd thrown about 10 in a creek.

One of the boys who admitted taking the caps led police to an old coal pit where about 15 and the sticks of dynamite were recovered.

Farm Product Research By U.S. Sought

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—A bipartisan commission has recommended to Congress that the government set up an expanded research program to find new industrial uses for farm products.

The commission was created last August as the "commission on increased industrial use of agricultural products.'' It made its recommendations Thursday night in an interim report to Congress after an eight months' study of the potential industrial uses of surplus farm products. A final report is due June 15.

J. Leroy Welsh, Omaha, Neb., grain operator, is chairman of the commission. Wheeler McMillan, vice president of Farm Journal, Inc., is executive director.

Only about 7 per cent of the cultivated farm acreage produces items now consumed for industrial (non-food and non-feed) purposes, the commission said. This includes most of tobacco, cotton fiber, wool, and some proportions of soybeans, corn, and other crops. This percentage, the commission said, is "undesirably small.''

The commission listed a board list of possible research projects, which, if initiated at once, would cost $211,000,000 a year.

It rejected proposals that grains be used to produce alcohol for motor fuel and for producing synthetic rubber. Such usages are not economically feasible, it said.

But it gave Congress a detailed report on its study in the use of farm products in the manufacture of rubber, industrial alcohol, motor fuels, plastics, and other products.

Benson Cuts U.S. Wheat Supports

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson announced today that the government will cut 1958 wheat price supports to an average of $1.78 a bushel — 22 cents below the rate for the 1957 and 1956 crops.

The new rate — if approved by growers in a national referendum —would be 75 per cent of the so-called "fair" parity level compared with the current support rate of 80 per cent.

Assuming a crop of about 850 million bushels, the department said the new support level would mean farmers would get about 187 million dollars less than they are expected to receive under this year's $2--a-bushel rate.

Prices at Same Level

This also assumed that market prices would hover at about the support level as has been the case in recent years.

Benson also proclaimed a national 1958 wheat acreage allotment of 55 million acres — minimum permitttd by law.

This allotment, he said, with average yields and allowances for acreage placed in the soil bank, will produce a crop of about 800 million or more bushels.

This would mean a total 1958-59 wheat supply of 1,680,000,000 bushels when added to the estimated July 1, 1958 carryover of 875,000,000 bushels and estimated 1957-58 imports of 5,000,000 bushels.

While this would be considerably below the 1,825,000,000 bushels estimated for the coming 1957-58 marketing year, it still would be substantially larger than the estimated domestic and export needs during the 1958-59 marketing year.

Non-Commercial States

In the 12 non-commercial wheat-growing states — those having allotments of 25,000 acres or less— the 1958 price support rate will be 75 per cent of the rate for the commercial area. This would average out to about $1.33 a bushel.

Wheat acreage allotments have been in effect now for four years. Marketing quotas have been approved each year.

Following are acrage allotments for Southwestern states in the 1958 commercial wheat area compared with 1957 allotments (1958 first):

Arkansas, 49,334, 53,479; Colorado, 2,704,917, 2,766,025; Kansas, 10,638,208, 10615188; Missouri 1,273,623; New Mexico, 474,243, 470,705; Oklahoma, 4,859,635, 4,878,623; Texas, 4,164,302, 4,149,971; Utah, 316,06,8 314,303; Wyoming, 291,578, 298,678.

The 1958 wheat acrage in the 12 non-commercial states included:

Arizona 21,401; Louisiana, 6,302; Nevada, 12,317.

VIA DOLOROSA — WAY OF CROSS

Steps Of Christ Retraced By Pilgrims In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, April 19 (AP) — Easter pilgrims bearing heavy wooden crosses sorrowfully traced today the steps of Jesus on the road to Calvary.

Christians from the West and East, some wearing oriental shawls, hoods and turbans and speaking many different tongues, trod the flagstone streets of Old Jerusalem to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. In the line, too, were blue-bereted U. N. soldiers, joining in the singing of hymns.

Only about 400 pilgrims crossed from the Israeli side of Jerusalem into the Jordan-ruled sector of the city on this Good Friday, and few Americans or other Westerners were among them.

The sharp drop from the several thousand who made the pilgrimage across the city's dividing line last year was attributed to Middle East tensions and a U. S. ban on travel of American citizens to the troubled area. The ban was lifted early this month, too late, travel agents said, for organized tours or any sizable individual travel.

But in Arab Jerusalem, where most of the holy places are located, hotels were jammed with an estimated 4,000 visiting pilgrims. Most of these were Arab Christians who had come by other routes from Egypt, Cyprus and Syria.

Temperatures were chill as visitors assembled in the courtyard of a Moslem secondary school, inside the walls of Old City where tradition says Christ was tried before Pilate. During the day the skies were cloudy and there were intermittent drizzles.

In the courtyard, the pilgrims separated into groups according to language, with one person assigned to carry a huge wooden cross. At each Station of the Cross the group paused and heard a sermon in its own language. Known as the Via Dolorosa, the Way of the Cross winds through streets so narrow in many places wheeled vehicles cannot pass.

In the midst of the bizarre and shop district of Old City, often running beneath the vaulted roof which keeps the city in perpetual twilight, the Way of the Cross pauses at 14 points marking the sites where Christ was flogged and where he fell beneath the weight of his burden.

Last of the stations is the Holy Sepulchre, inside the crumbling old church which still bears on its walls and columns the Crusader crosses carved when this land was reconquered for Christians.

As the procession entered the courtyard of the Holy Sepulchre, the Moslem call to prayer from a nearby minaret split the air momentarily drowning the hymns and sermons of the Christian pilgrims.

Actor Jailed For Kicking Photographer

LOS ANGELES, April 19 (AP)—Actor Anthony Franciosa went to jail today for kicking a photographer, right in his camera.

The onetime New York cafeteria counterman and his fiancee, actress Shelley Winters, had just made an unsuccessful bid in court on a Beverly Hills mansion and were a little disgruntled. They became even more upset when photographers asked them to pose.

"We can't have any pictures taken," pleaded Miss Winters. "He is still getting a divorce." The puzzling part of this was that they have been photographed together scores of times at night clubs.

One cameraman, Bill Walker of the Herald Express, started to snap a picture anyhow.

As Miss Winters stood by screaming, Franciosa, 28, kicked Walker, 42, knocked his camera to the ground and began pounding him. With Miss Winters, 33, still screaming, other cameramen pulled the two apart. Then police arrived and took Franciosa, handcuffed and in tears to jail. He was released on $250 bail. He is scheduled to appear in Municipal Court Monday to face an assault charge.

Apparently the only injury to anyone was a scratch on Walker's finger. Said Walker: "I intend to have him prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

An hour after the brawl, Franciosa's wife won a divorce in the Reno (Nev.) court of Dist. Judge Gordon Rice on the ground of "willful desertions."

The actor and Miss Winters have been keeping company since they appeared together on Broadway in "A Hatful of Rain."

Franciosa, a graduate of the New York Actor's Studio, has yet to be seen by the movie public. Unreleased are three films, any of which, critics say, could make him a major star: "This Could Be the Night," a comedy with Jean Simmons; a screen version of "Hatful" and Elia Kazan's "A Face in the Crowd."

WILD PIRANHAS

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., April 19 (AP) — Persons who tire of them as pets may be infesting Canadian waters with man-eating tropical fish called piranhas. The species can adapt to cold northern waters, a fact probably unknown to owners who dump them in streams and lakes in Canada. A little larger than goldfish, piranhas in numbers have been known to devour a man within seconds after he has fallen into a tropical stream.

Texas And NO Authorized To Abandon Track

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved a Texas & New Orleans Railroad Co. request to abandon 17 miles of railroad in Angelina and Nacogdoches counties, Tex.

The commission also authorized the railroad to use the tracks of Angelina & Neches River Railroad Co. in Angelina county.

The railroad has asked for permission to abandon the line that extends from Dunagan to a point on the outskirts of the city of Nacogdoches. It said the move would result in considerable savings in operating expenses.

LOBBYIST FINED

Benson Cuts U.S. Wheat Supports

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson announced today that the government will cut 1958 wheat price supports to an average of $1.78 a bushel — 22 cents below the rate for the 1957 and 1956 crops.

The new rate — if approved by growers in a national referendum—would be 75 per cent of the so-called "fair" parity level compared with the current support rate of 80 per cent.

Assuming a crop of about 850 million bushels, the department said the new support level would mean farmers would get about 187 million dollars less than they are expected to receive under this year's $2--a-bushel rate.

Prices at Same Level

This also assumed that market prices would hover at about the support level as has been the case in recent years.

Benson also proclaimed a national 1958 wheat acreage allctment of 55 million acres — minimum permitttd by law.

This allotment, he said, with average yields and allowances for acreage placed in the soil bank, will produce a crop of about 800 million or more bushels.

This would mean a total 1958-59 wheat supply of 1,680,000,000 bushels when added to the estimated July 1, 1958 carryover of 875,000,000 bushels and estimated 1957-58 imports of 5,000,000 bushels.

While this would be considerably below the 1,825,000,000 bushels estimated for the coming 1957-58 marketing year, it still would be substantially larger than the estimated domestic and export needs during the 1958-59 marketing year.

Non-Commercial States

In the 12 non-commercial wheat-growing states — those having allotments of 25,000 acres or less—the 1958 price support rate will be 75 per cent of the rate for the commercial area. This would average out to about $1.33 a bushel.

Wheat acreage allotments have been in effect now for four years. Marketing quotas have been approved each year.

Following are acrage allotments for Southwestern states in the 1958 commercial wheat area compared with 1957 allotments (1958 first):

Arkansas, 49,334, 53,479; Colorado, 2,704,917, 2,766,025; Kansas, 10,638,208, 10615188; Missouri 1,273,623; New Mexico, 474,243, 470,705; Oklahoma, 4,859,635, 4,878,623; Texas, 4,164,302, 4,149,071; Utah, 316,06,8 314,303; Wyoming, 291,578, 298,678.

The 1958 wheat acrage in the 12 non-commercial states included:

Arizona 21,401; Louisiana, 6,302; Nevada, 12,317.

Ike Shakes Up Diplomats

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 19 (UP) — President Eisenhower designated a diplomat experienced in Latin American affairs today to become ambassador to Mexico replacing another veteran who will be sent on to the key listening post in Sweden.

The President nominated, subject to Congress' return from its Easter recess, Robert C. Hill, now assistant secretary of state for congressional relations, as ambassador to Mexico.

Franci. White was re-assigned from Mexico City to Stockholm.

White's transfer will bring John M. Cabot, now envoy of Sweden, back to this hempisphere as ambassador to Colombia replacing Philip W. Bonsal, recently named to Bolivia.

Prepares for Golf

The diplomatic shifts were announced by the temporary White House here as Eisenhower prepared for another 18 holes of golf on the famed Augusta national course where he has a cottage. Details of the visit of West German Chancellor Konrad Adanauer who will arrive in Washingtonn May 27 also were announced.

The White House plane, Columbine III, was sent to Washington today to pick up Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey and his wife, who will be Easter weekend guests of the Eisenhowers.

Also coming down on the return trip of the presidential plane will be a man who once ran for president — Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S. C.). Thurmond, who headed the 1948 Dixiecrat ticket, merely is being accorded a courtesy lift to his home ground. He lives at nearby Aiken, S. C.

Entered Service In 1943

Hill, the new envoy to Mexico, entered the foreign service in 1943 but after World War II, He became clerk of the Senate Banking Committee. He was named ambassador to Costa Rica in 1953 and to San Salvador in 1954. He has been on his Washington assignment for two years. His home is Littleton, N. H.

White, a native of Baltimore, is one of the old-timers in the diplomatic service. He first joined the service in 1915, retired in 1933 and came back 20 yesars later to undertake the Mexico City post.

Cabot, a career officer since 1926, has served in Sweden since 1954.

VIA DOLOROSA — WAY OF CROSS

Steps Of Christ Retraced By Pilgrims In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, April 19 (AP) — Easter pilgrims bearing heavy wooden crosses sorrowfully traced today the steps of Jesus on the road to Calvary.

Christians from the West and East, some wearing oriental shawls, hoods and turbans and speaking many different tongues, trod the flagstone streets of Old Jerusalem to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. In the line, too, were blue-bereted U. N. soldiers, joining in the singing of hymns.

Only about 400 pilgrims crossed from the Israeli side of Jerusalem into the Jordan-ruled sector of the city on this Good Friday, and few Americans or other Westerners were among them.

The sharp drop from the several thousand who made the pilgrimage across the city's dividing line last year was attributed to Middle East tensions and a U. S. ban on travel of American citizens to the troubled area. The ban was lifted early this month, too late, travel agents said, for organized tours or any sizable individual travel.

But in Arab Jerusalem, where most of the holy places are located, hotels were jammed with an estimated 4,000 visiting pilgrims. Most of these were Arab Christians who had come by other routes from Egypt, Cyprus and Syria.

Temperatures were chill as visitors assembled in the courtyard of a Moslem secondary school, inside the walls of Old City where tradition says Christ was tried before Pilate. During the day the skies were cloudy and there were intermittent drizzles.

In the courtyard, the pilgrims separated into groups according to language, with one person assigned to carry a huge wooden cross. At each Station of the Cross the group paused and heard a sermon in its own language. Known as the Via Dolorosa, the Way of the Cross winds through streets so narrow in many places wheeled vehicles cannot pass.

In the midst of the bizarre and shop district of Old City, often running beneath the vaulted roof which keeps the city in perpetual twilight, the Way of the Cross pauses at 14 points marking the sites where Christ was flogged and where he fell beneath the weight of his burden.

Last of the stations is the Holy Sepulchre, inside the crumbling old church which still bears on its walls and columns the Crusader crosses carved when this land was reconquered for Christians.

As the procession entered the courtyard of the Holy Sepulchre, the Moslem call to prayer from a nearby minaret split the air, momentarily drowning the hymns and sermons of the Christian pilgrims.

Actor Jailed For Kicking Photographer

LOS ANGELES, April 19 (AP)—Actor Anthony Franciosa went to jail today for kicking a photographer, right in his camera.

The onetime New York cafeteria counterman and his fiancee, actress Shelley Winters, had just made an unsuccessful bid in court on a Beverly Hills mansion and were a little disgruntled. They became even more upset when photographers asked them to pose.

"We can't have any pictures taken," pleaded Miss Winters. "He is still getting a divorce." The puzzling part of this was that they have been photographed together scores of times at night clubs.

One cameraman, Bill Walker of the Herald Express, started to snap a picture anyhow.

As Miss Winters stood by screaming, Franciosa, 28, kicked Walker, 42, knocked his camera to the ground and began pounding him. With Miss Winters, 33, still screaming, other cameramen pulled the two apart. Then police arrived and took Franciosa, handcuffed and in tears to jail. He was released on $250 bail. He is scheduled to appear in Municipal Court Monday to face an assault charge.

Apparently the only injury to anyone was a scratch on Walker's finger. Said Walker: "I intend to have him prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

An hour after the brawl, Franciosa's wife won a divorce in the Reno (Nev.) court of Dist. Judge Gordon Rice on the ground of "willful desertions."

The actor and Miss Winters have been keeping company since they appeared together on Broadway in "A Hatful of Rain."

Franciosa, a graduate of the New York Actor's Studio, has yet to be seen by the movie public. Unreleased are three films, any of which, critics say, could make him a major star: "This Could Be the Night," a comedy with Jean Simmons: a screen version of "Hatful" and Elia Kazan's "A Face in the Crowd."

WILD PIRANHAS

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., April 19 (AP) — Persons who tire of them as pets may be infesting Canadian waters with man-eating tropical fish called piranhas. The species can adapt to cold northern waters, a fact probably unknown to owners who dump them in streams and lakes in Canada. A little larger than goldfish, piranhas in numbers have been known to devour a man within seconds after he has fallen into a tropical stream.

Texas And NO Authorized To Abandon Track

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved a Texas & New Orleans Railroad Co. request to abandon 17 miles of railroad in Angelina and Nacogdoches counties, Tex.

The commission also authorized the railroad to use the tracks of Angelina & Neches River Railroad Co. in Angelina county.

The railroad has asked for permission to abandon the line that extends from Dunagan to a point on the outskirts of the city of Nacogdoches. It said the move would result in considerable savings in operating expenses.

LOBBYIST FINED

AUSTIN, April 19 (UP)—A pro-segregation lobbyist has paid a $25 fine for disturbing the peace after being arrested for carrying a prohibited weapon — a .32-caliber snub-nosed revolver.

Police arrested Pat Smith, 33, of Kilgore, early Thursday morning at an Austin hospital where he had gone for treatment of a cut lip.

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

The Day He Came....

By Edith A. Johnson

Housewife, Portland, Oregon

It was Palm Sunday, 1954, and we were supposed to be celebrating the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem.

But in my mood it seemed we had all come only to take part in the parade, not to celebrate the arrival of Christ. I utterly failed to find Him as I entered church that morning.

At a muted rustling in the congregation, I glanced up and saw everyone turn to watch the arrival of the two most influential members of the congregation.

One was a well-known senator, noted for his fine oratory, his many charities, and for his faculty of organizing work in the Episcopal Church. The other was the editor of our city's most important newspaper. Though slight and quiet, he was a man of immense power.

One Empty Seat

They sat down together. Then I noticed that the church was completely full, except for one additional seat next to the senator and the editor.

The minister's voice echoed through the church, and the service began. The organ pealed forth a hymn, and the white-robed choir started its procession down the aisle. We arose and joined them in song, but even the soaring majesty of the hymn left me empty.

And then, as the choir passed, I saw old Tom Smith.

He was coming down the aisle all by himself, looking for a place to sit.

He could shuffle only a few feet at a time. He walked with two canes. His small, shrunken body was only the ghost of the body that would have been his, if paralysis had not struck.

Just Smiled

Lately his vocal chords had been attacked. It was difficult to understand him when he spoke; so Tom just nolded pleasantly to people or flashed his famous smile.

Old Tom was a faithful attendant at church. He usually arrived early. Today, for some unknown reason, he was late.

I watched him creep slowly down the aisle in the wake of the choir. He was looking around for a seat when he spotted the place next to the august two.

Tom stepped towards he pew. The senator and editor squeezed together and made room for him. Tom smiled his thanks.

The service went on. Finally the Communion supper began. The congregation made its way down the aisle to the Communion table. Even I, with sacrilege in my heart dared to walk up to the altar rail.

A Prayer

I arrived just ahead of the editor and the senator. I made my lowly obeisance, crossed my hands in ritual, and received the holy wafer and the consecrated wine.

I found myself praying, "Oh Father, let me believe. Let me find Your Spirit somewhere in this church today."

Tears dropped on my hands. But it was as if a curtain were between me and God. I still felt desolate and lost, and I hurried back to my seat.

The congregants seated themselves quietly as they returned, awaiting the final call to prayer. I looked across the aisle, and next to the senator and the editor, I saw old Tom Smith. He was not seated like the rest of us. He was kneeling, with his poor little misshapen legs pressed on the hard bench.

Couldn't Go Forward

I realized suddenly that he could not go forward to receive Communion. But he knelt anyhow, as if he were at the altar rail.

Before the minister proceeded to the final call to prayer he bent down, lifted high the Host, and with slow and stately dignity he moved to the pew where old Tom knelt. The sun seemed to shine a little brighter through the stained glass windows. The music seemed a little softer. Light from the side windows flashed in the Cup, and a stillness dropped over the congregation.

The old man's face grew luminous as the minister approached. Tom kept folding and unfolding his crooked fingers until the pastor stood opposite him. As he received the Host, there was the look of heaven in his face. It seemed to me as if this were truly the embodiment of triumph over adversity.

All Knelt

And as Tom took Communion there, alone, in pain, something new entered me, and it must have come to others at the same time because all of a sudden the senator and the editor slipped from their seats.

And they knelt, too. They clasped their hands. They bowed their heads.

Then I found myself on my knees, too. I saw others follow. One by one every person in that church knelt again, to be with old Tom Smith as he received the Chalice.

And then it was, that Palm Sunday, that I knew the Spirit of Christ had come among us — not in the parade, nor in the greatness of dignitaries, but in the strength of the faith of a crippled, old man.

Safecracker Trio Slain In Chicago

CHICAGO, April 19 (UP)—Three safecrackers walked into a police trap on the 11th floor of a Loop department store today and died trying to shoot their way through a crossfire of machine guns and shotgun shells

A tip from the underworld, possibly from a rival gang, set the trap for the safecrackers in the darkness of Mandel's department store. The prize was an estimated $150,000 to $250,000 locked up in the store's safe.

A seven-man detective stakeout, disguised as janitors so that even the store police didn't know their identity, waited more than seven hours in the blackness for the burglars to appear.

A short time after midnight, three men emerged from the gloom, carrying a suitcase and cardboard carton loaden with two portable acetylene gas tanks, welding torches and crowbars. They passed within a few feet of the detectives hidden about the small cashier's office containing the safe.

Then he shouted "police officers! give up!" O'Neill fired a machine-gun blast into the ceiling as he yelled.

The safecrackers, all wearing gloves and carrying pistols, came charging out of the office, firing in front of them. They ran into the concentrated fire of four shotguns and three sub-machine guns.

The gunmen were dropped in a triangular pattern 25 feet from the safe. One of them was James Rentner, 30, ex-suburban policeman and a former Mandel store detective until he was fired. The others were James Wulf, 28, and Vincent Bartemio, 32. None of the policemen were injured.

Police said Renther kept firing until he hit the floor, his empty gun locked in his hand. A small transistor radio, tuned to police calls, kept blaring from Wulf's pocket after he was dead.

Mandel's spacious credit and business offices looked like a no-man's land. Bullet holes pocked the maze of glass partitions and gouged hunks from wood and plaster walls. A burglar alarm on top of the safe, set off when a bullet snapped its wiring, shrieked in the post-battle silence.

DEATH EVERY DAY

Twining Promotion Signaled Record Shift Of AF Brass

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — President Eisenhower's selection of Gen. Nathan F. Twining to head the Joint Chiefs of Staff has touched off one of the greatest shfits among Air Force brass in U. S. history.

Informed sources predicted today that before the changes now underway are completed, more than 140 Air Force generals will have taken new assignments.

That is almost a third of the generals in the air service.

There were reports that the chiefs of at least four major Air Force commands have expressed their intention to retire.

They are Gen. O. P. Weyland, chief of the Tactical Air Command; Gen. Earle (Pat) Partridge, head of the Continental Air Defense Command; Lt. Gen. Joseph Smith, commander of the Military Air Transport Service; and Lt. Gen. Charles Stone, commander of the Continental Air Command.

The shift was started by the promotion of Twining from Air Force chief of staff to chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He will take his new post in Mid-August, succeeding Adm. Arthur W. Radford.

Gen. Thomas D. White, the Air Force vice chief of staff, was promoted to Twining's old job and Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of the Strategic Air Command, was named to become vice chief of staff.

Appointment of a successor to LeMay at the Strategic Air Command was expected soon.

Prominently mentioned for that post were Lt. Gen. Frank Everest, deputy chief of staff for operations; Lt. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, deputy chief of personnel; and Lt. Gen. Thomas Power, chief of the Air Research and Development Command.

Among others prominently mentioned for promotions were Lt. Gen. Francis Griswold, deputy commander of SAC, considered likely to succeed Weyland at TAC; and Lt. Gen. William Turner, commander in chief of the U. S. Air Force in Europe, mentioned as likely to succeed Smith at MATS.

354,000 Bbls. Of Oil Go To Europe Daily

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — The Interior Department announced today that emergency shipments of United States oils to western Europe averaged 354,000 barrels daily during the week ended April 10.

This was a drop of 211,000 barrels under the average in the week ended April 3. However, the department said the over-all oil lift to help Europe, which was started after the Suez Canal was closed, has now reached a level equaling Europe's normal demands.

The department added that because of this and the reduced amount being shipped from this country it was discontinuing weekly reports on U. S. shipments.

Dizzy Dean May Soon Become Movie Star

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 (AP) — Dizzy Dean, who used to be a pitcher and now is a baseball announcer, may soon be a movie star.

C. V. Whitney, who heads a film producing company, said he has offered the onetime St. Louis Cardinals pitching ace a "four-week, five-figure" contract to appear in "The Missouri Traveler."

Ol' Diz, who reportedly favors the deal, would play the part of a small town storekeeper, Whitney said.

The Day He Came....

By Edith A. Johnson
Housewife, Portland, Oregon

It was Palm Sunday, 1954, and we were supposed to be celebrating the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem.

But in my mood it seemed we had all come only to take part in the parade, not to celebrate the arrival of Christ. I utterly failed to find Him as I entered church that morning.

At a muted rustling in the congregation, I glanced up and saw everyone turn to watch the arrival of the two most influential members of the congregation.

One was a well-known senator, noted for his fine oratory, his many charities, and for his faculty of organizing work in the Episcopal Church. The other was the editor of our city's most important newspaper. Though slight and quiet, he was a man of immense power.

One Empty Seat

They sat down together. Then I noticed that the church was completely full, except for one additional seat next to the senator and the editor.

The minister's voice echoed through the church, and the service began. The organ pealed forth a hymn, and the white-robed choir started its procession down the aisle. We arose and joined them in song, but even the soaring majesty of the hymn left me empty.

And then, as the choir passed, I saw old Tom Smith.

He was coming down the aisle all by himself, looking for a place to sit.

He could shuffle only a few feet at a time. He walked with two canes. His small, shrunken body was only the ghost of the body that would have been his, if paralysis had not struck.

Just Smiled

Lately his vocal chords had been attacked. It was difficult to understand him when he spoke; so Tom just nodded pleasantly to people or flashed his famous smile.

Old Tom was a faithful attendant at church. He usually arrived early. Today, for some unknown reason, he was late.

I watched him creep slowly down the aisle in the wake of the choir. He was looking around for a seat when he spotted the place next to the august two.

Tom stepped towards he pew. The senator and editor squeezed together and made room for him. Tom smiled his thanks.

The service went on. Finally the Communion supper began. The congregation made its way down the aisle to the Communion table. Even I, with sacrilege in my heart dared to walk up to the altar rail.

A Prayer

I arrived just ahead of the editor and the senator. I made my lowly obeisance, crossed my hands in ritual, and received the holy wafer and the consecrated wine.

I found myself praying, "Oh Father, let me believe. Let me find Your Spirit somewhere in this church today."

Tears dropped on my hands. But it was as if a curtain were between me and God. I still felt desolate and lost, and I hurried back to my seat.

The congregants seated themselves quietly as they returned, awaiting the final call to prayer. I looked across the aisle, and next to the senator and the editor, I saw old Tom Smith. He was not seated like the rest of us. He was kneeling, with his poor little misshapen legs pressed on the hard bench.

Couldn't Go Forward

I realized suddenly that he could not go forward to receive Communion. But he knelt anyhow, as if he were at the altar rail.

Before the minister proceeded to the final call to prayer he bent down, lifted high the Host, and with slow and stately dignity he moved to the pew where old Tom knelt. The sun seemed to shine a little brighter through the stained glass windows. The music seemed a little softer. Light from the side windows flashed in the Cup, and a stillness dropped over the congregation.

The old man's face grew luminous as the minister approached. Tom kept folding and unfolding his crooked fingers until the pastor stood opposite him. As he received the Host, there was the look of heaven in his face. It seemed to me as if this were truly the embodiment of triumph over adversity.

All Knelt

And as Tom took Communion there, alone, in pain, something new entered me, and it must have come to others at the same time because all of a sudden the senator and the editor slipped from their seats.

Then I found myself on my knees, too. I saw others follow. One by one every person in that church knelt again, to be with old Tom Smith as he received the Chalice.

And then it was, that Palm Sunday, that I knew the Spirit of Christ had come among us — not in the parade, nor in the greatness of dignitaries, but in the strength of the faith of a crippled, old man.

Safecracker Trio Slain In Chicago

CHICAGO, April 19 (UP)—Three safecrackers walked into a police trap on the 11th floor of a Loop department store today and died trying to shoot their way through a crossfire of machine guns and shotgun shells

A tip from the underworld, possibly from a rival gang, set the trap for the safecrackers in the darkness of Mandel's department store. The prize was an estimated $150,000 to $250,000 locked up in the store's safe.

A seven-man detective stakeout, disguised as janitors so that even the store police didn't know their identity, waited more than seven hours in the blackness for the burglars to appear.

A short time after midnight, three men emerged from the gloom, carrying a suitcase and cardboard carton loaden with two portable acetylene gas tanks, welding torches and crowbars. They passed within a few feet of the detectives hidden about the small cashier's office containing the safe.

Then he shouted "police officers! give up!" O'Neill fired a machine-gun blast into the ceiling as he yelled.

The safecrackers, all wearing gloves and carrying pistols, came charging out of the office, firing in front of them. They ran into the concentrated fire of four shot guns and three sub-machine guns

The gunmen were dropped in a triangular pattern 25 feet from the safe. One of them was James Rentner, 30, ex - suburban policeman and a former Mandel store detective until he was fired. The others were James Wulf, 28, and Vincent Bartemio, 32. None of the policemen were injured.

Police said Renther kept firing until he hit the floor, his empty gun locked in his hand. A small transistor radio, tuned to police calls, kept blaring from Wulf's pocket after he was dead.

Mandel's spacious credit and business offices looked like a no-man's land. Bullet holes pocked the maze of glass partitions and gouged hunks from wood and plaster walls. A burglar alarm on top of the safe, set off when a bullet snapped its wiring, shrieked in the post-battle silence.

DEATH EVERY DAY
